HUERTA REJECTS ALL PROPOSALS; BLAMES WILSON

Says Neither Our Public Nor Our Congress Is Behind His Mexican Policy.

Fail to See Tangle Is Any Nearer Solution, but Still Hope—Wilson Against Lifting Embargo on Arms.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—The Mexican Government indicated to-day that it did not intend to make public the text of its answer to the note from ex-Gov. John Lind of Minnesota, President Wilson's personal emissary to this city, unless the United States Government should publish the communication, and that it trusted to the Administration in Washington to observe the same attitude.

The Government's attitude in regard to the communication was due, it is said, not to a possibility of retraction of its position in respect to the pending negotiations for the restoration of peace in this republic, but to its desire not to affect public opinion here or in the United States in such a way as to force hasty action by either Government.

Nevertheless it is known that the Huerta Administration, in formally rejecting the proposals from Washington, blames President Wilson for the non-recognition policy and holds that he has not the support of Congress or the American public.

The reported criticism of Aureliano Urrutia, Minister of the Interior, by Washington officials is taken in bad grace. It is believed in some quarters that the criticism may tend to increase the tangle in political affairs between the two nations, and may place further difficulties in the way of negotiations.

Minister Urrutia is close to President Huerta, and it is thought that when he made his assertions concerning the attitude of the Mexican Government toward President Wilson's peace proposal he was voicing the views of Provisional President Huerta.

There is an inclination here to believe that Dr. William Bayard Hale, who has become known as one of President Wilson's informants in regard to affairs in Mexico, is responsible for the attitude of Washington officials toward Minister Urrutia. As a consequence the difficulty of his position and that of ex-Gov. Lind has been increased.

Foreigners discussed to-day the possibility of asking Dr. Hale to leave the country in order to avoid further complication of the relations between the United States and Mexico, and also to avoid putting into jeopardy the lives and interests of Americans dwelling in this republic.

The delay in transmission of the Mexican Government's answer to Washington's peace proposal is believed by many Mexican officials to be intentional.

Mexico's Policy Settled.

Prominent politicians, men close to President Huerta, agreed to-day in the following statement:

"The policy of the Mexican Government has been determined on and it is highly mprobable that anything will change it. The Huerta Administration is fully cognizant of the gravity of its steps, the attitude of European Powers and the financial consequences. The Government already has provided for every contingency."

Mexico City papers comment editorially to-day on the possibility of the removal of the embargo on arms by the United States and that coun-

MANY ROBBERIES IN LONDON

Lady Angela Forbes and Grace La Rue the Chief Victims.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Lady Angela Forbes, a sister of the Earl of Rosslyn, and Grace La Rue, the American actress, who is now appearing at the Palace Theatre, have been the chief victims of an extensive series of thefts in the West End of London, which have caused Scotland Yard to issue a warning to householders.

In Lady Angela's case the thieves appear to have been a man and a woman recently engaged as cook and housemaid. Miss La Rue's loss was greater, amounting, according to details furnished to the police, in money and jewels to over $10,000. Miss La Rue is living in Savoy Mansions. Her flat was broken into while she and her husband were at the theatre.

Miss La Rue states that she was the victim of a robbery just before she left New York.

AUTO PARTY HIT 3 IN HOUR.

Strike Another Auto, Man and Farm Wagon—Owner in Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 20.—Andrew J. Downs of the contracting firm of Lathrop & Shea of Hartford, lies seriously injured in the Vassar Brothers' Hospital here at midnight to-night as a result of an automobile accident on the Plesant Valley Road, two miles to the east of Poughkeepsie.

The accident was the third within an hour which had befallen a motoring party from Connecticut, and followed the fining of the party $5 by City Judge Spratt because they had persisted in crossing a street during the Odd Fellows' parade when a policeman had ordered them back.

After the fine was paid, Downs and his friends pushed on out of town. The first accident was a collision with another automobile in which they ripped off the running board of the other machine. The second accident was when they ran down Tolland James, Jr., in the streets of Poughkeepsie, and the third was when they struck the farm wagon of William Wright of Pleasant Valley at 11:30 o'clock to-night. Wright and his wife and little girl were thrown from their wagon and the rear wheels of the wagon were ripped off.

It was the iron tire of one of these wheels which sent Downs to the hospital. It rebounded and struck him in the forehead with such force that the attending physician believes the skull was fractured.

With Downs was William Backes, chief engineer of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, and G. W. Wieden of New Haven.

Downs and the chauffeur, W. J. Brock of Ansonia, Conn., were held in $100 bail for appearance in court to-morrow morning, when an inquiry into the accident will be begun.

DYING AFTER AUTO CRASH.

Miss Trommer and Miller on a Cycle Ran Into a Motor Car.

Miss Edith Trommer, 17 years old, of 77 Enfield Street, Brooklyn, and Conrad Miller, 21 years old, of 87 Stone Avenue, Brooklyn, are dying in St. Mary's Hospital, in that borough, of injuries suffered in a head-on collision between a motor cycle, upon which they were riding, and an auto, early this morning.

The motor cycle was going west in Pitkin Avenue at a high rate of speed, and as it approached Rockaway Avenue, along which the Hamburg Avenue trolley tracks run, young Miller saw the automobile coming toward them a block away.

A trolley car crossed Pitkin Avenue as Miller was about to drive across the tracks and when it had passed the automobile was directly in front of the young man and woman on the cycle. Miss Trommer and Miller were sent headlong against the auto.

The automobile was in charge of Harry Kaufman of 104 Amboy Street, and was owned by Bernhard Petum of 1,946 Bergen Street, Brooklyn.

SOUGHT DEATH TOGETHER

Boy and Girl Sweethearts in Double Tragedy at Yonkers.

At 1 o'clock this morning the body of 19-year-old Charles Rich was found lying in the bushes near Vista Avenue and Thomas Street in the Neperhan Heights section of Yonkers. He had died of a bullet wound in the heart and the revolver lay close to his hand. Not far away on the sidewalk lay 17-year-old Rose Hamilton, sister of Mrs. Henri C. Moran, with whom she made her home. The girl had been shot in the breast.

She was discovered unconscious by Miss Rena E. Oakley, daughter of Solomon D. Oakley of Vista Avenue, who was motoring home from New York. The girl was lifted into the Oakley car and rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, but the surgeons there said there was no chance of her recovery.

After the news of the double tragedy was hurried to the Moran home, in Tuckahoe Road, a note signed by the two young people was found on the verandah of the house. It said:

"We will end all to-night."

Rich, whose home is in Rossiter Avenue, had been attentive to Miss Hamilton for some time, and when he and she left the Moran home at 10 o'clock last night to take a stroll nothing was thought of it.

CHASED BY A SET OF SILVER.

Summit Folk Hope It Will Catch Mrs. Fisher in Italy.

The liner France, which sailed for Havre yesterday, carried in its bullion room a package of silver sent in pursuit of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Fisher, who sailed on Tuesday on the Carpathia. Dr. Fisher, who had been vice principal of the Summit (N. J.) High School, is bound for Constantinople to take the chair of assistant professor of Modern History at Robert College.

Friends had bought a silver set as a parting gift to Mrs. Fisher, whose interest in educational and suffrage affairs in Summit had brought her a wide acquaintance. There was much disappointment among these friends at the pier when the package failed to arrive before the Carpathia sailed. The package was not found until yesterday morning, when a special messenger hurried it aboard La France.

Arrangements have been made through the American Express Company to expedite the package across the continent to Naples, where the Carpathia will land Dr. and Mrs. Fisher on their way to Constantinople. The express company has guaranteed that the package will overtake the Fishers on their way.

62 IMPRISONED IN TUNNEL FIRE

Aqueduct Shaft in Harlem Blazes Up, Setting Near-by Houses Aflame.

THREE WORKMEN ARE DYING

AIR SUPPLY WAS SHUT OFF

Chief Kenlon Led in Rescuers Just in Time—Fire Started in Blacksmith's Shop at Shaft Mouth.

Three men were hurt mortally and sixty-two others were penned in the tunnel at the foot of Shaft 9 of the Catskill Aqueduct at 149th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, from which the air had been cut off by a fire which started in the blacksmith's shop at the head of the shaft at 5:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The policemen, firemen, and employes of the aqueduct fought hard to rescue the imprisoned men, but notwithstanding their efforts it was 11 o'clock last night before the first of those caught in the shaft were brought to the surface.

The heat from the blaze was so intense that the window casings of the apartment houses on both sides of St. Nicholas Avenue, from 149th Street to 150th Street, caught fire, and soon seven buildings were in flames. Police reserves from the West 152d Street Police Station and from the Polo Grounds and adjoining precincts were ordered to see that the tenants left the burning houses, and more than 100 families were driven into the street and beyond the fire lines which were established within two blocks of the blaze. Many of those who lived in the burning buildings were cut by glass which fell from the heat-shattered windows. In the case of all the apartment houses, the fires were confined to the fronts of the buildings.

Dynamite Imperils Workers.

The danger to those imprisoned in the shaft was increased by the fact that in the northern tunnel 900 pounds of dynamite were stored in a magazine. This knowledge made the police anxious to clear the houses in the vicinity of tenants, for if the dynamite had exploded the damage would have been widespread.

Here is a list of those who were hurt in the shaft fire, all of whom were at work in the building at the mouth of the cutting:

CALL, DEXTER, 30 years old, of 518 West 145th Street; left leg broken and internal injuries; dying at Washington Heights Hospital.

SHONTUG, PETER, 26 years old, of 297 Seventh Avenue; burned about the head and body; taken to J. Hood Wright Hospital.

THURSTON, CLAYTON, 23 years old, of 108 West 131st Street; left leg broken and internal injuries; dying in Washington Heights Hospital.

WINN, HORACE, 22 years old, of 14 West 132d Street; leg broken and internal injuries; dying at Washington Heights Hospital.

The fire was discovered by S. R. Mitchell, the tunnel foreman, who was preparing to descend in the cage with fourteen men at 5:20 o'clock. He saw a wisp of smoke curling up from the corner of the shaft directly adjoining the blacksmith shop. He called to those above to raise the cage and then warned his brother, George V. Mitchell, the foreman, that the shaft was on fire. The foreman sent an employe, John Hollander, to turn in an alarm of fire.

The building surrounding the head of the shaft was some sixty feet high, and contained the blacksmith shop, the paymaster's and timekeeper's offices, and the office of Supt. Michael Quinn of the Pittsburgh Contracting Company, which is doing the work at this point.

For more than two hours the work of the firemen was restricted to fighting the flames in the shaft building and in the buildings on either side of the street. The first alarm of fire summoned Capt. Regan of Engine 3, who ordered a second alarm. Later a third alarm brought Fire Chief Kenlon and nineteen pieces of apparatus. Ambulances were called from the Washington Heights, Harlem and J. Hood Wright Hospitals, and the surgeons were kept busy beyond the fire lines treating cuts and bruises.

Air Supply Cut Off.

The knowledge that men were imprisoned in the tunnel led the workmen brought to the shaft by the construction company to bend every effort toward keeping the electric dynamo which pumped fresh air to the bottom of the shaft in operation, but the machinery was wrecked five minutes after the blaze started, and the steel cables by which the cage was lowered in the shaft were broken by the heat.

The shaft, which is 450 feet deep, has eight landings, at fifty-foot intervals. Chief Kenlon directed that ladders should be lowered from landing to landing, and the Chief, with his aid, Fire Lieut. Rankin, recruited a party of volunteers to descend the shaft as soon as the fire was under sufficient control to permit it. Those in the rescue party were Supt. Michael Quinn, Secretary George V. Flinn of the construction company, Fire Capt. Walker of Truck 23, Firemen Hayes and Corey, Chief Kenlon, and Lieut. Rankin. One of the party was left on each successive landing, until finally Kenlon got to the last landing. There is a speaking tube running along the side of the shaft, which extends into both the northern and southern tunnels, but the upper part of this tube had been destroyed in cutting away the blazing timber. Kenlon found that his chances of getting into the tunnel from the shaft were hopeless because of the water and débris which had collected there, but he found the speaking tube, and through

NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES.

DIGGS FOUND GUILTY IN SLAVERY CASE

Judge Van Fleet's Charge Was Very Severe on the Defendant.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—Maury I. Diggs, former State Architect of California, was to-night found guilty of violation of the Mann White Slave law in taking Marsha Warrington from Sacramento to Reno. The case went to the jury late in the afternoon without any attempt by the defense to deny that Diggs transported the girl across the State line and that the pair spent three days at Reno as husband and wife.

After being out three hours and five minutes, the jury returned to ask the court what form the verdict should take if they were agreed on some of the counts in the indictment and not on the others.

Judge Van Fleet instructed them to make their findings on those counts as to which they were agreed. A verdict of guilty on any one count, he said, would be a verdict of guilty of violating the statute and would carry the penalty imposed by the statute.

There were six counts in the indictment, and the jury found a verdict of guilty on the first four. Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years and a minimum of one year in a Federal penitentiary.

Diggs, his wife, father, and mother, and his three aunts, Mrs. Drew Caminetti, and Mrs. Anthony Caminetti, were in court, waiting for the verdict. Diggs was pale, and his wife showed the tension she was under by the twitching of her lips, and the lessened bloom of her rich color. The questions of the foreman clearly foreshadowed the coming verdict, and gave them time to steel themselves for the final shock, and there was no demonstration of any sort when the expected blow fell.

Nine ballots were taken by the jury and from the first the jurors were unanimous for conviction on the first four counts, but on the fifth, charging the defendant with persuading, advising, and inducing Marsha Warrington to go from Sacramento to Reno for immoral purposes, and on the sixth, charging the same offense, with respect to Lola Norris, they were as obstinately disagreed.

With reference to Marsha Warrington the vote stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction for the nine consecutive ballots. With reference to Lola Norris the voted stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal, likewise for the nine consecutive ballots.

Sentence will be pronounced a week from Tuesday.

Judge Van Fleet set the bail at $5,000 on each count, making $20,000 in all. I. P. Diggs, the defendant's father, and Marshall Diggs, his uncle, were ready with bonds in the amount named.

In view of the contention of the defense that no criminally immoral purpose had been proved, the interpretation of the statute by the Judge was awaited with much interest. On this point he said in part:

"The act, so far as here involved, provides in substance that any person who shall knowingly transport * * * in interstate commerce any woman or girl for any immoral purpose * * * shall be deemed guilty of a felony and punished as therein provided.

"As I have heretofore intimated to you, it is immaterial what the character of the two girls involved in these charges was at the time of the acts charged. The act denounces the carrying in inter-State commerce for the immoral purposes specified of any woman or girl."

The defense did not contradict this testimony.

Referring to the fact that Diggs, in testifying in his own behalf, gave no account of the incidents attending the trip to Reno, the court said:

"This was the defendant's privilege; but in passing upon the evidence you have a right to take this omission of the defendant into consideration, since it is a legitimate inference that, could he have explained the incriminating evidence against him, he would have done so.

"Even if you find that the defendant and his companion Caminetti were actuated in their departure or flight from Sacramento by a fear of exposure or arrest, but that nevertheless in taking these two girls along there existed the intention to subject them to the immoral purpose charged, the defendant is guilty."

The defense took exception to the charge in general and to specific instructions.

LINKS CASE WITH POSTAL JOB.

Spreckels Opposes Fox for Sacramento Post.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The Diggs-Caminetti case has again come up to bother the Wilson Administration. The latest phase of this affair arose to-day by an attack made before a sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads on Thomas Fox, Postmaster at Sacramento. Mr. Fox was nominated for this position by President Wilson, the nomination was confirmed on Aug. 5, and the appointment has been made.

Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, who had been a firm supporter of President Wilson and was understood to have been the President's choice for Ambassador to Germany, made the attack. He told the sub-committee that Fox was the Democratic political boss of Sacramento and was unfitted to hold a Federal office, because of corporation affiliations. In the course of his argument Mr. Spreckels intimated that Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, and the father of Drew Caminetti, co-defendant with Maury Diggs in the white slave case, had supported Fox's effort to obtain the Sacramento postmastership in order to get the influence of Fox in behalf of Drew Caminetti.

Mr. Spreckels quoted a remark he said had been made to him by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, with the evident intention of reflecting on Mr. Lane. He said he had voiced his opposition to Fox during a visit to Secretary Lane, and that Mr. Lane had said in effect:

"Your political reformers ought to begin to realize that you have got to recognize men like Fox. Besides, he supported me for Governor."

Secretary Lane is on the Pacific Coast.

'BIG TIM' SLIPS AWAY POLICE HUNT FOR HIM

Friends Thought He Was Lost, but He Was Simply Visiting His Old Haunts.

Congressman Timothy D. Sullivan, who hasn't been hailed along the Bowery as "Big Tim" for more than a year, grew restive yesterday under the watchfulness of the two nurses who have had him in charge at the Hotel St. Denis, and, slipping away from them, went out alone for a walk.

His disappearance, coupled with his failure to take his nurses and intimate friends into his confidence, caused some alarm and disconcerted a great many people. When old acquaintances met him on the street they greeted him cordially and then hurried away to telephone "Larry" Mulligan, the Congressman's half brother, that they had met "Big Tim" strolling about "all by his lonesome."

Mulligan himself spent several hours in a vain effort to find "Big Tim" and induce him to return to his hotel and his two nurses. Police Headquarters also became interested when excited Bowery folk telephoned that they had seen "Big Tim" abroad on the street, and that it didn't seem quite right that he should be out alone.

Police Headquarters, upon the insistence of several close friends of the Congressman, sent out a confidential alarm for him. Policemen were instructed not to arrest him if they encountered him anywhere on the streets, but to notify the Hotel St. Denis, where friends would be in readiness to go after him, wherever he might be found.

It was not until 9:30 o'clock at night that word was received at the hotel from "Big Tim." At that hour he called up the St. Denis and asked to speak to Larry Mulligan, who would be found standing around somewhere in the lobby, he assured the telephone operator. Mr. Mulligan was there, all right, waiting for news. He had been calling up many of the familiar haunts of "Big Tim" on the telephone and was becoming concerned because none of them could report where "Big Tim" was, although he had been seen at most of them during the day.

"I had a nice talk with 'Big Tim,'" Mulligan said, as he emerged from the telephone booth, "and he's coming back to his rooms in half an hour. He wants to know if the nurses are there all right, and wants his dinner prepared for him. He seemed in fine shape."

Mulligan then telephoned to Police Headquarters to have the order for a confidential alarm revoked. He disappeared from the St. Denis for a time, and when he returned "Big Tim" was with him.

"I can tell you this much," said Mulligan last night when asked about "Big Tim's" disappearance. "When 'Big Tim' came back from Europe on July 17, after his trip abroad to take the rest cure, I didn't think he was worth two cents physically. Now he's a winner. He's 95 per cent. well again. He went out for a walk, and now he's back again all right. That's all there is to it. He has so far recovered that he doesn't consider he has to ask the nurses about going out any more."

In spite of Mulligan's assurances, some of those associated with him in the search for "Big Tim" were clearly worried. The mental ailment from which the Congressman has suffered for nearly a year caused his retirement from Bowery politics last December. In January he went to Europe to take a rest cure and remained there until July. He arrived home on the steamship Imperator on July 17.

BOYCOTT JACK JOHNSON.

London Music Hall Artists Will Refuse to Perform if He Appears.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—A remarkable storm of protest has followed the announcement that Jack Johnson is billed to appear at a London vaudeville house on Aug. 25. Several clergymen have emphatically appealed against his appearance on the stage here, and leading members of the vaudeville profession freely condemn the engagement.

There is no objection on the ground of color. It is pointed out that many negro comedians appear nightly in London music halls.

A meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation will be held to-day, when steps to give practical effect to the protests will be considered.

Johnson's manager deprecates the opposition, stating that the music hall is engaging not a fugitive from justice but the world's champion pugilist. The Director of the syndicate which engaged Johnson says: "This salient fact should be remembered: Whatever Johnson may have done in America, his act would not have been a crime if he had been a white man."

LONDON, Aug. 20.—If Jack Johnson, the American pugilist, appears at the London music hall in which he is booked to give a boxing turn on Aug. 25 none of the other artists will perform, according to a statement issued to the newspapers here this evening.

$100 FOR GOOD TEMPER.

Father Alleges Daughter Became Disobedient After Injury.

On the ground that the janitress of the apartment house where he was living ruined the naturally good disposition of his four-year-old daughter, Kate, by throwing an ash can against her and knocking her down the steps, Sheriff Harburger's "millionaire jury" awarded $100 damages yesterday to Max Fendner against Sigmund Greenberg, owner of the house at 64 East 103d Street, who employed the janitress who caused the injuries.

Fendner said that his daughter was before the accident of an obedient and loving disposition, but that on June 19 the janitress, through her carelessness, allowed an ash can she was carrying to slip and strike the child, inflicting a deep gash on her head. After this accident, the father said, his child became irritable and disobedient.

TO CHARGE SULZER WITH USURPATION

Accusation Based on Retention of Office to be Added to Articles of Impeachment.

PROCLAMATION BY GLYNN

RECESS BY LEGISLATURE

Adjourns to Next Week Without Acting on Recalcitrant Witnesses—Glynn Now Has His Own Suite.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—A formal charge of usurpation will be lodged against William Sulzer with the High Court of Impeachment when that tribunal meets here on Sept. 18. This became known after a meeting of the Trustees of Public Buildings held at noon to-day, at which quarters were officially assigned to acting Gov. Martin H. Glynn from which to direct the affairs of the State. To-night there are two suites in the Capitol with the legend "Executive Chamber" painted on the door. Mr. Glynn's suite is on the third floor, adjoining the Assembly Chamber. Mr. Sulzer's is on the floor below.

Acting Gov. Glynn, after he had been installed in his new quarters, issued a proclamation in which he outlined his policy and summoned all the heads of State Departments, as well as the people of the State at large, to rally to his support to the end that he might be able to bring order out of chaos in the affairs of the State administration. Mr. Glynn disclaimed any intention of inaugurating new policies or making any considerable changes in the civil personnel of the State, pending a decision from the High Court of Impeachment. His statement follows:

Glynn's Purposes and Policy.

Owing to the duties thrust upon me by the Constitution, I wish to make clear the policy I purpose to pursue as Acting Governor.

I do not intend to employ a temporary occupancy of the Governorship for the purpose of partisan warfare.

Under me as Acting Governor there will be no political earthquakes and no factional reprisals.

I have no intention of removing departmental heads for mere political reasons.

I propose to discharge my sworn obligations for the best interest of the public.

I ask the hearty co-operation of all State officials and all good citizens to help bring order out of chaos in the State Government until the Court of Impeachment shall have rendered a verdict.

The duties devolving upon me I did not seek. They are imposed upon me temporarily by the Constitution, and I am determined to live up to the Constitution.

I believe in law and order, and the affairs of the State must proceed in an orderly manner, according to constitutional provisions.

I propose to discharge the duties of Acting Governor without fear or favor, without ostentation or advertisement, without factional purpose or personal motive.

No act of mine will compound the present confusion. Official chaos must end and the affairs of the State proceed as if no impeachment proceedings were pending. Until the Court of Impeachment renders its decision I intend to do only such things as may be necessary for the smooth running of the business of the State.

Every Act One of Usurpation.

When the articles of impeachment were filed with the Senate last week the Board of Managers, who will conduct the prosecution against Mr. Sulzer, reserved to themselves the right to add new charges to the formidable list contained in the original indictment. It was learned to-day that one of the lawyers connected with the impeachment proceedings was at work preparing supplementary articles in which it would be urged that every official act of Mr. Sulzer since the original articles were filed had been an act of usurpation. Each act, according to lawyers at the Capitol, constitutes a high misdemeanor.

The impeachment managers held a brief conference to-day in the room of Aaron J. Levy, majority leader of the Assembly, who is Chairman of the board. Edgar Truman Brackett of Saratoga, who has been retained as one of the counsel for the prosecution before the High Court of Impeachment, was present. The matter of procedure was discussed, as well as the question of employing additional counsel. No conclusion was reached, and these matters will be taken up again at the next meeting of the managers, which probably will be held in New York on Friday.

It was learned, however, that neither John B. Stanchfield nor any other lawyer prominently identified with Democratic politics would be retained. The managers are seeking some member of the legal profession with a reputation for independence and aloofness from political turmoil.

It came to the knowledge of the managers to-day that Mr. Sulzer, while the debate on the impeachment resolution was in progress in the Assembly during the early morning hours of Aug. 13, summoned three members of the lower house into his presence and not only pleaded with them, but also, it is alleged, threatened them, with a view of securing their votes against impeachment.

The Interview with Sulzer.

The names of the three Assemblymen are known to the managers, and probably they will be called as witnesses before the High Court of Impeachment. According to one of the men sent for, Mr. Sulzer on that fateful night was

A. W. Blundell Is Caught When Car Skids and Overturns.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 20.—A. W. Blundell, 28 years old, of 209 Prospect Street, Long Island City, was killed in an automobile accident, for which a sand pit is held responsible, at Roslyn early this evening. He was a tester for an automobile company.

His assistant says that Blundell struck a soft sand spot on the road near the residence of Mrs. Haron Ward, and that the car skidded and overturned.

GOES TO SHORE TO DIE.

Young Woman Shoots Herself in Atlantic City Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 20.—Edith A. Rea of New York City, who registered at one of the beach front hotels at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, was found early this evening stretched across her bed with a bullet hole just above her right temple. In her right hand was a new revolver.

Miss Rea registered at the hotal about 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. She had no baggage except a handbag. She was well dressed and wore three rings, one of them a diamond. She wore also a gold bracelet on her left arm, on which was engraved the letter "R."

CASTRO NOT IN VENEZUELA,

Belief in Caracas, but Government Fears Revolutionary Attempts.

WILLEMSTAD, Aug. 20.—Latest advices from Caracas say that, although the Venezuelan Government does not admit it, the general opinion is that ex-President Castro has not landed on Venezuelan soil.

The defeat of Castro's followers at Macuro and in the State of Tachira, it is officially believed, will have an important effect in bringing the revolution to an end. The army, however, remains at Maracay, and the Government will maintain a strong show of force, foreseeing a revolutionary attempt by Gen. José Manuel Hernandez, leader of the Nationalist Party, and other exiles.

BLACK EYE FOR SLANG.

Baseball Fans of Chicago Prefer Reports in Plain English.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Slang as a means of the proper description of baseball games in the newspapers came out a little behind straight forward English, according to the verdict of several thousand readers in a test vote taken in a Chicago newspaper.

Of a total of 3,930 ballots recorded to-day, 2,004 declared for the English prescribed by the dictionaries and 1,926 were in favor of the use of slang.

The figures in favor of pure English were qualified by several thousand voters who expressed themselves in favor of the use of a moderate amount of snappy, descriptive phrases, not limited necessarily to dictionary words, however. Many voted in favor of slang, but advocated the elimination of nicknames.

In the course of the balloting numerous college professors and educators declared in favor of slang, while a majority of baseball players, club owners and managers expressed a preference for pure English.

TELLS OF PELL AUTO WRECK

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., a Witness Before Coroner Neu.

LONG BEACH, L. I., Aug. 20.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., was the chief witness yesterday when the inquest into the deaths of S. Osgood Pell, his chauffeur, and his friend, William Laimbeer, on the night of Aug. 3 in the Pell automobile, which was struck by a Long Island Railroad train, was resumed. The testimony did not differ from that he gave before the Public Service Commission, and the inquest was adjourned indefinitely.

Justice Neu, sitting as Coroner, wants to get the stories of Mrs. Pell and Mrs. Laimbeer, particularly of Mrs. Laimbeer, but she is too ill to testify or even to furnish a written account for the record. Only from her can the authorities learn whether Mr. Pell or his chauffeur was at the wheel of the wrecked auto. Mrs. Pell's departure for Europe has postponed her testimony indefinitely. She could tell little of value, as she did not witness the accident.

Guardsman, Supposed Immune, Succumbs to Typhoid Pneumonia.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Sergt. Arthur C. Mills of the Charleston Cadets, (Company A, Fifth Regiment, M. V. M.,) who was supposed to be immune from typhoid fever through triple inoculation with anti-typhoid serum, died in the Somerville Hospital to-day from typhoid pneumonia.

Mills's case had been followed with more than usual interest, not only on account of his popularity, but also because of the elaborate precautions he had taken as an efficient soldier to make himself immune before going into camp at West Barnstable for the recent "war game" on the Cape. He was inoculated three times to make sure of the serum taking effect. He was 30 years old, married, and in full health.

Shortly after he returned from camp he became ill. He was removed from his home, 166 Glen Street, East Somerville, to the hospital last Wednesday.

RUPPS SIGN PEACE TREATY.

Wife Will Stay Away from Suffrage Meetings and Stop Speechmaking.

The cause of suffrage in East New York has lost its best known advocate, Mrs. Lawrence Rupp, who caused her husband's arrest for daring to interrupt her street-corner stump speaking by loud demands for his dinner. The Rupps signed a treaty yesterday in the office of the lawyer whom Rupp retained to defend him in the Domestic Relations Court. Here are the articles:

I, Martha Rupp, wife of Lawrence Rupp, do hereby desire to withdraw my action taken against my husband, Lawrence Rupp. I do so on account of relatives and for the peace and welfare of my family, and I have agreed not to attend any indoor or outdoor suffrage meetings of the suffrage party, or to make any speeches for the suffrage cause.

I, Lawrence Rupp, for and in consideration of the promises made hereinbefore mentioned, do hereby agree to support my family as I have in the past.

Signed in the presence of Isidor Kallet.
Mrs. MARTHA RUPP,
LAWRENCE RUPP.

When the Rupps were seen last evening at their home on Glenmore Avenue, Mrs. Rupp said:

"We're going to be happy here from now on. We are determined not to let busybodies turn us against each other any more."

THAW LIKELY TO BE SENT BACK TO NEW HAMPSHIRE

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont. Aug. 20.—The immigration authorities here have instructed their officers at Sherbrooke to remain on the ground, and should Thaw be released in court, to seize and deport him at the point of his entry into Canada.

If the extradition of Thaw is ordered there must be a formal delay of fifteen days during which the Presiding Judge must send in his report to the Department of Justice. The approval of the Minister of Justice is essential before the extradition order becomes operative. Should the Minister disagree with the judgment he may overrule it.

The highest authority in immigration circles here stated to your correspondent to-night that in all probability Thaw would be freed in court to-morrow, and that he would then be taken in charge by the immigration officials and deported.

Special to The New York Times.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Aug. 20.—Harry Kendall Thaw is confident that never again will he see the inside of the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane. In an interview given to a group of newspaper men late to-day in his room in the hospital ward of the common jail of Sherbrooke, Thaw asserted that he was guilty of no crime for which the State of New York could hold him.

The interview followed the granting of a habeas corpus writ returnable to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. Should Thaw be released under this writ, as he expected here to-night, Canadian immigration officials plan to seize and deport him at once. The point of deportation may be Island Pond, Vt., the nearest border station on the Grand Trunk Railway, or at the point in New Hampshire, where he entered Canada.

"I committed no crime in taking the action I did," said Thaw in his interview. "I am not insane, and I was legally acquitted of murder. Now I want to be left alone to live out my life in peace. I bear malice toward none."

Thaw added that he was "greatly affected" by Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's return to the stage. He hinted that it had much to do with his attempt to escape. Then he was asked if there was any chance of reconciliation.

"I lost all that was dear to me in the world when Mrs. Evelyn Thaw went back to her old life on the stage," he said.

As to the legal aspect of the case Thaw refused to comment at length, but he told something of the dread which the life at the Matteawan Asylum had for him. He was dressed in a suit of blue serge, which fitted him well. He looked a bit worn by his wild dash for liberty, but seemed in good spirits. His "cell" at the hospital seemed to please him immensely. It is a large room on the second floor, which looks out on to the streets of the quaint old town, and Thaw was able to watch the people passing without himself being discerned. The room is fitted comfortably, although not elaborately.

Haunted by Horrors of Asylum.

"I knew that medico-legal conditions were such that I could not obtain my freedom in New York State," Thaw continued, when questioned further by his interviewers concerning the reason for his break for liberty. "The stories that I would harm any one are untrue. However, I bear no malice toward Dr. Flint, Mr. Jerome, or any others who were in any way responsible for my imprisonment.

"But the conditions I had to face were horrible at Matteawan. Although I was sane, I had as companions raving lunatics, and I was forcibly kept in confinement with them. I might have stood it if it had not been for Mrs. Evelyn Thaw's action, although it seemed that I could never have been freed while I remained there.

"Now, I desire nothing so much as quiet and peace. I have still the main part of my life to lead and hope the better part. I want to spend it as a useful member of society. I want to be with my family and to see my place in Pennsylvania again.

"Events in my past are more painful to me than any one can imagine, and there have been many things in my life which I want to forget.

Pennsylvania His Hope.

"I am not insane. If my sanity is to be tested again, I want it to be tested in Pennsylvania, where I firmly believe I can obtain fair treatment. What is there to this matter here? Why, they haven't got me arrested on any charge. They say I escaped from a penitentiary. I didn't. I escaped from that hole at Matteawan."

Thaw stopped talking from time to time to look out the window at the little groups of persons, who were gathered on the lawns of the jail building and in the streets. He frequently passed some comment like this:

"Why, I seem to be quite a curiosity here; the people seem to think I am something to look at."

Once or twice he smiled, if perhaps a little grimly.

Thaw was asked about Roger Thompson, now under arrest here on the charge of aiding and abetting an undesirable person to enter the country, and about his other companions in the flight, but he withheld all comment. He quickly turned the conversation in another channel.

Another topic that Thaw avoided was the course he took in his trip from Matteawan to Canada. It was said that he had been cautioned by counsel to avoid any comment on that as it might have some direct bearing in the developments which were to come. He offered the opinion, however, that he would be freed on the habeas corpus proceedings to-morrow.

For several hours to-day Thaw paced the floor, sometimes stopping and stamping irritably, at other times quickening his walk around the hospital ward almost on a run. He was trying to keep control of himself, the prison officials said. Now and then he lay on his cot. When the reporters entered the room he was sitting on his cot with his head buried in his hands. He had his coat off and was perspiring, although it was not very warm in the room. Part of a dinner sent to him by a sympathizing woman in the neighborhood, Miss McWilliams, was on the table, and the tablecloth was crumpled up as though Thaw had been resting his nervous hands upon it.

As the reporters approached Thaw looked up and asked whether the synopsis of Jerome's speech to a jury in New York on Jan. 30, 1908, which he instructed his lawyer to give out last night, had been published in full. When he was told that only the relevant portions of it had been printed he seemed displeased.

For the first time since he was placed under arrest Thaw was officially identified this afternoon. That was when Sheriff Fred Hornbeck of Dutchess County, after much trouble, obtained permission to see him. The Sheriff got a card of admission from H. Laforce, Governor of the Sherbrooke jail, which read: "For identification purposes only."

Thaw recognized Sheriff Hornbeck as soon as he entered the room, but for a time seemed unable to establish his identity. When the Sheriff told him who he was, Thaw greeted him cordially.

"You don't want to take me back, do you Sheriff?" he asked good naturedly. The Sheriff made the only reply he could:

"I'm only doing my duty."

"Harry asked me to have a cigar and sit down," said the Sheriff afterward in telling of the meeting.

"'Well,' I told him, 'I dropped in to see how you are. I have a warrant for your arrest and may take you back.' 'What's that about?' he asked me. 'Don't you know,' I replied. 'Haven't you read the morning papers?'

"Then Thaw told me that the people of New York did not want to see him returned, and that the people of Dutchess County, especially, did not want him, 'and they have not got any hold on me either,' he said."

Carnegies and Dr. Evans There.

Much interest was awakened by the arrival from New York late to-night of Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, accompanied by Dr. Britton D. Evans of Morristown, N. J., who testified for Thaw in his trials for the slaying of Stanford White. Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie said they intended to remain throughout the fight for Thaw's release. Mrs. Carnegie is a sister of the prisoner.

The presence of Dr. Evans was taken to indicate that he would use every effort to convince the Canadian immigration authorities that Thaw was sane, and that his deportation would be a grave injustice. He is ready to appear in any action or hearing which may be held if his services are requested.

The position taken by Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie was the best evidence that Thaw would not be without funds and that, in fact, the bulk of the Thaw fortune would be behind him in his fight for liberty.

When Thaw was brought here after his arrest he practically was penniless. He was forced to borrow money from Gov. La Force of the Sherbrooke jail to buy a few necessary pieces of clothing.

Before leaving New York Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie and Dr. Evans had a long telephone conference with Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, Harry Thaw's mother. Mrs. Thaw, who had hurried home when she heard of Harry's escape, had said that she was ready to stand by her son. It could not be learned to-night whether Mrs. Thaw proposed to come on to Sherbrooke.

"We will fight to the last ditch for Harry's liberty," said Mr. Carnegie to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent. "While I am not very familiar with the Canadian immigration laws, I am confident that they will be unable to deport Harry. They certainly cannot hold him on this charge of being a fugitive from justice or an escaped convict.

"I am sure that he will be free to-morrow. Then, we hear, that the immigration authorities may take some action, but we won't climb a hill before we come to it. You may say for me and Mrs. Carnegie that everything that legal talent can suggest will be done to liberate Harry."

Mrs. Carnegie Excited.

Mr. Carnegie said that Mrs. Thaw had told him "that everything possible should be done to free her boy."

Mrs. Carnegie was very much excited. "Harry has now been in prison several years too long," she said, "and we are going to do everything that we can to get him out."

Upon their arrival Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie and Mr. Evans immediately went into conference with D. C. White, the barrister in charge of Thaw's case; Dr. Shurtleff, and Col. Fraser, also of counsel for Thaw, were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie did not visit Harry Thaw to-night because the Governor of the jail refused to let them see him. They are to arrange for a meeting early to-morrow.

Before retiring to-night Mr. Carnegie had a short conversation over the telephone with Thaw. Mrs. Carnegie also spoke a few affectionate words, saying she would be with him in the morning.

Dr. Hume Austin and Dr. Noel examined Thaw in the jail to-day, and issued a statement that he was in a highly nervous state, but in good physical condition.

THAW SCORES FIRST POINT.

Gets Habeas Corpus Writ, and Kin Rush to His Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Aug. 20.—Harry Thaw won a temporary victory to-day in his fight to prevent his return to Matteawan. To-night, despite the unceasing efforts of the United States officials, he still occupied a ward in the hospital attached to the Sherbrooke jail. His counsel predicts that a long legal battle will be fought and that any attempt to return him immediately under the immigration laws will be met.

On the other hand, District Attorney E. A. Conger of Dutchess County, who arrived here at noon to-day, fairly confident that he would have Thaw in his grasp within twelve hours, asserted that technicalities would afford only a brief respite to the fugitive. Mr. Conger already has brought strong pressure to bear with the immigration authorities at Ottawa to have Thaw taken to the New York State line and deported.

Thaw and his counsel renewed their fight for delay. The prisoner received a telegram from George Lauder Carnegie, who left New York for Sherbrooke yesterday, accompanied, it was said, by eminent counsel and ready to finance the battle. Mr. Carnegie telegraphed:

"Be careful. Situation serious. Engaged Counsel White by wire. Will arrive to-night, if possible, with Margaret."

Later in the day he sent another message which spurred Thaw's counsel to further action. The Margaret referred to in Mr. Carnegie's telegram is Thaw's sister.

To-day's developments were scheduled to start at 10 o'clock in the morning with the arraignment, but there was a long delay, due, it was said, to the fact that District Attorney Conger had telegraphed that he would arrive on the noon train. Mr. Conger was accompanied by Sheriff Hornbeck of Dutchess County, who carried his chains and handcuffs and was ready to take Thaw into custody at once. In the meantime John E. Mack, Special District Attorney, was speeding on to Ottawa to make the plea there that Thaw be deported at once, regardless of all technicalities, on the ground that he had been an inmate of an insane asylum.

Thaw Gets $10,000.

But Mr. Conger found a much more complicated situation facing him than he had expected. Thaw had by that time been supplied with $10,000 in cash from Pittsburgh, and he was surrounded by a corps of lawyers, headed by Charles D. White of Sherbrooke, and including W. J. Shurtleff of Coaticook and Col. H. R. Fraser of Sherbrooke. They were in conference preparing to bring habeas corpus proceedings for the release of their client. It was 1 o'clock in the afternoon, however, before Thaw's lawyers were ready to make the motion before Justice Globensky in the Superior Court. They then had obtained a declaration sworn to by Thaw, the contents of which was not make public. By arrangement of counsel the writ was made returnable to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, and at that hour the next clash in the tangled legal fight will occur.

But Conger has another weapon up his sleeve in the event that the effort to have Thaw deported fails him. He said to-day that he would make a thorough investigation of the charge that Thaw was guilty of bribery in connection with the case of Attorney Anhut of New York, who was sentenced to Sing Sing and later released pending an appeal.

If Mr. Conger can obtain another warrant from Justice Morschauser for the arrest of Thaw for bribery, he probably can bring proceedings for the extradition of the prisoner. If he is forced to that extremity, however, it will mean a long legal battle. The District Attorney was still strong in the hope to-night that the immigration laws would prove effective in the case.

According to counsel for Thaw, there are many legal complications to block Mr. Conger, and more would be developed as the fight went on. While not openly admitting it, they fully realize that the strongest weapon at the command of Thaw's opponents is the immigration law. They are preparing to meet this emergency in a way which lawyers here say is unique in the history of Canadian law.

They will hold that Thaw was not guilty of any offense against the laws of Canada; that the proceedings were irregular because the officer who made the charge and arrest also executed the warrant and swore the commitment papers, and that Thaw was remanded to jail without a hearing, a proceeding contrary to the laws of Canada.

Another Habeas Corpus Writ.

If Thaw is set at large as a result of the habeas corpus proceedings to-morrow, only to be immediately pounced upon by the immigration authorities with the purpose of rushing him to the border and delivering him within the jurisdiction of Dutchess County authorities, they will apply for habeas corpus proceedings to test the legality of such action by the immigration officials. They hold that in the case of Thaw the immigration laws, despite the opinion expressed, will not stand the test.

A through ticket to Detroit, Mich., was found in Thaw's possession at the time of his arrest at the little inn owned by Jean Boudreau at the village of St. Hermenigilde de Garford, and that fact was being put forward as another reason why the authorities here had no right to detain Thaw. As in the case of Johnson, the prize fighter, it is held that Thaw should be permitted to continue his journey to the Michigan city.

Mr. Conger will oppose any such move, although he said that he would not object greatly to Thaw's presence in Detroit. There he immediately would be arrested and held on the conspiracy charge until information could be sought on the more serious charge of bribery in the Anhut case. But if any attempt is made to carry through a plan permitting Thaw to get to Michigan, Mr. Conger promises a full investigation of the manner of the purchase of the ticket. If Thaw did not buy it or sign it, or signed other than his own name, it is Mr. Conger's contention that it will not protect him.

It was said to-night that it had been discovered that as the ticket had been purchased in Canada it would prove of no value to Thaw.

Crown Prosecutor Jacob Nicol, who was in court to-day, will represent the city, and Hector Verret, Kings Counselor, has been retained by the American counsel, Mr. Daniels. Mr. Conger will represent Dutchess County, and there will be present also counsel for the Immigration Department authorities.

The outcome of the habeas corpus proceedings to-morrow and the fight over the immediate possession of Thaw, which is sure to follow, probably will settle whether Thaw will be able to find enough of a loophole in the Canadian laws to prolong the fight. It is generally admitted that the habeas corpus proceedings will be successful. Then, according to Mr. Conger, Thaw again will be placed under arrest. To accomplish this Mr. Conger is armed with a warrant issued by Justice Morschauser, charging Thaw with conspiracy, a misdemeanor, for which the prisoner may be extradited. Action under this warrant, however, would make necessary further habeas corpus proceedings, and in the meantime Mr. Conger hopes to induce the immigration authorities to turn Thaw out of the country either in New York State or some other State.

Thompson in Jail, Chum Gone.

An incident which caused some comment was the fact that Mr. Conger at first was not allowed to see Thaw. The room occupied by the prisoner was barred against him. Two important developments to-day, aside from the temporary respite gained by Thaw through the habeas corpus writ put over until to-morrow, were the arrest of Roger Thompson, known as "Educated Roger," and the disappearance of the man supposed to be either ex-Assemblyman Richard J. Butler or Michael O'Keefe, who were companions of Thaw in his dash for liberty. Thompson and the other man had been detained by the police when Thaw was arrested, but were not kept in confinement.

Thompson, who had registered at the Magog Hotel during the morning as M. H. Thompson, was arrested at 1 o'clock to-day in the rooms of the Superior Court in the presence of 500 persons who had gathered to hear the habeas corpus proceedings. He was standing in the courtroom talking with a casual acquaintance when Constable Jean Moore stepped up to him and placed a hand on his shoulder. Thompson protested, but was led away, and later was arraigned before Magistrate Mulveny, who fixed his bail at $500. Unable to furnish the bond Thompson was sent to jail.

The technical charge was that Thompson had aided and abetted an undesirable person in entering the country. He told the Magistrate that he was a machinist and lived in Canada. He intended to make his home in Toronto hereafter, he said. Thompson's signature at the Hotel Magog was identical with the Thompson signature on the register of the Holland House at Matteawan.

What has become of the other man who was caught with Thaw at the village of St. Hermenigilde de Garford no one here seems to know. His identity had not been established positively, but the authorities were satisfied that he either was Butler or the man known as O'Keefe. His disappearance revived the rumor that relatives of O'Keefe had a bungalow near here and that Thaw was heading there when caught.

Thompson is about 5 feet 11 inches tall and carries himself erect. He weighs about 160 pounds, has blue eyes, a high forehead, and thin brown hair, carefully brushed across his head. He is clean shaven. A gray suit, plain straw hat, and white socks give him a well-dressed appearance.

Alarm for Missing Man.

The man who disappeared was registered early to-day at a local hotel under the name of Briggan. To-night a general alarm was sent out to the police of Canada to be on the lookout for him.

The proceedings in connection with the habeas corpus action, the first step taken by counsel for Thaw to obtain his liberty, were conducted in Justice Globensky's private chambers. When the hearing was put over until to-morrow, counsel for Thaw looked upon it as a victory.

Late to-night C. D. White, in charge of Thaw's case, said that he was prepared to meet any move which Mr. Conger or the immigration officials might make.

"I think I am safe in saying that no immediate effort to send Thaw back to Matteawan will be successful," he said; "there are many points which have not come up yet."

He would not say anything to-night about the attitude of the immigration authorities who have been asked to deport Thaw immediately, but it was inferred that he was planning some definite step.

Sherbrooke, where Thaw is being held, is a typically French town of some 18,000 population. The county seat of Sherbrooke County, District of St. Francis, it is an important centre of activity in this section. It is an old-fashioned town for all that, and an event such as the spectacular arrival of Thaw has stirred it amazingly.

The quaint old stone jail stands in a grove of trees on top of a hill and well within sight of the Court House, a more modern and imposing structure. The jail is presided over by Jacques H. Laforce, a quiet but very determined little man.

The Governor and Thaw, who speaks French glibly, have engaged in many conversations in which the prisoner and his keeper seemed to take the keenest enjoyment. In fact, Thaw has won a place high in the hearts of his keepers. The sympathy of a great majority of the people here also seems to be with the prisoner.

WON'T HARBOR THAW.

New Hampshire Waits for Chance to Send Him to New York.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 20.—New Hampshire does not want Harry K. Thaw within its boundaries. In the event that he re-enters the State through deportation proceedings in Canada and legal justification can be found for the act he will be surrendered to the New York authorities. This declaration was made to-day by Gov. Samuel D. Felker. In support of this attitude, Attorney General James P. Tuttle said that the matter of extradition was wholly in the control of the Governor.

"New Hampshire has no room for lunatics or others of the type of Thaw," said Tuttle. "If Thaw is returned to New Hampshire you can rest assured that New Hampshire will go the limit to get him back into responsible hands. We would rather Thaw would go through the State than stop here."

Gov. Felker said he believed in law and order and held the opinion that Thaw could be extradited on the charge of conspiracy.

In a formal statement made after a general discussion of the possibility that Thaw would be returned to this State as the nearest point in the United States to his place of detention at Sherbrooke, Que., and also because he crossed the line from New Hampshire, the Governor said:

"In the event that Harry Thaw is deported from Canada into New Hampshire he will be turned over to the proper authorities. I have not had an opportunity to look up the matter, but it is my opinion that he can be extradited on the conspiracy charge, which I understand has been made against him. Certainly we don't want him here.

"If Thaw is brought into this State and the New York authorities present papers in proper form to permit extradition, Thaw will be turned over to them."

KIEB FORWARDS RECORDS.

Conger Wants to Use Them in Urging Deportation.

Special to The New York Times.

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., Aug. 20.—A telegram was received late this afternoon by Dr. Raymond F. J. Kieb, Superintendent of the Matteawan State Hospital, from District Attorney Edward A. Conger, who requested Dr. Kieb to forward to Sherbrooke at the earliest moment possible certain papers bearing on the commitment of Harry K. Thaw, and his record as an inmate of the asylum.

Dr. Kieb forwarded the papers. He said he inferred that the District Attorney of Dutchess County would seek to have Thaw deported as an undesirable. Consequently the papers, showing the time of his commitment and his record in the institution for the insane had been found necessary.

The message from the District Attorney was the only communication received by Dr. Kieb at Matteawan containiny any information as to the developments across the Canadian border. Earlier in the day he was in receipt of a telegram from the Chief of Police of Coaticook, Stanstead County, Quebec, who put in a claim for the reward of $500 that was offered by Dr. Kieb for the arrest of Thaw. Claim to the reward previously had been made by B. H. Kelsea, Deputy Sheriff of Coldbrook, N. H., who communicated with Dr. Kieb on Tuesday morning over the telephone.

MICHIGAN LOOKS TO SULZER.

Might Not Recognize Glynn's Demand for Harry Thaw.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 20.—If the Canadian authorities should allow Harry Thaw to proceed to Detroit on the ticket which is said to be in his possession and the New York authorities made the proper request he probably would be arrested as a fugitive from justice as soon as he set foot on Michigan soil.

It will make considerable difference, however, who signs the extradition application in New York. Gov. Ferris recently asked the advice of Attorney General Fellows as to what should be his attitude toward the battle between Messrs. Sulzer and Glynn over the Governorship, and was counseled to recognize Mr. Sulzer as the executive of New York until some definite authority in that State had ousted him from office. So if extradition papers for Thaw arrive in Lansing signed by Lieut. Gov. Glynn probably they will not be honored.

Michigan authorities would make no attempt to pass judgment on Thaw in any way whatever, should he come within their jurisdiction. The police of the various cities would arrest any New York man and hold him for New York officers, provided a properly authenticated request for such arrest were made by New York police. Extradition would follow unless the prisoner should produce some evidence which the Governor regarded as absolute proof that an injustice would be done in sending the man to New York.

In the case of Thaw, the facts are so well known that there would be no room for argument. Thaw not being a citizen of Michigan, the State probably would not care to undergo the expense of proving whether he was sane or insane. A warrant from New York would be enough to obtain his extradition.

THAW'S MOTHER SILENT.

Inquirers Barred from Her Home—O'Mara Not Going to Canada.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—Mrs. William Thaw continues to be reticent about the affairs of her son and refused at her home at Cresson, Penn., to-day to receive any callers except her most intimate friends. Trespass signs were placed around the Thaw mansion and employes have been instructed to admit no strangers.

Roger O'Mara, Thaw's adviser and detective, said to-day that he had no intention of going to Canada. He had strong confidence in Thaw's ability to extricate himself from his present difficulty.

STATE DEMAND FOR THAW.

Dominion Officials Receive Request to Send Him to Rouse's Point.

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—Superintendent Riley of the State Prison Department received word from Consul General Foster at Ottawa, Canada, to-day that he had requested the Canadian Minister in charge of the Bureau of Immigration to deport Thaw to Rouse's Point, N. Y.

Franklin Kennedy, Deputy Attorney General, left here for Sherbrooke, Canada, this morning to represent the State in an effort to induce the Dominion authorities to return Thaw to this State. Mr. Kennedy plans to join the Dutchess County officials at Sherbrooke and to supplement their request that Thaw be turned over to them by a formal request made on behalf of the Attorney General's office.

THAW CAR IS IDENTIFIED.

Registration Card Reveals Ownership of Abandoned Auto.

EAST ROCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 20.—John Young, City Marshall ofRochester, stood guard to-day over the automobile which brought Harry Thaw and a companion to the State on Monday. He will question any one who calls for the car.

There is little doubt that the men who left the machine in the care of John I. Rankin at Adams' Corner, a hamlet a mile north of here, were Thaw and one of the men who helped him to escape. Hazel Rankin described the man supposed to be Thaw as being five feet six inches tall. She said he had thick lips wore glasses and acted in a nervous manner. They told her that the car belonged to John Collins of New York City, and said, "We will pay your father any amount he wants for the care of the car if we return for it." She thought that they were joking her.

The car contained three linen dusters, a rubber coat and several bottles of ginger ale. The gasoline tank was empty. The men took the spark plug with them. There was a registration card in the car reading:

"State of New York. Registration No. 36,824. Transfer 2,004. Packard Lyrick Renting Company, Inc., 1,491 Broadway, New York, N. Y."

The linen dusters bore no markings, but the rubber coat was made or sold by Saks, Thirty-third Street and Broadway, New York City. There was also a small leather case that might have contained cigarettes. It was not marked. A railroad guide book completed the articles left in the car.

The men first appeared at the home of James Corson at 10:25 o'clock Monday morning. They wanted to put the automobile in Corson's barn, but he would not allow them to do so, and directed them to Rankin's place, across the way. He noted that the license number of the car was 36,824 N. Y., and the maker's number 55,175. On the door of the car are the initials "A. S. L." The machine had been run 759 miles. Corson had seen Thaw's picture, which he afterward showed to Miss Rankin. They agreed that Thaw was one of the visitors.

After the car had been put up Corson carried the men by team to the street car line, where they took a car for Rochester Centre.

Conductor Hartford of the street car remembers these passengers. They left the car at Central Square, Rochester, and went into a restaurant, where they had luncheon. Later they disappeared, but probably took a train which left Rochester at 11:45 A. M. for Intervale Junction, where they could have taken the Maine Central train for the north, upon which they were riding when Thaw revealed his identity to Sheriff Kelsey near Colebrook, N. H., the same night.

A car similar to the one here stopped at a barber's shop in Dover, fifteen miles south of here, at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, and the occupants rushed into the shop, demanding quick shaves. The barber shaved the driver, while the other man shaved himself. When they left the car the driver threw a linen duster over the name plate. The stop at Dover was brief, and a few moments later the people of Berwick and Somersworth saw a dark colored touring car being driven at high speed toward Rochester.

City Marshal Young received a telephone message from the New York police to-night that a chauffeur with the necessary credentials would arrive in this city to take the machine home for its owner, John Collins. The message stated that the man would probably arrive to-morrow morning.

WHITMAN NOT AFTER THAW.

New York County Has No Charge Against the Fugitive.

District Attorney Whitman said yesterday that New York County would make no request for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw. There was no act, Mr. Whitman said, which Thaw had committed in this county that would justify to an indictment which would be necessary before an application for extradition could be made.

Mr. Whitman thought that Thaw's connection with the Anhut case, in which he testified that he had given a bribe, would not be sufficient ground for an indictment. Anyway, Thaw could not be indicted legally because he is a lunatic.

It was the opinion of the District Attorney that deportation would be the easier way of bringing Thaw back to Matteawan.

"Had Thaw gone just over the New York State line," Mr. Whitman said, "he would have a stronger position than he now has. There apparently is no chance to obtain an indictment against Thaw, because he is a lunatic, but the Canadian law on deportation is clear.

"Naturally," Mr. Whitman said, "New York County is interested in the Thaw case and desires his return to Matteawan, for it was from here that he was committed to the State Hospital, after committing a crime in this county. This office has been doing everything possible to co-operate with the Dutchess County District Attorney, and we hope that some ground may be found for his return to the asylum."

"A lunatic may be deported from Canada," said another official, "and it rests, not with New York State or New Hampshire to decide to what point in the United States Thaw shall be returned, but with the national Government. The Government may request the return of Thaw to any point in America that it sees fit. Of course, if there were no legal obstacles, the Government officials would ask that he be returned to New York State. Once there, he can be returned to Matteawan."

WARRANT FOR PLOTTERS.

A blanket warrant for the arrest of Richard J. Butler, Michael O'Keefe, Thomas Flood, Eugene Duffy, and Roger Thompson, the five men charged with assisting Thaw to escape from Matteawan, was received yesterday by Deputy Police Commissioner George S. Dougherty from District Attorney Conger of Dutchess County. Thaw also was named in the warrant.

All of the accused are known to headquarters detectives, who are seeking them throughout the city. No word was received from the Canadian authorities regarding the identity of the two men with Thaw at the time of his arrest.

"The New York police will make no inquiry regarding the identity of the men who were with Thaw unless asked to do so by the Dutchess County authorities," Commissioner Dougherty said.

Sheriff Harburger has Duffy's signature written at the time of his appointment as a prison guard last January. He was removed on April 30 for "intemperate habits." The signature may be compared with that on the Holland Hotel register in Fishkill Landing, where Duffy stopped with the others, should it be required for legal reasons.

DETROIT TICKET VALUELESS.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 20.—Information has been received here to-night by the Immigration Department that Harry K. Thaw has through transportation to Detroit, but that it does not hold good, having been bought at Coaticook in Canada. It is not, therefore, a ticket from one American station via Canada to another foreign point and does not qualify as "through" transportation. Immigration Inspectors Reynolds and Williams have informed the department to this effect, and instructions have been given them to ignore the transportation, as it was not purchased in the United States. If Thaw is released in court he will be seized and deported.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—John Clark, United States Immigration Commissioner at Montreal, stated to-night that according to the Canadian immigration laws there should be no trouble about Thaw's deportation. The Canadian regulations provide that all persons who have been declared insane during the five years preceeding their entry into Canada, are to be classed as "prohibited." Thaw can also be placed on the other side of the boundary merely for having passed the line without inspection, declared the Commissioner. In case action is taken on the ground of insanity, Thaw will be brought before the Commissioner at Montreal, who will then act under the direction of the Washington authorities.

RECANTS KEELEY CHARGES.

Marriott Repudiates Affidavit Against Chicago Tribune Manager.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Edward E. Marriott, on the stand at the legislative inquiry into the $1,000,000 voting machine contract, to-day disclaimed belief in the allegations made in his affidavit against James Keeley, General Manager of The Chicago Tribune.

"I can't swear that I believed it," he said, when pressed by counsel to say whether he accepted as true the charges contained in the affidavit.

The witness said that he quoted in his affidavit alleged conversations made to him by other persons only on the responsibility of those persons, and admitted that he made no effort to corroborate their statements. Under the fire of questions by Charles S. Deneen he practically repudiated his own affidavit. He told the commission that he was ordered to go to Ottumwa by Fred W. Lawrence, managing editor of The Examiner, and said that he did not believe the statements that H. W. Barr had said that Keeley and others had demanded money from the Empire Voting Machine people. F. W. Lawrence is a brother of Andrew M. Lawrence.

Marriott made vigorous denial of the statement made yesterday by Charles J. Gotthard of The Tribune, who said that Ottumwa people had told him that Marriott was drunk while in the Iowa city.

"I didn't drink anything stronger than mineral water while there," said Marriott. "I do not know, of course, what the Ottumwa people may have told Gotthard."

S. A. Thomason, a Tribune attorney, and Election Commissioner Czarnecki engaged in a lively battle of words with the witness, the Commissioner showing considerable emotion when demanding of Marriott the names of the messengers whom Czarnecki was accused in the affidavit of having sent to the Empire representative.

Mr. Deneen, in the midst of the confusion, sprang a surprise upon Marriott by commanding that he produce the notes he made in Ottumwa and from which he compiled his affidavit.

Marriott appeared rather dazed at this unexpected demand, and at first acted as if he would refuse to hand the notes over. After some hesitation, however, he consented to permit Mr. Deneen to inspect them.

sitting in semi-darkness in his inner sanctum of the Executive Chamber, with blinds drawn and doors closed. This Assemblyman was asked how he intended to vote on the impeachment resolution. He replied that he would vote for its adoption. Then, he says, the Governor told him, "I have done a lot for you, and I did not expect this from you."

"What have you done for me?" the Assemblyman asked.

"I have approved all of your legislation, haven't I?"

"Well, what of it?" said the Assemblyman. "My bills were all for the public good. Should I be under any personal obligation to you for merely doing your duty?"

Threats followed, according to the Assemblyman. Gov. Sulzer's friends would retaliate by working up sentiment against him in his district to prevent his re-election to the Assembly. But neither this Assemblyman nor the two who were with him could be shaken from the determination to vote for impeachment.

The managers to-day took steps to retain handwriting experts to examine the indorsements on the checks contributed to the Sulzer campaign fund which have been introduced in evidence before the Frawley Committee, with a view of ascertaining whether Mr. Sulzer's name was affixed by some one other than Mr. Sulzer himself.

This is for the purpose of settling the questions arising from Mrs. Sulzer's "confession." Special scrutiny will be given to a check for $900 on the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, which appears to have been drawn by Mr. Sulzer himself. This heads the list of eight checks, all certified, which were used for the purchase of Big Four stock through Boyer, Griswold & Co. on an account opened in the name of Frederick L. Colwell, who is supposed to have been Mr. Sulzer's agent in more than one stock transaction.

Still Searching for Nurse.

The Frawley Committee, when it meets in New York City next week, may have as a witness a woman who as a nurse attended Mrs. Sulzer and who, according to information which reached the committee, was dismissed for "talking too much." It has been asserted at the Executive Mansion that only one nurse was employed and none dismissed, but the Frawley process servers are continuing their search, although with no result as yet, it is admitted. If found, the nurse will be asked to supply temperature charts and other data regarding Mrs. Sulzer's illness. The committee also desires to question the physicians who were in attendance.

The Trustees of Public Buildings directed that the Assembly Parlor, a spacious room, and the adjoining room, formerly used by the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means, should be set aside as the seat of the provisional Government of the State. Until to-day these rooms had been occupied by the newly organized Department of Efficiency and Economy. This department on short notice was shifted to the temporary rooms of the Ways and Means Committee on the second floor.

A life-sized painting of Mr. Sulzer, presented to him nearly a score of years ago, when he was Speaker of the Assembly, hangs in the Assembly parlor, which will be used as Acting Gov. Glynn's reception room. The provisional Executive suite does not begin to match in splendor the Executive Chamber on the floor below, where Mr. Sulzer, a lonesome figure, still holds the fort.

Threatens a Clash.

Mr. Sulzer still has at his disposal the large working staff of the Executive Department, but at the Trustees' meeting to-day Mr. Glynn was authorized to commandeer members from Mr. Sulzer's force as occasion hight require. At present Mr. Glynn is conducting the provisional government of the State with the aid of his secretary, Frank A. Tierney, and the handful of assistants under the law allotted to the Lieutenant Governor's office. The room of the Lieutenant Governor, adjoining the Senate Chamber, henceforth will be occupied by Robert F. Wagner, Acting President of the Senate.

Members of Mr. Sulzer's clerical staff were much perturbed by the announcement by Mr. Glynn that they would be requisitioned by him for service as they might be needed. This seemed to promise an immediate clash of authority, as attempted dismissal might follow the refusal of these employes to obey either claimant of the Governorship.

Mr. Sulzer spent the day in his private office. He conferred with Judge D-Cady Herrick, his counsel. If he transacted any official business it was in private and was not given to the public. There were few persons in the Chamber on official business; even the tourist guides are now taking visitors who wish to see the Governor's quarters to the provisional Executive Chamber on the third floor.

Acting Gov. Glynn to-day signed papers for the extradition of Alfonso Viscenti, charged with defrauding insurance companies in New Jersey. The extradition was granted upon the requisition of Gov. Fielder. The papers were taken first to Mr. Sulzer, but the writ issued by Mr. Sulzer was not recognized in New York City and the New Jersey officials returned and obtained the signature of the Acting Governor.

Mr. Glynn also signed requisition papers from New Jersey calling for the extradition of Perley Hayes, Jr., under arrest in Buffalo, to Essex County, where he is wanted to answer a charge of embezzlement and larceny.

Adjourned for a Week.

Both houses of the Legislature held brief sessions to-day. There was no quorum present in either Senate or Assembly. No legislative business was transacted. A recess was taken until next Wednesday night. At that time it is expected Acting Gov. Glynn will send in a message recommending certain legislation.

In the absence of a quorum the Assembly took no action on the resolution for the arrest and punishment for contempt of Louis A. Sarecky, Mr. Sulzer's former confidential clerk, and Frederick L. Colwell, his speculative agent. Called as witnesses before the Frawley Committee, both declined to answer questions. Mr. Colwell is supposed to be in Canada. Mr. Sarecky, who had been absent for several days, appeared at the Capitol to-day after the recess had been declared.

"I shall not change my attitude," he said. "They will get no information out of me."

The question of bringing James C. Garrison, aid to John A. Hennessy, to book for his charge that four Assemblymen were induced by the payment of money to vote for impeachment did not come up in the Assembly to-day. Mr. Levy, the majority leader, before leaving for New York, said the Judiciary Committee would take up the matter at a meeting to be held in that city within a day or two. Mr. Levy said that he had examined the statutes, that he felt certain the Judiciary Committee had power to act, and that undoubtedly Mr. Garrison would be subpoenaed to appear before that body, and, failing to do so, would be arrested.

Threaten Physical Violence.

A number of the lawmakers who voted for impeachment have been receiving anonymous letters, coarse and abusive in the extreme, all of which appear to be grist from the same mill. An investigation has been set on foot with a view of tracing these epistles, some of which threaten physical violence.

An ardent friend of Mr. Sulzer, who has been outspoken in support of his policies and his régime, to-day offered to bet that within three months Charles F. Murphy and Senator James J. Frawley would be in Sing Sing unless they fled the country. A few days ago the assertion was made in certain quarters that the charge of high treason would lie against both in connection with what was termed a conspiracy to get Sulzer out of the way so that Tammany could loot the State Treasury.

"These people have no right to make such charges against me," said Senator Frawley. "They are absolutely unfounded. I defy anybody to produce any evidence implicating me."

It was said to-day that ex-Judge Lynn J. Arnold would be summoned as a witness before the Frawley Committee.

The recent appearance at the Capitol of John Popp, who was clerk to the Senate Codes Committee when Senator Stilwell was Chairman, revived rumors of possible new developments in connection with the convicted Senator. One to the effect that Stilwell had applied to Mr. Sulzer for a pardon and that a confession was contemplated was denied by one of Mr. Sulzer's close advisers. Popp's mission to Albany, it was explained, was to get some of his belongings, which he had left behind after Stilwell's conviction.

Mr. Sulzer made public to-day a new batch of sympathetic messages received by him. The senders include his former colleague, Representative A. W. Lafferty of Oregon, Leon Karnaiky, publisher of The Jewish Daily News of New York, and the Colored Progressive Club of Kings County.

Mr. Sulzer Nervous.

As Mr. Sulzer approached the Capitol steps to-day on his way from the Executive Mansion three young men turned around to stare at him.

"Are you here to assault me?" Mr. Sulzer is reported to have asked.

"Why in the world should we want to assault you?" replied one of the young men. "We are here simply looking around."

Mr. Sulzer thereupon shook hands with the three and walked quickly up the steps to the Executive Chamber.

HINMAN IS RENOMINATED.

Accepting, Assembly Republican Leader Flays Present Administration

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—Harold J. Hinman, Republican leader of the Assembly, was redesignated as a candidate for Assemblyman to-day by the Republicans of the First Assembly District of Albany County.

"The demoralization of government in the State of New York is so complete that it is appalling," declared Mr. Hinman in accepting the designation. He cited numerous counts in what he asserted was an indictment of the present Democratic Administration.

"The maladministration of the highway affairs," he charged, "is conceded by everybody, and now, when the Governor is making a start to punish by criminal prosecution those engaged in corruption, he is hastily and indecorously impeached.

"The Department of Efficiency and Economy," Mr. Hinman contended, "was not honestly conceived, serves no useful or proper purpose, and when the next Administration legislates it out of existence history will record it as the 'Department of Inefficency and Extravagance.'"

Mr. Hinman scored the Democratic Administration for "a vast increase in the burden of taxation in the place of oft-repeated promises of economy"; for the "wanton attempt to raid the sinking funds in order to pretend to the taxpayers that the burden of taxation had been lightened"; for "unwarranted cessation of work on new prisons begun under Republican administration"; for the "demoralization of the State Labor Department in consequence of the quarrel between the Democratic factions over patronage," and for the failure to pass an early Constitutional convention bill after the Governor had "very properly" vetoed the bill calling for a submission of the question last June.

Gov. Sulzer was criticised for vetoing appropriations for grade crossings, to indemnify owners of diseased horses and cattle slaughtered by the State, and the Workmen's Compensation act.

Mr. Hinman attributed "the weakness of the Democratic Party" to its "disorderly conduct," and declared the Progressive Party "develops mollycoddles and not self-reliant men"

HENNESSY GETS WARRANTS.

Moves Against Horgan and Kearney for Ignoring His Subpoenas.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—John A. Hennessy, confidential agent of the State Highway Department, who was designated by Mr. Sulzer several days ago under the Moreland act to investigate State Departments as a backfire, took steps to-day to test his power pending the Sulzer impeachment trial. Yesterday he obtained court orders for the apprehension of Matthew T. Horgan, Secretary of the Frawley Committee, and Owen Kearney, a McCabe follower removed from the position of Superintendent of Repairs on the Albany division of the Canal. They have refused to obey the subpaena of Mr. Hennessy. Horgan refused on the ground that Hennessy could not interfere with the work of the legislative committee. Kearney declared that Hennesy's power to act ceased when Sulzer was impeached.

The warrants were given to Sheriffs to-day. Mr. Horgan, who was said to be in New York, could not be produced. Kearney appeared with counsel but refused to be sworn on the ground that under the Moreland act no investigation started by Mr. Sulzer could be continued pending the impeachment trial. Mr. Hennessy said he would engage a lawyer to draw up papers in an action to punish Kearney for contempt.

A deputy sheriff was dispatched to New York to serve the court order upon Mr. Horgan.

CRUSADERS HAVE HARD RIDE

Reach Warwick and Make Conversions at Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

WARWICK, N. Y., Aug. 20.—When the two suffrage crusaders from the Women's Political Union who are riding on horseback through Orange and Sullivan Counties, campaigning for votes for women, reached Warwick to-night they and their horses were very tired from the long trip over the Shawangunk Mountains. The crusaders put up at the Red Swan Inn. Mayor Hague of Jersey City, and Tom Foley, ex-Sheriff of New York County, are staying at the same place.

When the crusaders came downstars they were almost mobbed by the guests with a request for a meeting at the hotel after the open-air meeting in the village was over.

The suffragettes spoke before the village hall to a crowd of about 300.

At the meeting at the hotel afterward it was said that some prominent men had been converted.

TAMMANY LEADERS COMING TO GAYNOR

Opposition Dying Out and He Is Generally Accepted as Its Candidate.

BUT MURPHY KEEPS QUIET

Supreme Court Justice Dowling Talked Of as Being the Man the Boss Has in Mind.

With the question of the indorsement of the Fusion city ticket by the Republicans and Progressives out of the way, Tammany began yesterday to put the finishing touches to its municipal slate for presentation to the Democratic City Designating Committee, which will meet at Terrace Garden on Saturday afternoon. So far as could be learned, Mayor Gaynor is still the choice of the Tammany leaders for the head of the ticket. It was said that this had been definitely agreed upon several days ago, and that until Saturday Tammany would busy itself only with the selection of candidates to go on the ticket with him.

The acceptance by the Republicans and Progressives of the Fusion ticket was a disappointment to Tammany, for it had hoped there would be a split, with the possibility of more than two tickets in the field. Several leaders who are opposed to the organization renominating the Mayor agreed yesterday that with only one anti-Tammany ticket in the field it would be bad policy for Tammany to throw Gaynor over, and there are now not more than two or three district leaders holding out against him. Charles F. Murphy would give no hint as to the candidate to be selected.

"Has any one been selected yet as the Tammany candidate for Mayor?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"There has been no one selected as yet," replied Mr. Murphy.

"What do you think of the bitter dose the Republicans swallowed last night?"

"It wasn't bitter to me," replied Murphy.

"Does the Republican indorsement of the Fusion slate in any way alter the situation?" he was next asked.

"Not at all," was the answer.

It is still being talked around Tammany Hall that Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling is the candidate Murphy has up his sleeve. Mr. Dowling's friends insisted that he did not want the nomination, and had told Murphy that he wouldn't take it. He takes the position, they said, that it is altogether too risky for him to head the Tammany ticket this year, as he does not care to lose his present position.

The leaders who are opposed to Mayor Gaynor started the rumor that the selection would be Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission. Mr. McCall has told his friends that he is not a candidate and doesn't want to be, but that he would not be adverse to being nominated for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals.

One of the leaders who wants Chairman McCall to be nominated is former Sheriff "Big Tom" Foley. Foley had a talk yesterday with Murphy, and as he was leaving said:

"I am going right down to tell Judge McCall again that he is the gladiator to win our fight for us. I've been telling him that every day, and I'm going to keep right on telling it to him." McCall would not discuss the situation.

Mayor Gaynor remained even more reticent than Murphy about his nomination, but he took one step which caused considerable speculation. He called off the Gaynor Independent Nominating League which had planned to call upon him this week and offer him the nomination. R. Ross Appleton, Chairman of the league, said that nothing would be done about the nomination until Tammany had picked its candidate on Saturday.

"We will wait until all the nominating bodies have met and named their candidates," said Mr. Appleton. "You see, we have addressed them all, advocating the election of Mr. Gaynor, and we feel that it is not in order for us to go ahead and actually nominate until we know what they are going to do. Several of them have already met. We want indorsements, but we are not greatly worried, because we have all the signatures to our petition that we require and can go ahead and nominate Mayor Gaynor independently."

Friends of Allan Robinson, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests, said yesterday that Tammany might nominate him for Controller. Robinson, it is said, is a Republican, but would accept the nomination. It was also said that Tammany was still considering Robert E. Dowling, President of the City Investing Company, for that position, while friends of former Controller Herman Metz insisted that his chances were the best of all.

Mr. Robinson is affiliated with the City Economy League, of which William H. Chesebrough is President, and which intends to take an active part in the campoign. Mr. Chesebrough said yesterday that the league is completing its plans for permanent organization.

WADHAMS FOR THE BENCH.

Republicans Want Fusionists to Make Change in Judiciary Ticket.

Dissatisfied with the judicial and county slates prepared for them by the Fusion Committee of 107 a group of Republicans from various boroughs planned yesterday to ask the committee to make some changes. Because they indorsed the Fusion city ticket on Tuesday night organization Republicans in New York County take the stand that they should have a better representation on the judiciary ticket.

With this object in view County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig was appointed last night Chairman of a committee of seven to confer with the Fusion Committee. The Republicans do not want Benjamin N. Cardozo for Supreme Court Justice. Their candidate is William M. Wadhams, who was named for Judge of General Sessions, and they will ask the Fusionists to substitute Mr. Wadhams for Mr. Cardozo, and then put Isidore Wasservogel, Assistant District Attorney, in Mr. Wadhams's place.

Several members of the Fusion Committee said last night, however, that they intended to stand pat on the ticket they had named. In order to give Mr. Koenig and his committee a chance to confer with the Fusion Committee, the Republican Judiciary and county designating committees adjourned last night until Monday without taking any action.

Lloyd P. Stryker explained yesterday that Albert Ottinger, who nominated Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss for Mayor at the Republican City Designating Committee on Tuesday night, was not now the leader of the Fifteenth District. Mr. Stryker has been leader of the Fifteenth for three months.

"I have the highest regard for Mr. Ottinger and his opinions," said Mr. Stryker, "but I absolutely disagree with his action of last night, and I then placed myself on record as in favor of ratifying the nomination of Mr. Mitchel, the Fusion choice for Mayor."

The Progressives are now satisfied with the Judiciary ticket given them by the Fusionists. At a meeting of their Judiciary Designating Committee at Terrace Garden last night they indorsed both Mr. Cardoza and Eugene A. Philbin, the other candidate for Supreme Court Justice named by the Fusionists. John J. O'Connell nominated Mr. Philbin, and Stanley Isaacs did the same for Mr. Cardozo. Both were indorsed unanimously. During the afternoon there was a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Progressive County Committee at 32 Washington Square West, at which harmony prevailed. County Chairman Francis W. Bird told the members of the committee that they couldn't afford to make a spectacle of themselves, as the Republicans had done, and he advised that they accept the entire Fusion slate without further grumbling. They voted unanimously to do so.

In Kings County the situation was grave yesterday, so far as the Republicans were concerned. The Republicans are fighting among themselves. Many are dissatisfied because Congressman William M. Calder and Naval Officer F. J. H. Cracke fared so well at the hands of the Fusionists.

Jacob Livingston, County Chairman, threatened to "bust the ticket wide open" if a better distribution of offices was not made by the Fusion Committee. Livingston fought hard in the City Designating Committee on Tuesday night to lead a bolt for District Attorney Whitman. He accused Calder and Kracke yesterday of grabbing everything on the ticket. Calder, he said, got the Sheriff, County Clerk, Register, and one Coroner, while Kracke got the Controller, the Borough President, and the Surrogate.

Two districts out of the twenty-three, he said, got all of the offices except that of Coroner. It is almost a certainty that there will be a hot fight to-night when the Designating Committees meet to ratify the nominations for the borough and county offices. It was predicted that Livingston would be able to smash the slate of the Calder-Kracke combination. It was said that Livingston would be satisfied with the withdrawal of John T. Rafferty as Sheriff and the substitution of Louis M. Swazey. He would also like to have Hersey Eddington, who was named for Surrogate, displaced. The Fusion Committee, however, say they will also "stand pat" on the Brooklyn slate.

In the Bronx there will be a determined effort made to break the Fusion slate. The dissatisfied Fusionists there say that the best offices all went to one district, the Thirty-fifth.

From this district were nominated Douglas Mathewson, a Republican, for Borough President; W. H. Millard, a Progressive, for Surrogate, and Thomas J. Whittle, a Republican, for Register. Republican County Chairman John J. Knewitz and John J. McGuire, head of the Independent Democrats, say they want Joseph Hennessy named for Surrogate instead of Mr. Millard.

The Bronx Business and Professional Men's League, at a turbulent session at Burland's Casino, in Westchester Avenue, nominated a ticket of its own last nigth. It is John C. Rogge for Borough President, Maurice J. McCarthy for County Judge, Edgar A. Martin for District Attorney, Joseph A. Wasserman for Sheriff, Timothy Greason for Register, Stephen J. Madigan for County Clerk, Bernhard Rabbino for Surrogate, and Dr. Joseph Manisof and Andrew J. Flynn for Coroners.

MOOSE INDORSES POUND.

But Woodruff Has a Hard Time Preventing a Bolt in Kings.

Amid scenes of disorder that rivaled at times those of the Republican City Designating Committee at the Murray Hill Lyceum on Tuesday night, the Borough Designating Committee of the Progressive Party in Brooklyn last night indorsed the Fusion nomination of Lewis H. Pounds for Borough President of Brooklyn at a meeting in the Johnson Building in Nevins Street.

Timothy L. Woodruff presided, and he had difficulty in keeping the committee from bolting. Several speakers excitedly advised that the Progressives refuse to nominate Mr. Pounds and put up a candidate of their own.

They were finally brought around by Mr. Woodruff after John Purroy Mitchel had appealed by telephone to several district leaders.

HORNBLOWER'S SON SHOOTS HIMSELF

Feared That Wound Is Mortal—Tired of Monotony of Life, He Tells Surgeons.

AN ACCIDENT, SAYS FATHER

Shot Himself Through Body Near Heart at His Home in Tennessee, After Drinking Heavily.

Special to The New York Times.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Aug. 20.—Lewis S. Hornblower, son of W. B. Hornblower, the noted New York lawyer, shot himself through the body just below the heart late last night at his home in Johnson City, Tenn., and it is feared that the wound will prove mortal. The bullet came out of his back.

Hornblower, who was an accountant in the employ of the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad, owned by Thomas F. Ryan, is alleged to have attempted suicide while under the influence of liquor.

Dr. George Ben Johnson, a noted Richmond surgeon, reached the bedside of Hornblower at 11:30 o'clock to-night on a special train. It was said at midnight that Dr. Johnson probably would perform a surgical operation before daybreak, in a desperate effort to save the life of the young man. At that hour Hornblower was very weak from loss of blood. Dr. W. S. Wiley of Bristol went to Johnson City on a special train to assist Dr. Johnson.

Hornblower, who, it is said, had been drinking, returned to his home at Cherokee Heights late last night, and soon thereafter shot himself. The alarm was given by his wife, who was greatly frightened. Hornblower's father had built a splendid home for the young man and his wife. It is said by friends that he had been drinking excessively only for a day or two.

Physicians at the bedside of Hornblower expressed the opinion at midnight that he had hardly a fighting chance for recovery. The young man told them that he was tired of living and had fired the shot to end the monotony of life. The fact that the patient seemed to have little desire to live appears to be much against his chances.

Over the long-distance telephone from his Summer home at Litchfield, Conn., W. B. Hornblower, through his daughter, said last evening that he had satisfied himself that the shooting of his son was purely accidental. There was absolutely no reason, he said, for his son to attempt suicide. His information, he said, was that the young man was recovering from the wound. He had received no details of the affair.

Lewis Hornblower, who is about 30 years old, is a Princeton graduate, and was married about four years ago.

George S. Hornblower, a younger brother of the injured man, left New York last evening for Johnson City.

W. W. Miller, W. B. Hornblower's partner, said that Lewis Hornblower, with his wife, was in this city on his vacation less than a week ago and seemed to be in good spirits.

"Young Mr. Hornblower," he said, "has just built a new home in Johnson City, where he is employed as an accountant for the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad. We received a telegram to-day saying that he had been accidently shot, but there was no intimation that he had attempted to take his life, and I do not believe that this is a case of suicide.

"Mr. Hornblower is a young man with plenty of money, happily married, in good health, and good condition. He had just returned from his vacation in good spirits, and was looking forward to a visit to-day from his wife's sister and her husband.

"Mr. Hornblower had bought a revolver because of the trouble on the outskirts of Johnson City with the striking miners, and probably thought it best to have it in the house where he and his wife lived alone. He must have had it out cleaning it and discharged it accidentally. The bullet penetrated his body just below the heart and he became immediately unconscious, so he could answer no questions. The last report we received had it that he was holding his own. That was at 4 o'clock this afternoon."

G. H. COUTTS'S WILL FILED.

Biscuit Maker's Estate May Be Worth More Than $100,000.

The will of George H. Coutts, the retired biscuit manufacturer, who died suddenly at Kennebunkport, Me., on Aug. 16, was filed yesterday in the office of Surrogate Ketcham, in Brooklyn. The affidavit acompanying the will sets forth that the estate is worth more than $10,000, but it is believed that an appraisal of the estate will show that Mr. Coutts left more than $100,000.

The will was dated March 7, 1913. By its provisions his widow, Mrs. Caroline Speir Coutts, receives a life insurance policy and $10,000. His real estate at 8 High Street, Perth Amboy, N. J., is left to his daughter Jean. To his daughters Frances and Mabel he leaves $5,000 each. To his brother William he leaves $5,000 and his real estate at Smith Street, Perth Amboy, N. J. To his sister, Mrs. Mary C. Frary, he gives the income from $12,000 for life, and at her death the principal is to go to his three daughters. Employes of Mr. Coutts receive gifts ranging from $100 to $2,000. The residue of the estate is left to his wife for life, and at her death it is to be divided into three parts, the income of which will go to his three daughters. At their death the estate is to be divided among their children.

WAR DOUBLES PRICE OF TURKISH TOBACCO

P. F. King Tells of Market Conditions in Face of Increased Demand Here.

BRINGS WIFE FROM TURKEY

American Buyer Marries a Greek in Constantinople and Comes to New York for Honeymoon.

The Olympic brought yesterday to New York a honeymoon couple with whose romance not only Cupid, but the little Goddess Nicotia had to do. The husband is a tobacco buyer in Asiatic Turkey for an American company, and the wife is the daughter of a Greek tobacco merchant, a Turkish subject. The courtship took place in Samsoun, and the marriage in Constantinople. There wasn't any American Consul in Samsoun, and the bridegroom wanted to make sure that his bride would become an American citizen, so they crossed the Black Sea and were married under the Stars and Stripes.

P. F. King is the bridegroom. He is going to take Mrs. King down to his old home in North Carolina to show her what a wonderful State he came from. They will go back to Samsoun soon.

"I was where the war was going on," said Mr. King yesterday at the Imperial, "but the only battle I saw was that in the Dardanelles last December. I had been to Cavalla, where there had been fighting, and when our steamer came back we had to lie to for six hours waiting for the Greek and the Turkish fleets to finish a battle.

"There was no fighting in the neighborhood of Samsoun, and I had no difficulty in getting about in Asia Minor. We did, however, feel the withdrawal of soldiers, the drafting of men and horses, and the shortage of supplies.

"I was in Constantinople while the fighting was going on before the forts outside, when you could hear the cannonading.

"The effect of the war over there has been to increase the cost of everything. The price of tobacco has doubled, and labor and everything else has gone up. It costs a lot more to live than it did a year ago.

"There is considerable competition among tobacco buyers, and the demand from the United States for Turkish tobacco has increased.

"About Samsoun I cover the country, about fifty miles square of it, on horseback. There are no roads as we know such. Hotel accommodations are rather primitive, but you can always find chickens and eggs, and I always carry a supply of food.

"When I was in Constantinople, on Aug. 2—that was the day I was married—the Turks were excited over Adrianople. The foreign Ambassadors were trying to get them to come back and not occupy the town. Mass meetings were held, and patriotism was aired. Nothing, it seems, could keep them from going, but, of course, it was a lot of trouble for nothing.

"Through Macedonia and Thrace the country looks like a barren waste. There is every indication that the reports of outrages by the Bulgarians are true."

GREAT POWER RESERVOIR.

Capitalists Plan 40-Mile Lake to Feed Fox River, Wis.

Plans are on foot in Wisconsin to carry out the greatest water-power reservoir project in America. A group of capitalists want to dam up a chain of lakes in northern Langlade County, making a lake forty miles long, with a capacity of 6,000,000,000 gallons, enough to maintain a steady flow of water in the Fox River for the entire year.

At present the river runs the greatest chain of paper mills in the West during the six Winter and Spring months, but in the Summer the river is nearly dry except for the Government channel for steamboats.

The capital back of the project is chiefly furnished by paper mill owners. John I. Beggs of St. Louis, of the North American Company, to whose foresight is credited the dam at Keokuk, Ia., across the Mississippi, is interested in the project as Chairman of the Board of Directors and member of the Executive Committee.

The project includes the ownership of Post Lake and a chain of smaller lakes, all of which will be under the control of the company and will be made practically one by damming of the lower outlet of the chain. Reduction of the cost of operations of paper mills, by making the use of coal needless, will be one of the many economies effected.

INTERPRETERS ARRESTED.

Cunard Employes Accused of Aiding in Smuggling Aliens.

John Tak and Joseph Rosenberg, interpreters on the Cunard liner Carpathia, were indicted yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury on the charge of violating Section 8 of the immigration law in helping an alien to enter the country without being duly inspected. Judge Mayer held them in $5,000 bonds each, in default of which they were sent to the Tombs.

According to Assistant District Attorney Spence, the interpreters made a practice of surreptitiously getting aliens into the country in the guise of being members of the Carpathia's crew.

It is asserted in the indictment that Tak and Rosenberg on the last trip of the Carpathia smuggled Franz Pawlitsch, 22 years old, an employe of the Austrian Government, as ai under steward on the liner. When Pawlitsch boarded the vessel at Fiume he was informed by Tak, he says, that he would not be permitted to enter the United States unless he came as a member of the ship's crew.

When he consented to make the trip as an under steward he says Tak and Rosenberg collected $95 from him, leaving him but $5 to continue the trip to friends in Ohio. Upon finding that $5 was not enough to pay raiway fare, Pawlitsch told a passenger of his plight, and in that way the matter came to the attention of the Federal authorities. Tak fainted when arrested, and it was several minutes before he could be taken from the Carpathia.

TWO GOVERNORS DIG ON MISSOURI ROADS

Kansas and Home Executives Don Overalls to Pull the State "Out of the Mud."

BIG ARMY OF WORKERS OUT

Bankers and Convicts Labor Side by Side and Put In $1,500,000 Worth of Improvements.

Big Results, Says Gov. Major.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 20. 10 P. M.—From reports received by wire from county seats and the best information obtainable, I can now give an estimate of the net results of the two good road days. The same may be summed up as follows:

At least 250,000 men will have worked during the two days, making a total of 500,000 days' work done on the roads, or the equivalent at $2 per day of $1,000,000 improvement. The work done by a large number of splendid road equipments, some of which can do as much as twenty-five teams can do in a week, plus gravelling and grading with teams, &c., plus the free material furnished by the counties and contributed by various establishments for concrete bridges, culverts, &c., can safely be estimated at $300,000. One first-class road equipment can grade and level five to ten miles of dirt road in a day.

The amount of cash contributed by the citizens of the various counties and the cities can conservatively be estimated at $200,000. Thus the actual work placed upon the roads, plus material and cash, will safely make a grand total of $1,500,000.

One of the great features is the fact that a "good roads" spirit has been kindled in Missouri which will bring rich fruitage throughout many years and will not abate until Missouri has a system of good roads unequaled by any other State in the Union. The results are such that there is no horizon which can bound the present and future benefits.

The "good road days" have been such a splendid success that I expect to make the same two days "good road days" in 1914, and will call upon the Governors of each State in the republic to make these days "good road days" in each Commonwealth. The spirit is abroad in the land, and the Governors will unquestionably join in the movement, and in this way we will have two good road days which will be nation-wide.

With the entire republic working upon the highways of the nation during the same two days, what greater achievement could be had in the good road propaganda?

ELLIOT W. MAJOR,
Governor of Missouri.

Special to The New York Times.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 20.—Clad in khaki overalls Gov. Major of Missouri and Gov. Hodges of Kansas worked side by side with picks and shovels to-day, assisting in "Pulling Missouri Out of the Mud." Over 250,000 other men of this State, bankers, day laborers, convicts from the State Penitentiary, professional men and clerks, also worked shoulder to shoulder with the same implements and miles of roads in the 114 counties of Missouri were put in better shape than they have ever been in before. To-morrow the good roads movement will be continued, and it is thought that many more men will join in the labor.

Hundreds of business men in St. Louis, Kansas City, Joplin, and other cities and towns of the State deserted their desks or failed to enjoy an afternoon on the golf links and instead donned overalls and labored on the roads. It is estimated that the value of the work done will be over $1,500,000. Moving pictures were taken of the operations in many parts of the State and will be used to encourage other States to follow suit.

The two days' work on the roads is the result of a proclamation issued by Gov. Major calling for Missourians to get together and improve the State roads. The ready response of the men of all classes surprised even the most ardent supporters of the good roads movement.

"It has been one of the great days of my life," said Gov. Major to-night. "As a boy I traveled over nothing but bad roads. I made up my mind then, if I ever got a chance, I would do all I could for better highways. The Governor of Arkansas has advised me he has set side Sept. 2 and 3 for road work, and I am happy at the results."

"I intend to fix two road days when I return home," said Gov. Hodges. "It is remarkable how many have responded to Gov. Major's proclamation."

Govs. Major and Hodges, when their hands became so blistered to-day that they could no longer use a pick or a shovel, turned in and steered road grading machines. Both Executives said that they never had a better time in their lives.

Gov. Major headed a great procession of road workers that left Jefferson City early this morning to improve the highways of Cole and Callaway Counties. Part of the crowd seperated at the city limits, some to work on various roads, while a large number under the leadership of the Governor, Congressman D. W. Shackleford and State Highway Commissioner F. W. Buffum went across the river to begin the extension of the Ashland road to Jefferson City.

Secretary of State Roach, attired in a full regalia of blue overalls, drove a team of mules in the Callaway County division and put in a full day's work. H. B. Noel, Chairman of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, also drove a mule team during the day.

Gov. Major did a little of everything during the day, including the touching off of several dynamite charges to blast a way through the crown of one of the high hills on that road.

One hundred and ten convicts from the penitentiary, under command of Warden D. C. McClung and Deputy Warden Porter Gilvin, formed part of the working force. Each one of the convicts will get thirty days off his sentence for the work to-day and to-morrow.

Four Kansas City men abroad each cabled from Paris to-day to State road organizers money sufficient to hire a squad of substitutes to do their share of road work.

Women took an important part in the campaign. The 6,000 members of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs throughout the State aided the movement in every way possible, and thousands of farmers' wives and other women prepared and served meals. Mrs. Major and Mrs. Hodges, the wives of the two Governors, aided in serving to the workers fried chicken which had been prepared by Mrs. Major.

HUERTA REJECTS ALL PROPOSALS

try's recognition of the belligerency of the rebels.

Although THE TIMES correspondent is in position to state authoritatively that the Mexican Government's note to the United States in regard to American recognition of the Huerta Adminstration originally was written as outlined in these dispatches on Monday last, it has developed that a subsequent conference between John Lind, who is President Wilson's personal representative here, and Provisional President Huerta resulted in modification of the communication's ultimatum feature.

It is considered possible that the Huerta Government is holding the ultimatum for recognition in abeyance. Several attempts were made today in questions to Mr. Lind and Federico Gamboa, Minister of Foreign Relations, to obtain denials of the accuracy of the original story of President Huerta's ultimatum to the United States as sent to THE TIMES, but no statement was obtainable from either man containing a flat denial.

Mr. Lind's interviews with representatives of the press, it is commented, evidently were intended to give the impression that the original report as to the Huerta ultimatum was not true, without involving an actual statement to that effect.

No retraction has been made by officials of the Mexican Government concerning the ultimatum, nor have they taken any other action. They seem satisfied with the report as sent originally.

The general attitude of the press is that such steps would be equivalent to an open declaration on the part of the United States that it was backing the rebels and was hostile to the established Mexican administration.

It is believed here that such action by President Wilson would inevitably result in serious complications.

A crisis is expected to occur in the next forty-eight hours. Diplomats in this city are keeping close watch on every development in the situation.

The financial condition of the country is at a standstill until the result of the negotiations becomes known.

It is generally said here that the Mexican note leaves the United States only two courses of action, as Europe would not permit Washington to remain inactive as an alternative to recognition.

Official statements made here today contained the assertion that, although there was a lull in the political situation, the trend of developments showed slight improvement in favor of the chance that the Mexican Government would consent to a pacific settlement of the republic's difficulties.

Diplomatic circles, nevertheless, regard the situation as serious. Bankers are extremely pessimistic. Exchange is soaring, having touched 36.

Foreign diplomats here state that they have been watching developments closely and that they believe nothing has been achieved except to entangle affairs hopelessly.

The local press refrains from commenting on the ultimatum incident, evidently desiring not to complicate the negotiations between Mr. Lind and President Huerta.

Great alarm has been expressed by Americans living in this capital on account of the statements made in Washington by Chairman Bacon of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the United States Senate in regard to their departure from this country. Some talk of asking protection from the British Government.

WILSON GETS HUERTA'S VIEWS

Blunt Refusal of All Proposals, but Officials Are Hopeful.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—President Huerta of Mexico has taken the ground that the course of the Wilson Administration in its endeavor to bring about a restoration of order in the southern republic is not in accord with the sentiment of the United States Congress and the American people. He has intimated baldly that President Wilson's refusal to recognize the Huerta Government is not a popular policy in the United States, and he evidently has determined to stand pat on his rejection of the proposals laid before him by John Lind, President Wilson's representative in Mexico City. Gen. Huerta has indicated an honest or pretended belief that any measure of reprisal against Mexico undertaken by the President would meet a rebuff at the hands of Congress.

The Mexican President's views in this connection were made known to Mr. Lind in the interview he had with Gen. Huerta on Monday night. That interview followed the receipt by the American Embassy in Mexico City of the formal response of Federico Gamboa, the Minister of Foreign Relations, to the communication made in behalf of President Wilson and Mr. Lind through Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé d'Affaires, which contained the proposals of the United States Government for an adjustment of present conditions in Mexico.

In a long telegraphic report to the State Department, giving an account of his interview, Mr. Lind said that President Huerta declined to recede in any way from the discouraging attitude that had been maintained in the Gamboa note.

It was emphasized by Mr. Lind in his communication to the State Department that President Huerta had been extremely cordial during the interview and had shown an entire willingness to discuss and give consideration to the arguments of the Presidential emissary in behalf of the programme of President Wilson. It is gathered, however, from what was said by officials to-night, that Huerta regards the recognition of his Government by the United States as a condition precedent to a formal consideration by the Mexican Administration of the suggestion of American mediation which Mr. Lind put forward.

Huerta, it was said, expressed the opinion that such recognition should be given immediately. It is considered evident from Mr. Lind's report of the conversation that the Mexican President has determined the negotiations for peace shall not go forward until that recognition has been granted.

Although it is plain that Mr. Lind was discouraged over what he learned from President Huerta, he remarked in his telegraphic advices to Washington that he still was hopeful that some form of mediation might be acceptable to the Government of Mexico. On what he based that hope is not understood, as it seems to be clear from his report that he met no encouragement whatever from President Huerta.

In his Monday night talk with Mr. Lind President Huerta said he had been receiving advices from Washington which convinced him that President Wilson's failure to recognize the Mexican Government as de jure as well as de facto was not popular. Apparently he was very frank. The line of his argument was that President Wilson had made the non-recognition of the Mexican Government a political party matter and that the policy was not in accord with the views of many members of Congress, and at the most could be regarded as being held by an Administration that was in power only temporarily.

President Huerta, it was said, spoke of the criticism of the Wilson Administration by members of Congress in connection with its handling of the Mexican situation, and brought to bear on Mr. Lind the recommendations made officially by Henry Lane Wilson, American Ambassador to Mexico, that the recognition of the present Mexican Government was necessary to the restoration of peace.

It also was stated by President Huerta that the extent of the revolutionary movement in Mexico had been exaggerated, and he maintained that recent and continued victories by the Federal troops showed the movement was disintegrating. He asserted that his forces were able to give protection to American interests, and he felt, in view of that condition, that the United States Government should show a more friendly disposition toward him.

Although no formal statement was forthcoming to-night in regard to the Mexican situation, officials indicated clearly that President Huerta's insistence on recognition by the United States would have no effect. It was said President Wilson was as firm as ever in declining to grant recognition to the Huerta Government, and that he would not consider the suggestion made by Gen. Huerta in his conversation with Mr. Lind and by Minister Gamboa in his formal response to the American proposals that a plan of settlement through the good offices of the United States would not receive consideration unless preceded by recognition.

That attitude on the part of the Washington Administration, coupled with the unyielding course of President Huerta, implies that a deadlock has been reached in the negotiations initiated by Mr. Lind with the object of obtaining a cessation of hostilities in Mexican territory and the holding of a constitutional election to choose a President and Congress. Going a step further, it is said, the state of affairs might be construed as showing that Mr. Lind's mission had met failure.

Many of the things said by President Huerta in his two-hour talk with Mr. Lind were repetitions of the arguments advanced in the formal answer of Señor Gamboa to the proposals for peace made in behalf of President Wilson. That answer contains 7,000 words, according to the estimate of Mr. Lind in a message received yesterday summarizing its contents. Although the complete text of the Mexican note was delivered to the American Embassy in Mexico City early on Monday and the first pages translated into the State Department's secret cipher code were filed in Mexico City for telegraphic transmission at midnight of that day, less than half the text of the note has been received by the State Department up to a late hour to-night.

Between 4 o'clock Tuesday morning and 9 o'clock Tuesday night, 1,400 words of the note had been received here. Only about 1,500 or 1,600 additional words came to-day, so that something in the neighborhood of 3,000 of the 7,000 words in the communication have been read by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

In terms clothed in the flowery intricacies of diplomatic expression, that part of the note received up to date in the State Department contains an exposition of President Huerta's view that President Wilson is pursuing a policy toward Mexico that does not meet with the approval of many Senators and Representatives in Congress and a large proportion of the American people.

Huerta's apparent position is that without popular support there is no justification for the President's course, which probably, in his opinion, could be reversed if the Wilson Administration should meet a political rebuke.

What step will be taken next by President Wilson apparently has not been determined or even considered carefully. It is the understanding that the President is waiting to receive the full text of the Mexican Government's note rejecting the American proposals before proceeding to change the programme which was intrusted to Mr. Lind.

Wilson Against Letting Arms Go.

It was said here to-day that the President, whatever his previous views might have been, was not inclined toward the suggestion that arms and ammunition be permitted to be sent from the United States to both factions in Mexico without hindrance. The main argument behind that suggestion was that it would enable the Constitutionalists to place themselves on an equal footing with the Federals and probably would result in the early ending of the revolution one way or another.

Reports to-night were that President Wilson now was inclined to the opinion that such a course might force the United States to adopt a policy of intervention, and for that reason he was opposed to it.

It is probable that for the present the Wilson Administration will adhere to the policy of non-recognition of the Huerta Government and also will continue to maintain a strict observance of the neutrality laws with regard to shipments of munitions of war into Mexican territory from this country.

The Mexican Embassy in Washington offered the only note of optimism in an official statement, in which it was said negotiations between the United States and Mexico were being continued in a spirit of mutual and frank cordiality. That statement was given to the press by direction of the Mexican Government. Its obvious object was to take the edge off the suspicion that the Huerta Administration was responsible for the sensational report sent from Mexico City on Monday evening that to the United States Government had been allowed until midnight Monday to recognize the present Mexican Government.

> Confidential negotiatians between the two Governments are being continued in a spirit of mutual and frank cordiality.
> Although the version of an ultimatum presented by Mexico to the United States, as published in certain of yesterday's papers, was so egregiously absurd as to call forth a flat denial almost simultaneously with its publication, this Embassy, in view of the many inquiries it has received, emphatically states that the version is wholly untrue.
>
> Furthermore, confidential negotiations between the two Governments are being continued in a spirit of mutual and frank cordiality, according to official advices received at this Embassy.

TERMS HUERTA REJECTED.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—The proposals of the Washington Government which Mexico rejected in toto were:

First, complete cessation of hostilities.

Second, that President Huerta resign in favor of a President ad interim.

Third, the fixing of an early date for the Presidental elections.

Fourth, that Gen. Huerta should not be a candidate for the Presidency.

An additional feature of the American note was the request for a reply to the question as to what in the opinion of Gen. Huerta the present conditions were due and what the remedy.

Gen. Huerta's flat refusal to accede to the four demands would appear to be sufficient reason to consider that the negotiations between the two Governments were definitely concluded, but in replying to Washington's pointed request for an explanation regarding conditions in Mexico and the cause, Gen. Huerta himself injected into the controversy what might be regarded as a counter-demand, namely, that of recognition.

In a general way President Huerta puts the blame for Mexico's cruel war upon the United States. He insists that had it not been for President Wilson's refusal to recognize his Administration, he would have suppressed the rebellion long ago, and even now, he asserts, the United States can indirectly enable him to restore order in a comparatively short time. He asks of the United States Government only recognition and the withdrawal of the American battleships.

If the United States insists upon the first of its demands that hostilities cease forthwith, those familiar with conditions in Mexico believe that further negotiations will be impossible, since they say that Gen. Huerta is incapable of complying with it. Even though Carranza, ex-Governor of Coahuila, and Maytorena, ex-Governor of Sonora, should agree, scores of minor leaders and thousands of their followers would continue to fight.

As to the second demand, Gen. Huerta has repeatedly stated that he will not resign and that he regards it as a duty to direct from the Presidency the pacification of the country. Those closest to him do not believe that the representations of any power will cause him to quit office. The only condition upon which he might be expected to resign at all would be for the purpose of becoming a candidate for the Presidency, which is prohibited in the fourth demand.

As to the question of elections, these have already been called for Oct. 26, and if conducted in accordance with Mexican law, which provides for certain preliminary work, could not well be held earlier.

Further negotiations looking to a peaceful settlement of the situation appear now to depend on Washington. If the United States Government is willing to re-open the controversy, there is every reason to believe that the Mexican Government will consent.

Fedorico Gamboa, the Mexican Foreign Minister, in a statement issued last night said the negotiations between Mr. Lind and the Mexican Government had not been entirely broken off, but that they were being continued confidentially. This communication was made to representatives of the Mexican newspapers for local publication this morning. It was the first news given to the public through the local press regarding the international dispute since Monday morning.

Ex-Gov. Lind is awaiting instructions from Washington. He still believes there is more than a possibility that the Mexican Government will elect to entertain the peace proposals rather than the alternative.

GENERALS PUT TO DEATH.

Two Shot by Federals, and One by Constitutionalists.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Aug. 20.—A story of executions of high army officers and of heavy losses of life in battle, reached here to-day in the first official account of the fighting about Torreon from the Constitutionalist point of view. The dispatches came from Gov. Carranza, and were dated Aug. 8. The siege of Torreon still was on.

The Governor said the attack on Torreon was begun July 20, and continued fourteen days, during which the Constitutionalists lost over 800 wounded. Then the Constitutionalists stopped active attack, concluding to starve Torreon out, and began the seige.

Gen. Bravo, commanding the Federals, Carranza said, discovered a plot among some of his officers to desert to the Constitutionalists. Bravo promptly put to death two Generals, Pablo Lavin and Epimeneio Escajeda, and also Col. Luis Caro. Gen. Cheche Campos, likewise sentenced to be shot, escaped, and offered his services to Carranza, who reported that he arrested Campos, tried him by court-martial and had him shot.

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 20—All Americans in Torreon are reported safe by passengers who left that city Aug. 11 and arrived here yesterday. A serious outbreak of typhoid fever is feared, however, owing to heavy rains having flooded part of this city. The Federals expect another attack on Torreon soon. Two trains between Torreon and Monterey were destroyed by dynamite in two days. No one was killed.

VERA CRUZ GROWS CALM.

Mexican Officials Think Huerta Won't Yield All Points.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 20.—The political situation here is calm again. Prominent politicians who arrived here to-day from Mexico City, including a sub-secretary to a Cabinet Minister, have given interviews to the local newspapers intimating that President Huerta would not break off America's friendly overtures, but also would not heed all of them.

The United States warships stationed here sailed to the open sea for target practice to-day, the Michigan afterward continuing her voyage to Tampico, which port is in danger of a successful attack by large rebel bands that are overrunning that part of the country.

LOWER CALIFORNIA MAY RISE.

Constitutionalists Are Expected to Seize Mexicali, Near the Border.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—Lower California is about to burst into revolt against the Huerta Government, according to Mexican refugees arriving here to-day. They report that the unrest is not confined to territory along the international boundary.

Conditions became so critical at Ensenada, the capital of Lower California, that the entire City Council, with its Secretary, was ousted this week. The action was taken by the Jefe Politico, recognized as a firm adherent of the Huerta Government. Conditions in some of the interior towns are said to be even more critical than at the capital. The refugees say that the Constitutionalists are planning to open the campaign in the territory by taking Mexicali, opposite Calexico, Cal.

Finds Imprisoned Men Alive.

"Are you alive in there?" he called. There was no response. The Chief repeated the question, and at length a faint reply came to him through the tube. The speaker was Thomas Slevin, a driller. He informed the Chief that the entire party of workmen, numbering forty-three, were in the southern tunnel, and that he did not believe there had been any deaths.

"I can't see in here. The dynamos have gone out of commission and we are in darkness," Slevin told Chief Kenlon. "Many of our party are unconscious, and we are all suffering from the foul air, smoke, and gas in the tunnel. Hurry up and get us out."

Chief Kenlon had arranged to relay messages from the imprisoned workmen to the shaft opening at the surface through a series of taps. If he found the men alive he had agreed to give five knocks, which would in turn be repeated by the watchers on the landings above him.

When the taps telling that the men were alive were heard in the street, those gathered about the head of the shaft cheered lustily. Among those waiting anxiously in the street, were two priests, Father Law, of the Church of the Resurrection, and Father Clark of the Church of St. Catherine of Genoa. One by one the exploring party climbed out of the mouth of the shaft, but some time elapsed before Chief Kenlon appeared. He had stayed behind to make a complete investigation of the conditions below. Only one of the volunteers who had followed Kenlon down the shaft was affected by the fumes. This was Supt. Quinn, who had descended to a depth of 300 feet. Kenlon and Lieut. Rankin found him struggling up the ladder as they were making their return trip, and they assisted him to the street. He was attended by an ambulance surgeon and sent home in an automobile.

The fire in the blacksmith shop spread so rapidly that four men who were at work at the top of the elevator shaft were unable to descend to the street when the blaze was discovered. Three of them jumped to avoid the flames which roared up the shaft. These men, Clayton Thurston, Dexter Call, and Horace Winn, were the ones who were hurt mortally.

They were removed by Drs. Shaw, Jacobson, and Bacharach to the Washington Heights Hospital. The fourth workman, Peter Shontug, was working at the top of the hoist when the rush of flames swept up to him from below. He wore oil-stained overalls and these caught fire. Screaming with pain, he began to descend, when his garments became entangled in the machinery. Patrolman Pierce of the West 152d Street Station climbed up the structure to his aid, and succeeded in bringing him to the street. He was taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious.

Field Hospital at Shaft's Head.

By this time the small park in the centre of St. Nicholas Avenue, in which the shaft superstructure had stood, resembled a military field hospital. The street was lined with waiting ambulances, and physicians clad in white from the Edison Electric Company and from the Consolidated Gas Company's staff were on hand with pulmotors in case any of the men were brought to the surface unconscious from smoke or gas.

Bandages and litters were made ready, and the police drove all except officials of the company and city officials from the neighborhood. Many automobiles had been brought to the shaft head by direction of the construction company's officials to convey those of the rescued men who were able to depart in them to their homes.

Coroner Feinberg arrived at 11 o'clock. He declined to discuss the accident until it had been determined whether any of the imprisoned laborers were dead.

"If there are any fatalities I will make a rigid investigation," he announced. "But until I have learned definitely that any of the men have succumbed from lack of air or from the choking gas fumes the affair is outside of my jurisdiction and does not concern my office."

Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson, who arrived at 9 o'clock, said he was much pleased by the way in which the work of rescue had been carried out.

"The principal diffficulty was that the shaft was pretty well choked up," he said. "As soon as the burned timbers and other dêbris was cleared away the work was easy," he said.

W. C. Merrill, an engineer employed by the Pittsburgh Contracting Company, explained that there was little or no danger of any explosion of the dynamite stored in the tunnel.

"The magazine is sixty feet north of the shaft in the north tunnel," he said. "No concussion from a gas explosion would suffice to explode the dynamite. Blasts have been let off in the immediate vicinity of the magazine daily, and we are certain that the magazine is absolutely safe.

Foul Air Affected Imprisoned Men.

It was 11 o'clock when the last bit of débris was removed from the shaft, and immediately a new hoist was put in operation. At 11:10 o'clock the first of the rescued workmen were brought to the street, and ten minutes later the last one stepped forth. A few of the men were suffering from the foul air in the bottom of the shaft and they were treated by the physicians. It was not found necessary to remove any of them to a hospital.

The sixty-two imprisoned tunnel workers were rescued on the same ladders by which Fire Chief Kenlon descended to the bottom of the shaft. The donkey engine of the temporary hoist broke down and then Kenlon directed his men to descend in pairs and enter the south shaft where the men were imprisoned. The firemen carried electric flashlights. The workmen were brought one at a time to the foot of the shaft. With two firemen supporting each of them the rescued were brought to the surface.

As the men emerged from the shaft policemen escorted them to the home of Samuel Pillis at 771 St. Nicholas Avenue, where the Misses Carol, Helen, and Rose Pillis served them with coffee and sandwiches. From the Pillis house the men were taken away in automobiles to their own homes.

When the thousands in the street learned that the men had been saved from the shaft they broke through the police lines, and, surrounding the shaft head, cheered heartily. Mounted policemen checked the rush and drove the crowd back from the improvised hospital.

Apartment Dwellers in a Panic.

There was much excitement among the tenants of the damaged apartment houses while the fire was in progress. In the house at 2 and 4 St. Nicholas Place, the front apartments were destroyed. The elevator runner, Fred Hall, a colored boy, ran his car until every one in the building had escaped. In Arundel Court, at 772 St. Nicholas Avenue, eighteen apartments were destroyed.

At the Audubon Sanitarium, a private Hospital conducted by Dr. Henry W. Lloyd at 8 St. Nicholas Place, the window sills on the top floor were burned, and patients occupying rooms in the front of the building were frightened. Miss Hulda Eeds, the head nurse, succeeded in transferring all of the patients to the north wing of the building, which connects with the southern wing through a fireproof extension. The fire at the hospital was extinguished after twenty minutes by the firemen. Convalescent patients took refuge in adjoining apartment houses.

On the top floor in one of the rooms which was theatened was Miss Sarah Harris, a paralytic, who has been an inmate of the institution for two years. Miss Harris attracted widespread attention by petitioning the State authorities to legalize the killing of those hopelessly ill. She begged Miss Eeds yesterday to allow her to stay where she was, but her request was ignored. She was transferred in a litter to a room in another part of the hospital. There were some thirty patients in the institution.

Pack 15 Suits and Overcoat

In an Indestructo Wardrobe Trunk

They Will Travel Safely and Uncrushed

For seven years the Indestructo people have apparently ignored the insistent demands of both dealers and travelers.

Immediately after the general acceptance of the Indestructo trunk all over the country, calls began to come in from all quarters for an Indestructo Wardrobe Trunk.

It was found that much thought and study would be necessary to adapt the Indestructo principle to such a trunk. Success crowned their efforts after much careful experimenting and to-day the Indestructo Wardrobe Trunk offers wider attractiveness and convenience than any other similar trunk on the market.

The Indestructo Wardrobe Trunk is made in all styles and sizes, including the Steamer Wardrobe.

In the standard size—45 inches high—it is possible to pack 15 men's suits and an overcoat, in addition to collars, shirts, hat and other accessories.

The exclusive feature which has attracted considerable attention is the automatic locking device, which permits of securing both the drawer and wardrobe sections without closing the heavy compartments of the trunk.

You should really see this remarkable trunk. It is the most complete wardrobe trunk ever offered to the trade.

ARMAMENT FIRMS' SINISTER INFLUENCE

Protest Against It in Resolution Passed by Peace Congress at The Hague.

NEARLY 1,000 DELEGATES

Prof. de Louter, President of Congress, Argues for Absolute Independence of Individual States.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20.—The International Peace Congress was officially opened this morning by M. Heemskerk, provisional Premier and Minister of the Interior, acting on behalf of Prince Henry of the Nethelands.

For the last three days various committees had been at work drawing up agenda and organizing debates for the six plenary sittings of the Congress, which will occupy the rest of the week.

The delegates and members, numbering nearly 1,000, and coming from more than a dozen of the foremost countries of the world, met in the historic Ridderzaal, or Hall of Knights, a magnificent thirteenth century palace recently restored. It was in this spacious building that the second Peace Conference was held in 1907.

Prof. de Louter of Utretcht was chosen as chairman, and addressed the opening meeting. He emphasized the progress made by the pacifc movement, especially in the United States, and referred in appreciative terms to the gift by Andrew Carnegie of the Peace Palace.

Prof. de Louter urged that the task of the Congress was the promotion of the brotherhood of all nations, and said that this ideal did not conflict wtih patriotism.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20.—The chief work of the twentieth Universal Peace Congress at its opening session here to-day was the adoption of three resolutions dealing with disarmament.

The first contained a request that the question of the restriction of armaments be included in the programme of the next International Conference at The Hague. The second protested against the sinister influence of persons interested in armament industries. The third recommended the consideration by peace societies of the draft of a general treaty for gradual disarmament, of which Prof. Quidde of the University of Munich is the author, in order that the next conference shall be in a position to discuss the subject with full information at hand.

The Congress was opened amid scenes of great enthusiasm and with a determination on the part of the delegates to accomplish something practical to stem the tide of militarism. All the civilized nations are represented. Many of the delegates are women.

Prof. de Louter in his inaugural address opposed the idea of a supernatural organization for the purpose of bringing about peace. This, he contended, could be accomplished only by the development of international law with absolute independence for individual States. Internationalism and patriotism were not, Prof. de Louter thought, incompatible.

Prof. de Louter referred to the Palace of Peace as an expression of homage from the New World to the Old World. He sai dthat while the East was shrouded in darkness the star of hope was ever brightening in the West.

Prof. Quidde, in moving his resolution, severely blamed Germany for the latest increase in armaments in Europe. He said there would have been no increase by France but for the action of Germany.

Other speakers declared that in spite of the recent events in the Balkans, the idea of universal peace was clearly progressing.

In the course of the session compliments were paid to Andrew Carnegie and to his late fellow-worker, T. M. C. Asser, Minister of State and delegate of the Netherlands to the first and second Hague Peace Conference, who died on July 29.

The congress this evening adopted a resolution that the difference between the United States and Great Britain regarding the Panama Canal act should be referred to The Hague Court of Arbitration.

Much indignation has been expressed by the delegates at the failure to invite them to the opening of the Peace Palace. Not one of them was originally invited to the ceremony, and, after pressure had been applied, only four have received invitations.

MAY MEAN CHINESE EXODUS.

Panaman Government Declares It Will Enforce the New Law.

COLON, Aug. 20.—Not a single Chinese in Panama has complied to date with the law requiring the registration of all Chinese in the Republic, the time limit of which expires on Sept. 1.

Pressure was brought to bear on the Panaman Government by local merchants to modify the provisions of the law, but a public statement issued to-day by Minister for Foreign Affairs Lefevre indicates that the Administration intends to adhere to its policy.

Ou Yang-Keng, the Chinese Consul General at Panama, will, it is reported here, receive his exequatur because of his alleged delinquency in representing the law in its proper light to his countrymen.

Strict application of the law, unless the Chinese accept the situation, means a wholesale exodus of the race, in which event merchants here predict a temporary demoralization of business.

There are about 500 Chinese in Colon.

TISZA WOUNDED IN A DUEL.

The Third Contest Fought This Year by the Hungarian Premier.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 20.—Count Stephan Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, fought a sword duel this morning with Marquis George Pallavicini, a lieutenant in the Austrian Army. Both duellists were slightly wounded in the head.

The Marquis had charged the Premier with trying to influence witnesses in the recent libel suit brought by Dr. Ladislaus von Lukacs, at the time Premier, against Deputy Desacs, who accused Dr. von Lukacs of corruption.

To-day's duel was the third fought by Count Tisza this year.

Marquis Pallavicini, who is a lieutenant of the Ninth Regiment of Hussars, visited the United States in 1910, when he acted as best man at the wedding of Count Anton Sigray of Hungary and Miss Harriet Daly of New York.

MINIMIZES FAVOR TO JEWS.

Rumania Declares Thousands of Volunteers Served Illegally.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The Rumanian Government, which planned to confer full rights of citizenship on Jews who served in the army in the recent campaign against Bulgaria, seems bent, according to a Bucharest communication to the Tageblatt, on restricting its action to the narrowest limits.

The Rumanian War Office, it is stated, has just served notice on several thousand Jewish volunteers that they were illegally mustered in, and that they will be sent home. The Government's favor, therefore, if limited to actual soldiers, will affect only 15,000 regulars of the 300,000 Jewish population.

CRITICISE BRITISH GOLFERS.

Visit of Vardon and Ray May Cause Unpleasant Controversy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—New York dispatches suggest that the visit of Vardon and Ray, the British golfers, is likely to raise another of the controversies which have occasionally marked the story of Anglo-American sport. The visiting golfers, it is stated, have aroused considerable feeling among American golfers by declining to play exhibition matches for less than $350 a match, and leading clubs are said to have snubbed them. The United States Golf Association, it is declared, is incensed with their behavior generally.

The golfing contributor to The Daily News, which features the reported criticism of the Jersey professionals, declared that American golfers are apparently unaware of the true situation as to the visit of Vardon and Ray. They went to America, he says, almost under compulsion, their sole mission being to attempt to win the open championship.

Vardon particularly did not desire to leave England, but he and his colleague received such a flattering offer that neither could well afford to refuse. The Daily News contributor goes on to suggest that, in putting the price of $350 on exhibition matches, Vardon and Ray are purposely making prohibitive terms so as to run no risk of growing stale before the championship.

CATCHES AND HOLDS THIEF.

Mrs. Ford Thompson Gives a Surprise to an Apache in Paris.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Ford Thompson of St. Louis, Mo., to-day demonstrated the advantages of an athletic training.

She was sitting in the Trocadero Gardens, when a young man snatched her handbag, which contained $500, and took to his heels. Mrs. Thompson started in pursuit, and after an exciting chase overtook and collared the Apache and held him till the police arrived.

CLIMBS MOUNT NUMZKUM.

Dr. Piacenza Reaches Summit of 22,000-Foot-High Himalaya Peak.

MILAN, Aug. 20.—Dr. Mario Piacenza, the Italian Alpinist, has succeeded in reaching the summit of Mount Numzkum, a peak 22,000 feet high in the Himalayas, according to a telegram received here to-day from India.

Many vain attempts had been made by English and American climbers to scale this peak.

Dr. Piacenza was the first and only person to scale the Matterhorn by way of the Furgg Glacier. His expedition into the Himalayas was organized some months ago and was regarded as of great importance by all the geographical societies. His object was to explore the group of Carracorun Mountains, situated to the north of the Baltoro range, climbed by the Duke of the Abruzzi in 1909.

This region, in which there rise the highest mountains of the Himalaya chain, had never been crossed by any expedition save that of the small caravan of Sir Francis Younghusband, which in 1887, while returning from a journey to Tibet, crossed the Mustag Mountains at a height of 18,000 feet.

Dr. Piacenza set out to cross the Mustag range in an opposite direction and to fix the exact position of a chain nearly 200 miles long to which Younghusband had given the name Aghil Mountains.

Dr. Piacenza left Italy in the middle of March and made his way to Srinagar, Kashmir, where he formed his caravan. He went up the River Indus as far as Scardu, Beluchistan, and from there began his ascent of the Baltoro Glacier. It took two months to penetrate the district, and he had expected that his stay in the region would be prolonged until September.

The expedition included Dr. Lorenzo Borelli, topographer, and Cesare Calciati, who had accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Workman of Massachusetts in their explorations in 1908 and 1911. Dr. Piacenza also took experienced Alpine guides.

Bride's Peak, the greatest height of the Himalaya Mountains ever ascended, was climbed by the Duke of the Abruzzi. It is 24,600 feet high.

BALLIN WILL AID THE FAIR.

Says That He Will Do His Best to Create a German Section.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Discussion of the German Government's decision, announced on Aug. 16, not to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition, continues in the newspapers.

Herr Ballin, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Hamburg-American Line, in a statement published to-day says he will do everything possible to bring a German section of the exposition at San Francisco into being without the assistance of the Government.

KING GUSTAF'S SON MAY VISIT THE U. S.

Sweden's Ruler, Unable to Come Himself, Desires Crown Prince to Make Tour.

TO EXCHANGE PROFESSORS

Rulers of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark Plan to This End with American-Scandinavian Foundation.

If Gustaf V. of Sweden were not King he would realize one of his fondest hopes and visit the United States. Since he is prevented by reasons of state, he desires his son, the Crown Prince, to take the trip.

This message is brought back by Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, Secretary of the American-Scandinavian Foundation, who has just returned from an official tour of Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, where the rulers of the respective countries received him and took an active part in perfecting plans for bringing their realms into closer educational relations with the United States.

The American-Scandinavian Foundation was endowed by the late Niels Poulson, President of the Brooklyn Iron Company, with $600,000 to maintain an interchange of students, teachers, and lecturers, and to promote in other ways intellectual relations between this country and Scandinavia. Fellowships have been awarded to two representatives from each of the three countries, and they will enter various colleges in this country this Fall. Plans also have been discussed for an exchange of professors between the University of Copenhagen, the University of Christiania, the University of Upsala, and several American institutions.

Dr. Leach left New York in May to confer with the Advisory Committees of the three Scandinavian countries concerning the choice of Fellows, who will pursue their studies here. One of those chosen is Ellen Gleditsch, known as one of the most advanced students in Norway. She studied for five years with Mme. Curie in Paris, and will take up her work here in Johns Hopkins University. Her countryman, Arnt Jacobsen, is a student of bridge construction. Denmark is represented by C. M. Pederson, a student of technology, who will enter the Massachusetts School of Technology, and Vilhelm Slomann, a student of library methods, who will go to the State Library in Albany. Sweden will send Erik Koersner, a civil engineer, and Einar Corvin, an investigator in experimental psychology.

Dr. Leach learned that many friends of the American-Scandinavian movement abroad felt the need of a large, free-working body of members to co-operate with the Foundation, and branches of the Foundation are being established in cities throughout the three countries.

"The need of greater resources is apparent," Dr. Leach said yesterday, "when one realizes that in Norway alone, where two applicants for fellowships were chosen, seventy-eight had to be rejected. Other avenues of usefulness—exhibitions, lectureships, standard translations of American books—are open to the American-Scandinavian Society in Europe. King Gustaf, King Haakon of Norway, and King Christian of Denmark, are active patrons of the intellectual crusade.

"King Haakon is a most genial ruler, very conservative in his ideas and ideals of art. There is much talk in Norway about popular dislike for a monarchy, but the people all admire King Haakon personally, and it seems assured that during his lifetime Norway will continue as a monarchy.

"The King of Sweden is highly intellectual and a man of impressive dignity. His brother, Prince Eugen, ranks fourth among the painters of Sweden. His landscapes have won him fame throughout artistic circles in Europe. King Gustaf told me that for a time America made things too attractive for his subjects, who emigrated in large numbers. Of late, however, economic conditions have changed so much for the better in Sweden that her people are remaining at home. The King expressed regret that he had never visited the United States while he was Crown Prince. His younger son, Prince Christian, visited this country and returned home with glowing accounts of its culture and progress. Before receiving reports from his son, King Gustaf confessed he did not have an adequate appreciation of this country's culture, having heard more about its picturesque and rugged frontier life."

Dr. Leach described King Christian of Denmark, a brother of King Haakon, as the most striking figure among the Scandinavian rulers. He had a splendid idea of the work for mutual advantage being done by the United States.

The steadily increasing interest in Scandinavian life has created a demand in this country for standard translations of Scandinavian literature suitable for colleges and universities and for public or private libraries. Beginning next year the Foundation will issue a series of Scandinavian classics in uniform size and binding. The volumes will be chosen by a committee of scholars with special knowledge of the field, and will be rendered into English by competent translators.

The committee plans to make the series broadly representative of Scandinavian literature, and to include some of the best books of popular interest along with works to meet the requirements of students. Their list at present includes the Eddas, some of the Sagas, Holberg's comedies, Bjornson's plays, lyrics and letter, the works of Tegner, Runeberg, Drachmann, and Herman Bang, as well as of several living writers still quite unknown to American readers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE FAILED.

English Father Appears in Court on a Manslaughter Charge.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Benjamin Jewell appeared at the Highgate Police Court to-day on a remanded hearing on the charges of the manslaughter of his little daughter, who died from diphtheria. The father stated at the inquest that the child had been treated by Christian Science methods.

Mr. Clark, for the Director of Public Prosecutions, said there was a definite statutory obligation on parents to provide medical aid for their sick children. The Jewell child was taken ill ten or twelve days before it died. The defendant did not know, nor did he apparently take any steps to inquire, what it was that the child was suffering from, but he sought the services of a woman, now in America, who professed to give what was called Christian Science treatment, for which she received payment, but she never went to see the child.

Mrs. Jewell in reply to questions said on behalf of her husband that her little boy had suffered from mumps and when the girl became ill she thought it was the same complaint. It never occurred to her that the child was seriously ill. Had she thought so she would have called in a doctor. The following dialogue ensued:

"Would you call in a doctor to save or prolong your child's life or because the law requires it?"

"I suppose, principally, because the law requires it."

"Do you suggest that it would be wrong to employ the services of a doctor in your own case?"

"I have proved that Christian Science healed me when medical aid failed."

"Do you believe so much in the Christian Science treatment that you think it will effect a cure where doctors have failed?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Jewell said she telephonod to a Christian Science practitioner, Miss Peck, who was now in America.

"What did Miss Peck do?" Mr. Clark inquired.

"You had better ask her," replied Mrs. Jewell.

"How do you know, if the practitioner did not come near the child, whether the treatment was being applied or not?"

"The child got better."

"Suppose the child got worse; would you think the practitioner was taking your money and not applying treatment?"

"I cannot say that."

Jewell under examination stated that he had been studying Christian Science for seven years without understanding it properly. "Miss Peck has a greater understanding of the question," he said.

Jewell and his wife said Christian Science had healed them of a displaced stomach and a displaced kidney, respectively.

Jewell was again remanded in $500 bail.

HADDON CHAMBERS COMING.

Sails To-day to Produce a New Play Here—His 21st Trip.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Haddon Chambers will sail on the Baltic to-morrow for New York in order to produce under Charles Frohman's management his new comedy founded upon the French novel "Tante," with Ethel Barrymore in the name part.

The dramatist is taking with him several well-known English players to complete the cast, including Haidie Wright and Eileen Van Biene. Mr. Chambers's dramatization of "Tante" will not be produced in England till after New York has seen it.

"Thursday, Aug. 21," said Mr. Chambers to a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, "marks my twenty-first adventure to the United States, so I may be said now to have come of age as an Anglo-American. My first visit to New York was when I went over to produce 'The Idler' under Daniel Frohman's management at the old Lyceum. Since then I have crossed the Atlantic forty times."

POLICE GUARD MANUEL.

All Strangers at Sigmaringen Are Placed Under Surveillance.

SIGMARINGEN, Aug. 20.—Extensive police precautions have been taken by the Sigmaringen authorities on account of the presence here of ex-King Manuel of Portugal, who is to marry Princess Augusta Victoria, daughter of Prince Wilhelm of Hohenzollern, in September.

All strangers are placed under strict surveillance, possibly on account of the fears entertained by the police that an attack may be made on the ex-Portuguese ruler.

Airship Tows Disabled Companion.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The novel sight of an airship towing her disabled companion was witnessed at Aldershot this afternoon. The British army airship Eta, and a naval airship were manoeuvring, when the machinery of the latter vessel became disabled. The Eta attached a hawser to the other dirigible and towed her to the factory for repairs.

"There's a Reason"

OWEN STILL LOYAL TO CURRENCY BILL

Senator Says So After Seeing Wilson, but Will Welcome Changes to Improve It.

DIVERSE COMMITTEE VIEWS

Glass, Closing Caucus Debate, Wins Strength for Measure in Flouting Henry Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The second meeting of the Democratic members of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency failed to-day to show any focusing of the widely divergent views of particular Senators in support of the Owen-Glass bill. The discussion was of the most general kind, and the so-called Administration bill was mentioned only incidentally.

The one sign of regained support for the bill now under consideration in the House caucus was that Senator Owen of Oklahoma, after a conference with President Wilson at the White House, expressed himself still in favor of the bill. He added, however, that he had been and was still ready to consider amendments that would improve the proposed system.

Senator Owen made it clear that any impression that he was opposed to the Administration programme on currency was not justified, and said that he had authorized Chairman Glass to express such an opinion to-day to the House caucus.

Mr. Owen's announcement of continued loyalty to the Administration bill was not made, however, at the meeting of his colleagues of the committee. There Mr. Owen was mostly silent, while his associates proposed the most dissimilar solutions of the financial difficulties of the country. These proposals showed only one common feature, and that was ther lack of similarity to the Owen-Glass provisions. To the committee Mr. Owen disclaimed authorship of the bill that bears his name, and under the guise of amendments his associates do not know what radical substitutes for the pending measure will be acceptable to Mr. Owen.

Objections to Regional Reserves.

A formal argument against the regional reserve system of the bill was read by Senator Shafroth of Colorado, and that argument, some Senators thought, might explain Mr. Owen's apparent abandonment yesterday of the regional reserve idea. The author of the argument is George H. Shibley, a local economist and director of the American Bureau of Political Research. Mr. Shibley is a close friend of Senator Owen, and if, in the end, Mr. Owen should abandon the regional reserve idea, it is thought he might supplant it by Mr. Shibley's suggestion, set forth in the prepared memorial, that the elastic currency on security, such as is provided in the Owen-Glass bill, should be issued directly by the Treasury. The Government control of the simplified system, according to this idea, would arise from the Government fixing the rediscount rate and its limitation of the amount of the issue.

Many other suggestions were made. Mr. Shafroth proposed that all outstanding paper money, except silver certificates, might be withdrawn and replaced by Treasury notes with a 50 per cent. gold reserve. But Mr. Shafroth had no plan ready whereby the gold reserve could be collected. His exception in favor of silver certificates was regarded as a survival of the "Colorado idea."

Mr. Reed of Missouri suggested that the Aldrich-Vreeland act might be amended so that the Treasury could issue direct to an individual bank emergency currency authorized by that act for issue to groups of banks. But Mr. Reed, like Mr. Shafroth, was stumped by a question as to where a gold reserve for that issue would come from. Some Senators said the obligation would rest on the bank, as the money would be a bank issue, and the Government would need no reserve. Others said that the reserve might be accumulated by taxation to the extent of several hundred million dollars, or by the issue of bonds. Both these suggestions were derided. Mr. Reed's suggestion follows somewhat the line of the Lea bill liberalizing the Aldrich-Vreeland act.

Mr. Owen explained afterward that there were two objections to such a measure. One was the political objection of perpetuating the Republican make-shift remedy. The other was that the Democratic platform declared against asset currency of the Aldrich-Vreeland kind in favor of a Government issue of paper.

The majority of the committee will continue daily meetings.

Caucus Debate Ends.

General debate over the bill in the House caucus ended late this afternoon. Eight days have now been allowed for the discussion of the bill along broad general lines, and the caucus will begin to-morrow the consideration of the bill for amendment, section by section, under the five-minute rule. The expectation to-night is that the consideration of amendments will continue over next week.

Chairman Carter Glass of the House Banking and Currency Committee closed the debate with a lengthy speech, replying to the attacks made on the measure by the radical element, led by Representative Robert L. Henry of Texas.

Many members asserted after the caucus that Chairman Glass had effectively riddled the proposals which had been advanced by Representative Henry in his demands for what Mr. Glass characterized as "corn-tassel currency."

Mr. Glass pointed out that Mr. Henry, who had posed as the friend of the farmer, had offered a substitute which would limit the price of corn to 60 cents a bushel. He said that the agricultural currency which the Texan advocated could only be issued on corn in warehouses or elevators when standard corn was selling for less than 60 cents a bushel, but that the corn, under the Henry plan, would have to be sold when the market stood at 60 cents a bushel for it. Chairman Glass called attention to the fact that corn was to-day selling for considerably more than 70 cents a bushel. The Henry plan, he said, was ridiculous.

Mr. Glass offered to give five minutes to Mr. Henry in which to respond to his argument, but Mr. Henry did not accept the challenge. Members said Mr. Glass had won many votes for the bill, whose advocates are confident of its adoption by the caucus without any basic changes. The leaders are now ready to take a vote at any time, either on the bill in its entirety or in detail.

ANNE ROYALL ROCK GONE.

Named for Woman Who Interviewed President Adams at River Bath.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The removal of a rock known as the "Anne Royall Stone" from Potomac Park to make room for improvements has revived the story of how the rock obtained its name and its historical interest.

Anne Royall was the editor of the Washington Paul Pry and later edited The Huntress. She called a spade a spade and made direct personal attacks upon public men in the early days of the last century. Finding it impossible to get an interview with President John Quincy Adams in regard to a bill to which he was opposed, the wily female journalist went to the point on the Potomac where President Adams was in the habit of taking a daily bath and, after making sure that he was in the water, seated herself on a rock near by and began asking him questions.

Much embarrassed, the President begged Anne Royall to go away, but she informed him that she intended to remain there until he expressed his views on the pending measure. Standing in water up to his neck President Adams surrendered, and Anne Royall rushed back to her printing office and wrote what is said to have been the first newspaper interview with a President of the United States.

FOR MONUMENTS TO WOMEN

Senator Jones Would Reserve Part of Capitol Grounds for Them.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Senator Jones of Washington, an ardent advocate of female suffrage, introduced a bill to-day naming part of the Capitol grounds "The Parthenon," and setting it aside for monuments to the achievements of women.

Mr. Jones's measure specifies that the tract in front of the Union Station be called "The Acropolis," and there is no provision prohibiting its use by mere man. The tract nearer the Capitol is reserved to women.

"I am not much of a classical scholar," said Mr. Jones, "but I selected these ancient names in gratitude to the Greek poet Euripides, whose play, 'The Medea,' contains perhaps the earliest extant plea for woman suffrage. You probably recall the chorus, which has been translated something like this:

Backward turns the wave on the ever-running river;
Life, life is changed and the laws of it o'er trod;
Man shall be the slave, the affrighted, the low-liver;
Man hath forgotten God.

And woman, yea, woman shall be terrible in story;
The tales whereof one telleth shall be other than of yore,
For a fear there is that cometh out of woman, and a glory,
And the hard-hating voices shall encompass her no more.

Favor Seating of Progressive.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The House Elections Committee agreed unanimously to-day to report in favor of seating William J. MacDonald, Progressive, for the Twelfth Michigan District. H. Olin Young, Republican, resigned the seat because he believed MacDonald had been beaten on a technicality.

To Build Costly Destroyer Tender.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Secretary Daniels signed to-day contract plans submitted by the New York Shipbuilding Company for the construction of the destroyer tender Melville, to cost $1,310,000. The vessel is to be a general repair and supply shop for a flotilla of fifteen destroyers, and ordinarily will be used as the flagship of the flotilla.

Confirmed as Minister to Panama.

HARRISON NAMED FOR PHILIPPINES

President Wilson Nominates New York Representative for Governor General.

STRONG CONGRESS SUPPORT

Nominee Is Wealthy, Is a Tariff Expert, and Once Visited the Islands with Mr. Taft.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Francis Burton Harrison, Representative in Congress from the Twentieth New York District, and whose Manhattan address is 876 Fifth Avenue, was nominated for Governor General of the Philippine Islands by President Wilson to-day. The selection is regarded by Administration officials and Democratic Members of Congress as a happy outcome of the President's painstaking efforts to obtain for the Governor Generalship a man of experience and high attainments. The incumbent is W. Cameron Forbes.

Mr. Harrison's nomination was due mainly to the efforts of Democratic Representatives with whom he has served in the House. It was only last Saturday that these efforts were begun, and they met with the instant sympathy of President Wilson. Some of those who stood sponsor for Mr. Harrison were Representatives Underwood of Alabama, Palmer of Pennsylvania, and Kinkead of New Jersey, all members of the Ways and Means Committee, and Senator Hughes of New Jersey, who served on that committee with Mr. Harrison. A telegram to Secretary of War Garrison asking if he would concur in recommending Mr. Harrison's appointment brought a cordial affirmative response.

The nomination will be taken up for consideration by the Senate Committee on the Philippines to-morrow. So far the only prospective critic is Senator Bristow of Kansas, a member of that committee, who is said to be against Mr. Harrison on account of the latter's Tammany Hall affiliations.

Expert on the Tariff.

Mr. Harrison stands high in the House and is regarded there as one of the leaders in tariff matters. He took an active part in the preparation of the Underwood tariff bill and was in charge of the wool schedule when it was debated in the House. He is very popular among his colleagues.

Mr. Harrison made a trip to the Philippines with Mr. Taft when the latter was Secretary of War. He has taken a deep interest in the Philippine problem and has given his views on the subject from time to time to President Wilson.

The resident Philippine Commissioners here, hopeful of independence, were greatly pleased at the appointment of Mr. Harrison. No indication of his policy was forthcoming from Mr. Harrison, who announced that he would make a statement after the Senate had confirmed him. At the White House it simply was said that Mr. Harrison would carry out Democratic platform pledges. The Baltimore convention declared for ultimate Philippine independence.

A reorganization of the Philippine Commission is to be effected and some commissioners will be named within a few days.

Will Go in a Fortnight.

Representative Harrison, if his appointment is confirmed, will leave within a fortnight to take up his new duties. The President is particularly desirous, on account of the deadlock between the Executive officials and the Philippine Assembly over questions of appropriations, that the new Governor General should be at his post when the Assembly meets in October.

Mr. Harrison's retirement from Congress will result in a contest among members of the New York delegation for the resulting vacancy on the Ways and Means Committee, on which he ranked next to Chairman Underwood.

Francis Burton Harrison is by profession a lawyer, by politics a New York City Democrat of the "silk-stocking" variety, by descent a member of aristocratic Southern families, and in terms of money a millionaire. He is the son of the late Burton Harrison, who was Private Secretary to Jefferson Davis during the days of the Confederacy. His mother, who, as Mrs. Burton Harrison, has achieved distinction as a writer, was Miss Constance Cary, a member of the old Virginia Cary family and related to the families of Custis and Washington.

Mr. Harrison in 1900 married Miss Crocker, daughter of the late Charles F. Crocker, President of the Southern Pacific. Five years later Mrs. Harrison was killed in an automobile accident in Long Island City. By will she left her fortune of more than $3,000,000 for equal division between her husband and her two children. Fourteen months after her death, Mr. Harrison married Mrs. Mabel Judson Cox, daughter of Henry L. Judson of Brooklyn, who had been separated from her husband, Dr. Rowland Cox, Jr., by divorce proceedings.

In politics Mr. Harrison struck his gait early. He was the youngest member of the House when he took his seat as the Representative from the Thirteenth New York District. He is now in his 40th year.

Born in New York in December, 1873, Mr. Harrison was graduated from Yale in 1895, and from the New York Law School two years later. He remained at the law school as instructor until the outbreak of the Spanish war, when he enlisted as a private in Troop A, New York Volunteer Cavalry. He had become Captain and Assistant Adjutant General, United States Volunteers, when he returned to New York, law, and politics. The Tammany nomination for Congress brought him the office, for he proved an irresistible vote-getter, even in a Republican district. In 1904 he was named as the candidate for Lieutenant Governor when D Cady Herrick was nominated for Governor. He credited his defeat then to the "Roosevelt tidal wave." Then he went back to Congress.

Mr. Harrison was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress in 1902 from the Thirteenth New York District and was elected to the Sixtieth, Sixty-first, and Sixty-second Congresses from the old Sixteenth New York District, embracing part of Manhattan Island. In 1912 he was re-elected to the present Congress from the Twentieth District.

In the Taft Administration Mr. Harrison was snubbed by the President, who flatly refused him admission to a White House conference when he went there with a visiting delegation. This followed the heat of the Ballinger scandal when, on the floor of the House, Mr. Harrison called attention to the famous back-dated document. In a scorching statement issued immediately by the rebuffed Congressman he said it was too bad for the President that he could not stand criticism and too bad for the country that he could not stand the truth.

HIS ROOM HAD DISAPPEARED

Japanese Traveler Suspected Hotel Clerk of Legerdemain.

Two young Japanese travelers arrived at an uptown hotel on Tuesday, and yesterday morning one of them lost a room and could not tell what he had done with it. After breakfast he rushed up to the desk with a face that the clerk asserted was ashen.

"Hey!" he called. "I loose my room. I no can find. What you do with him?"

"Why, it's still upstairs, isn't it?" asked the clerk.

"No, it is not. It was there last night. It was there this morning. But now when I go back, it is gone. See I have the key, but the room, he is not there."

The clerk took the key and looked at the tag. It was marked 525. Then he consulted the rack.

"That is not the key of your room," he said. "Yours is 252."

It developed that the visitor had asked after breakfast for the key of 525, which room is on the tenth floor. The other is on the fifth. In the elevator he had shown his key to the attendant, who carried him up nine stories, and then the Japanese started to look for a room situated just as 252 was. The floor plan is different up there, and after searching about and becoming more and more agitated, the visitor hurried downstairs to find out what had become of his quarters during his absence.

NEW $8,000 LOBBY FUND UNCOVERED

Horning, Washington Pawnbroker, Admits Raising Money to Defeat Loan Shark Bill.

STILL HAS $5,500 IN SAFE

Purposed to Fight Constitutionality of Law, but Hadn't Told Fellow-Brokers of Keeping the Money.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Still another fund, raised for the defeat of the "loan shark" legislation to which Washington pawnbrokers were opposed, was discovered to-day when George D. Horning, the note and pawn broker who yesterday brought the name of Tammany into the matter, testified before the House Lobby Committee that a second fund of $8,000 was raised and turned over to him for expenditure.

This second fund, Horning said, was raised by note brokers and "loan sharks" who had establishments in Washington. It was distinct from the fund of about $3,800 which the pawnbrokers subscribed. Horning had charge of the expenditure of both funds.

Horning's testimony, like that of Isaac Heidenheimer and Abraham Bernstine, the pawnbrokers who preceded him on the witness stand, was developed in connection with the effort of the Lobby Committee to run down the charge of Isaac McMichael, former page of the House of Representatives, that the Washington pawnbrokers raised a fund of $10,000 to defeat the "loan shark" bill, and that McMichael had been told by Representative James T. McDermott of Illinois that the latter had received $7,500 of that fund.

The pawnbrokers have all denied that any of this fund was given to Representative McDermott, but Horning testified that McDermott owed him $1,000 for loans which had not been repaid, and for which Horning had no notes or other written evidence or security.

The contributors to the second fund, and their respective subscriptions, were said by Horning to be:

A Mr. Wall of Chicago	$2,000
William F. Bishop of Washington	1,000
Alvah T. Case of Washington	790
J. S. Masters of Washington	750
George D. Horning of Washington	1,500
A Mr. Watts of Philadelphia	2,000
Total	$8,040

Horning was not able, he said, to give the initials of Wall and Watts of Chicago and Philadelphia, but explained to the committee that these men were interested in a string of probably ten loan establishments in Washington.

None of the contributors to this fund, Horning said, were pawnbrokers, except himself, and he was both a loan and pawn broker. When asked how this money was spent, Horning testified that $2,000 of it was paid to Henry E. Davis, a Washington attorney; that $500 was paid for various purposes, and about $5,500 remained in the vaults of Horning's new loan establishment. The $2,000 paid to Henry E. Davis out of the $8,040 loan shark fund was in addition to the $2,000 paid to Davis out of the $3,800 pawnbrokers' fund, making a total of $4,000 that had been paid to Davis.

When Horning was asked what he intended to do with the $5,500 which he still held in his vaults, he said he was fighting the constitutionality of the "loan shark" law in the courts, and would fight it all the way up to the Supreme Court, if it took every cent he had left.

Horning was forced to admit on the stand that he had not told any of his associates that the entire fund had not been spent.

Several members of the committee examined Horning at length as to the first payment of $2,000 to Davis. A receipt for this was given by Davis to Horning, but Horning said he had never shown this receipt to Heidenheimer or Bernstine, although he said he had demanded this receipt from Davis, against his own custom, because Heidenheimer and Bernstine thought Davis was receiving too much.

According to the testimony of Bernstine and Heidenheimer, they believed up to the time they went on the witness stand that Davis was receiving $1,500.

"Isn't it true that this receipt wasn't given to you on Feb. 26, 1912, the date it bears, and that you didn't get this receipt until this investigation came up?" asked Representative Nolan of California, flashing the Davis $2,000 receipt in Horning's face.

Mr. Davis jumped to his feet and exclaimed:

"I object to that question. It contains the insinuation that this receipt was manufactured for this investigation, and I will say to the gentleman that I can settle the matter with him outside."

Chairman Garrett rapped loudly for order and ruled that Representative Nolan had a "perfect right to ask the question."

"I meant to imply just that," retorted Representative Nolan, "and as to going outside, I'm ready at any time."

"Now," shouted Representative Cline of Indiana, "isn't it true that you got this nice, clean, freshly written receipt for $2,000 yesterday morning in Mr. Davis's office, and that you did not get it in 1912?"

"I did not get this receipt in Mr. Davis's office yesterday," replied the witness.

General Wage Advance of 25 Per Cent. Is Granted to Workers.

The raincoat makers, who, to the number of about 6,500, went on strike five weeks ago in Manhattan and Brooklyn for advances in wages, a shorter work day, sanitary shops, and other demands, ratified an agreemnt reached between representatives of the Raincoat Makers' Union and the Waterproof Garment Manufacturers' Association at a mass meeting yesterday in the Manhattan Lyceum, 64 East Fourth Street, thus ending the strike.

Under the terms of settlement the strikers get a general advance in wages of 25 per cent.

CALLS MILKMEN POISONERS.

New Angle Furnished to Horse Killing in Toblinsky's Confession.

As a result of information furnished by Joseph Toblinsky, better known as "Yesky Nigger," who on March 24 was sentenced by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions to ten years in Sing Sing following his conviction for stealing a horse, indictments have been handed down against Julius and Simon Liberman of the Liberman Dairy Company. They are charged with poisoning the horses of competitors in order to put them out of business.

Toblinsky, in his confession, has thrown a new light on the motive of the horse poisoning gang, who for five years have carried on their insidious operations among east side liverymen, truckmen, and merchants, and to whose operations have been traced the killing of thousands of horses. The theory had been that the motive of the poisonings was extortion, but, according to "Yesky Nigger," in a majority of cases the object was the stifling of competitors who broke in on routes laid out by milk dealers' associations.

According to Toblinsky, Mrs. Bessie Israel of 34 Norfolk Street, who in 1908 started a milk route in a district covered by the Delancey Street agency of the Libermans, had in one year so cut in on their business that she was able to buy a horse and wagon. This horse was poisoned. A second horse died from having vitriol thrown at him, and Mrs. Israel went to Toblinsky and asked him to buy another one. This he did.

Toblinsky asserted that he was friendly with Mrs. Israel and went to the Libermans and demanded that they replace Mrs. Israel's horse with another one or pay her the amount at which he was valued. As a result of these negotiations, he says, the Libermans delivered to Mrs. Israel a horse to take the place of the one which had been killed.

COLE

Making It Plain

By Carl Wernicke, of the Macey Company, Son of the Inventor of Sectional Bookcases.

Mr. Wernicke sent in this explanation of the Cole car in answer to our advertisement of yesterday:

IN trying to appreciate just what the Cole engineer has done, and in trying to get a term which would cover the entire idea and convey the meaning to other people, I was forced to this line of thinking:

In olden times one workman made an article, from raw material to finished job. He gave us a handicraft product.

Later came the industrial method. Proprietors of shops had workmen specialize; each did one thing toward the finished product. The proprietor set standards or models so that the parts would always fit each other. This gave us Standardized Product.

The next step: Proprietors also became specialists. They produced Integral parts. Examples: buttons, thread, cement, girders, tungsten valves, roller bearings. This gave us Standardized Integer Product.

The Cole people went a step farther. They chose the Master specialists to make their integer parts of the Cole Car—those specialists who outranked others in quality, as proven by the use of their parts in one or another of the $4000 and $5000 cars. This gives, then, what could be called the "Masterized Car."

It can all be likened to this:

Suppose a master artist, one with a great and lofty mind, should conceive a greater picture than had ever been painted before. Suppose he should feel that, though he were great enough to conceive the idea, plan the work and sketch it out, still he could not do the actual work as greatly as he wished. Therefore, he must follow a new method; he must find a new way, which should make the completed picture as great as his plan.

He knows that a Michael Angelo paints great, strong men. He knows that a Rubens paints beautiful drapery effects. That a Titian paints wonderful tones. That a Whistler paints with tender feeling.

He knows that all these things must go into his picture. So he sketches it out, calls these great artists in and tells them his plan.

Michael Angelo is to draw the figure. Rubens is to drape the great robe. Titian is to color the earth and sky and sea. Whistler is to put in the feeling.

Each to his work, but back of it all is the master, harmonizing, directing, controlling.

This is what the Cole engineer has done. He has "Masterized" his car. The Cole is "the Masterized Car."

Of course practically you could not get that idea across, I think. But it may be of some assistance in finding some symbol to fit the concept of a master-controlled, specialist-work in a car of today.

Get a demonstration in the new four or new six Cole today, and see what these co-equal master part-builders have done. It will increase your respect for all present-day engineering genius.

GERMANS HERE FOR ATHLETIC TRAINERS

Imperial Commission to Study American Athletics and Obtain Instructors.

ENTERTAINED AT N. Y. A. C.

Ambassador Gerard and Prominent A. A. U. Officials to Aid Commissioners.

Members of the German Imperial Commission to study American athletics arrived yesterday on the North German Lloyd steamship Bremen and were entertained at a luncheon at the New York Athletic Club, Fifty-ninth Street and Sixth Avenue. The commission will visit all the principal athletic centres in the United States with a view to adopting American athletic training methods for the Olympic games to be held in Berlin in 1916.

The visitors received a special committee of the New York A. C. at Quarantine, which extended an official athletic welcome to the members of the commission, which consists of Carl Diem, general secretary of the German Imperial Olympic Games; Lieut. von Reichenau, who officially represents the Ministry of War; Josef Waitzer of Munich, one of the best known athletic trainers in Germany, and Dr. Martin Berner of Berlin. After the formal welcome the New York A. C. committee, which was composed of Robert C. Kammerer, chairman; Matthew P. Halpin, and R. J. Schaefer, extended to the visitors a hearty welcome to make the New York A. C. clubhouse their headquarters during their stay in the United States.

When the Bremen reached her dock at Hoboken a number of prominent metropolitan athletes were on hand to greet the distinguished visitors. Among these was Alvin C. Kraenzlein, the former University of Pennsylvania and intercollegiate athlete, who is prominently mentioned as athletic trainer and adviser for the German track team under preparation for the Olympic games in 1916.

After an exchange of greetings the entire party was taken to the New York A. C. clubhouse, where the visitors were shown through the various athletic departments and the system of each explained to them. At the luncheon which followed William H. Page, President of the New York A. C., presided, with James W. Gerard, United States Ambassador to Germany, on his right, and Carl Diem, Chairman of the German Committee, on his left. Among the other distinguished guests were:

Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, Acting President of the Amateur Athletic Union; Evert J. Wendell, member of the International Olympic Committee; Walberon Reichenau, Berlin; Dr. Martin Berner, Berlin; Josef Waltzer, Berlin; Robert C. Kammerer, Chairman, New York A. C. Committee; Patrick J. Conway, President Irish-American A. C.; William F. Schneider, Matthew P. Halpin, Rudolph F. Schaefer, James N. West, Vice President New York A. C.; Hugh H. Baxter, Harry E. Baermeyer, Ferdinand Diem, Daniel J. Ferris, F. P. Abbertani, G. W. Geanimni, E. P. Reynolds, Robert Stoll, Max B. Karsche, Thomas A. Cassidy, Charles Allen Reed, Paul H. Pilgrim, Captain New York A. C.; Halsey Hazleton, H. H. Terwilliger, J. Roy Allen, Sheperd G. Barclay, William H. Leaich, Daniel D. Wylie, Henry W. Peckwell, N. B. Scharmann, Capt. Charles J. Dieges, Henry F. Ecks, John M. Hoosier, Walter F. Murphy, James J. Archer, S. G. Sladdin, William O. D. Kiene, Rudolph Draz, L. J. Merkel, Frank Fechtler, Albert F. Fin, James A. Miller, Jr., William E. Van Wyck, and B. F. O'Connor.

Robert C. Kammerer welcomed the visiting athletes in a short speech, and then introduced President William H. Page of the New York Athletic Club. The latter made a short address in German, and then, speaking in English, said that, in view of the remarkable progress made by the German Nation during the past two decades, it would be necessary for future Presidents of all the leading athletic clubs in the United States to be fluent German scholars. He warned American athletes that Emperor William's forethought in sending a special commission to this country to study the inside of athletics meant that American athletes would find more real opposition in 1916 than in any previous Olympiad, and warned them against traveling on their past reputations. The remarkable commercial expansion of the German Nation during the past decade, President Page explained, was an indication of the remarkable latent ability of Germans, and with proper training facilities and expert advice in this direction Americans would have to look to their laurels.

United Sattes Ambassador James W. Gerard said that he knew of no easier way to draw the United States and Germany into closer relations than by creating friendly athletic rivalry between the two countries, and would use every endeavor to further the Olympic games, and predicted that German athletes would accomplish the same measure of athletic success that had characterized their commercial life.

In extending a cordial welcome to the German Commissioners, Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, acting President of the Amateur Athletic Union, said that the methods of athletic training followed by universities and clubs in this country were open to the world. There was no secret about the work of training an American athlete, and if any nation could adopt the A. A. U. system he was certain no one would withhold any meed of praise for athletes who could accomplish results, which might be detrimental to American athletes. He predicted that the 1916 Olympic games would be the most important event in the history of the world's athletics, and while the American athletic training methods would be an open book for the visiting Commissioners, he felt sure that the United States would repeat the victories of past Olympic series. He emphasized the necessity for a standardization of events and athletes, and said it was absolutely necessary for the success of international athletics. Justice Weeks opposed the inclusion of events not recognized in the athletic world and made a strong plea for a programme of athletic events where specialized competitions followed by any particular nation be made a part of the list of events.

Carl Diem, representing the German Commissioners, said the object of their visit was to study the inside workings of a country that had produced the greatest athletes in the world. He was profuse in his thanks for the generous offers of advice and assistance, and assured the A. A. U. representatives that the German Empire echoed his sincere thanks for the generous expressions of good-will and help.

With the close of Carl Diem's speech, President Page said that the United States would not be behind England in establishing a fund for the Olympic games in 1916. England, he said, had set out to raise $500,000 to engage competent trainers and establish systematic training for British athletes. In order not to be behind England, the New York Athletic Club had asked each of its 3,500 members to subscribe $1 or more a year as a nucleus of a fund for the games in Berlin. This, he said, would probably net $20,000, and, with other athletic organizations adopting the same plan, would raise $500,000.

After the luncheon the Germans were taken in automobiles to Travers Island, the Summer home of the New York A. C., where E. J. Gianinni and "Berny" Wefers explained the system of training. The visitors inspected the track and locker rooms and the boat house.

DANIELS CONDEMNS RIOTERS

Directs the Punishment of Sailors Who Destroyed Socialist Property.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Secretary Daniels has issued an order for the punishment of the enlisted men of the Colorado, the Charleston, the St. Louis, and other vessels of the Pacific reserve fleet stationed at Bremerton, Wash., who engaged in the riots at Seattle, on July 17, 18 and 19, against the Industrial Workers of the World and the Socialists. This action follows a thorough investigation by a special board appointed by Rear Admiral Alfred Reynolds, Commander in Chief of the fleet, and consisting of Commander Thomas Washington, Lieut. Commander Henry E. Jensen, Lieut. Commander Walter E. Whitehead and Lieut. Harvey W. McCormack.

The board had difficulty in securing witnesses, as most citizens of Seattle sympathized with the attacks upon the Industrial Workers of the World and the Socialist orators, and would not give information against any of the individuals who participated in the riots. None of the sailors who had shore liberty could be proved to have taken part in the disorders. It is expected that Admiral Reynolds will therefore impose a collective punishment which all who went ashore will be obliged to bear, the innocent with the guilty.

The report of the board says that the direct responsibility for the riot rests upon the Seattle police, who were in sympathy with the rioters and their purpose, and took no steps to prevent violence. The idea of destroying the Industrial Workers of the World property did not originate with the enlisted men, but with citizens of Seattle, and there were comparatively few of the bluejackets in the crowd; but by reason of their wearing uniforms they were plainly known to be taking part.

Secretary Daniels in his order, which is to be published to the men of the various vessels of the fleet, denounces the Industrial Workers of the World for criticising the men of the navy and provoking them to violence.

The conduct of the persons who denounced the soldiers, abused the army and navy, reflected upon the flag, and made assault upon soldiers in the American uniform, says the Secretary, "is most reprehensible and deserving of condemnation. But their violence of language, unprovoked assault upon soldiers and lawlessness do not justify retaliation in kind.

"It is hereby directed that the Commander in Chief of the Pacific reserve fleet send a copy of this letter to the commanding officers of the ships upon which the enlisted men and marines are serving, who engaged in the unlawful action in Seattle, with instructions to have this letter read, and it is further ordered that the men engaged in this affair be punished for their conduct as the Admiral may adjudge is adequate for the offense."

SEATTLE, Aug. 20.—Rear Admiral Alfred Reynolds, in transmitting Secretary Daniels's letter, appends a direction to commanders of all the ships of the Pacific reserve fleet to read the Secretary's statement at muster, but it adds that inasmuch as it has been impossible to obtain proof of the participation of any specified man in the demonstration, it will be impracticable to attempt any punishment.

TRIANGLE DOOR CHAINED.

Owner of Company Which Lost 140 Employes in Fire Arraigned.

Max Blanck of Harris & Blanck, owners of the Triangle Shirtwaist Company, in whose factory at 23 Washington Place 140 employes perished during a fire; who was tried and acquitted of manslaughter on the allegation that locked doors were responsible for the great loss of life, was arraigned yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions on a charge of having one of the doors of the Triangle factory, now at 79 Fifth Avenue, fastened during working hours.

Inspector Walter Dugan of the Bureau of Fire Prevention told the court that he found one of the doors chained with 150 persons at work. The Inspector said the factory was on the ninth floor of the building. According to Marcus Mandelbaum, Blanck's attorney, the door was not a main exit, but was an entrance to an office. There was no lock there, he said, only a chain, which so fastened the door that it was easy to get out, but impossible to enter. The chain was patented and, it is asserted, complies with the law in every respect.

Blanck entered a plea of not guilty and was released on bail. The case will come to trial on Sept. 5.

Because he convinced the court that, although the doors of his place of business on the second floor of a building at 707 Broadway were padlocked, that the floor was used merely as a show room and not as a factory, Max Herman, a dealer in feathers and artificial flowers, was acquitted.

Twelve persons were fined $20 each for smoking in factories. There were five fines for locked doors. They were Morris Ray, a tailor at 42 Henry Street, $25; Emil Knoeper, a printer at 45 Rose Street, $25; Alfred Ferris, printer at 45 Rose Street, $25; Louis Smith, a tailor at 422 East Fourth Street, $50, and Meyer Cohen, a clothing contractor at 142 Henry Street, $50.

ESCAPE BY SECRET LADDER.

Two Convicts Had Made It Themselves—Slide Down Ivy Vine.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Using a ladder they had made in the carpenter shop, two cell mates scaled the high wall of the Eastern State Penitentiary here to-day, slid down 48 feet of ivy vine growing on the street side of the stone structure and escaped. The fugitives are Homer Wiggins of Wilmington, Del., who was serving a long term for the killing of a Philadelphia policeman, and Charles Taylor of Philadelphia, convicted of larceny.

The men occupied a cell in an upper tier. They had filed off the lock and placed a false one in position. Early to-day they made their way to the carpenter shop, to which they had access as workmen, and obtained the ladder, which from time to time they had worked on secretly and which they had concealed. The ladder was a collapsible one, crudely made, but strong enough to hold one man at a time. On their way to the wall the prisoners eluded five guards and six supposedly alert and vicious bulldogs which are turned loose in the prison yard at night.

JUSTICE FOR JEWS IS PROMISE IN BALKANS

RIGHTS TO BE RESPECTED

Rumania's Declaration, Committee Says, Ultimately "May Pave the Way for Complete Emancipation."

The first statement of results achieved through the representations made by the American Jewish Committee to the State Department at Washington in behalf of the Jews resident in the Balkans and in opposition to the policy of exploitation and virtual expatriation of Jews in Rumania, was made public yesterday by Louis Marshall, President of the American Jewish Committee. The statement tells of apparently successful diplomatic efforts put forth by this country to obtain a guarantee of civil and religious liberty for Jews in the territories annexed by the victor nations as a result of the war in the Balkans.

The statement says in part:

On Jan. 14, 1913, the American Jewish Committee, recognizing the fact that a considerable part of the European territory of the Ottoman Empire would be divided among the various nations that were engaged in the Balkan war, and that the Jewish residents in that territory might in consequence be seriously affected in their civil and religious rights, urged President Taft and the Department of State to make representations to those concerned in the war and to the European powers, in order that the status and rights of the Jews who might be transferred from the jurisdiction of the Ottoman Empire to that of the several Balkan States might be protected. Conditions at that time were such, however, that our Government was not in position to act as requested.

On March 28, 1913, this subject was presented to President Wilson, and on a later date to the Department of State, by Dr. Cyrus Adler, on behalf of the American Jewish Committee, and our Government was requested to exercise its good offices to obtain assurances from the nations concerned in the negotiations for the treaty affecting the conquered territory, that the inhabitants of such territory would be assured the full enjoyment of civil and religious liberty without distinction of race or creed. The representative of the committee has received a series of letters from the Department of State during the past month, indicating:

Instructions to Ambassador.

(1) That the Department had instructed the American Ambassador at London to express to the British Foreign Office, whose head was the Chairman of Ambassadors of the European Powers concerned in the pending negotiations, that the United States would regard with satisfaction the inclusion in any agreement that might ultimately be concluded in regard to the settlement of the affairs in the Balkan Peninsula, of a provision assuring the full enjoyment of civil and religious liberty to the inhabitants of the territory in question, without distinction of race or creed;

(2) That the American Ministers accredited to Greece and Montenegro and to Bulgaria, Rumania, and Servia, had subsequently been instructed to make to those Governments a communication similar to that which had been made to the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs by the American Embassy in London;

(3) That the views of our Government had been communicated to the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, as Chairman of the Ambassadorial Conference, and also to the delegates of the five States participating in the Peace Conference at Bucharest, and that the latter conference had decided that it would be superfluous to include in the Treaty of Peace a special provision of the nature contemplated, inasmuch as the Constitutions of all the States involved guarantee civil and religious liberty, and that the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Rumania took occasion to declare the view that, in accordance with the principles of international law, all citizens of annexed territories, without distinction of race or religion, become citizens of the annexing State.

The action of our Government is most gratifying, resulting in the assurance of the conferees, that the Jewish citizens of the annexed territories are to be accorded the same consideration as that which other citizens residing therein are to receive. Jews in Bulgaria and Servia enjoy the full rights of citizenship and are not discriminated against in any way. The public and formal assurances of the Rumanian Minister of Foreign Affairs give occasion for the hope that a larger number of Jews will be accorded equal rights under Rumanian rule and that this act may pave the way for the complete emancipation of the Jews in that kingdom.

It is announced that the American Jewish Committee will continue to watch over the interests of the Jews in the Balkan countries.

SEEKS TO KILL BRIDE.

Man Whom She Refused Puts a Bomb Near Her Apartment.

When on July 27 Mrs. Dominick Droynardi walked at her husband's side from the Roman Catholic Church in Elizabeth Street, where Father Lungo had just married them, a man stepped up to her from the crowd that encircled the church entrance, she knew him to be the brother of the man whose suit for her hand had failed when she accepted Droynardi, and she shrank from him.

"I speak for my brother," he whispered to her in Italian. "You have only three weeks to live."

And then, before the bridegroom could get at him, he stepped back into the crowd and disappeared. Mrs. Droynardi grew more and more uneasy as the days passed and the end of the three weeks approached. Her husband kept assuring her that no one would dare to hurt her, but she was not to be comforted. She lived through Aug. 17, the end of the three weeks, as a day of terror, but it passed without any sign of vengeance.

Then, at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, the Droynardis had retired in their flat at 139 Forsyth Street, when they were awakened by the report like that of a pistol shot sounding in the third floor hallway just outside their doors. The wife cowered and trembled, but nothing followed the report, and finally, at daybreak, they slept again. Then, at breakfast time came a neighbor with the news that some one had tried to explode dynamite in the third floor hall. Two sticks had been put on the floor at the Droynardis' door, but the one to which the fulminating cap had been attached was "dead" because the nitroglycerine had leaked out.

The Clinton Street Station obtained the name and description of the vengeful suitor and detectives were sent out to arrest him.

Connecticut Fruit Crop Suffers.

HARTFORD, Aug. 20.—Lack of moisture is worrying fruit growers in this State and costing them thousands of dollars daily. The peach crop is maturing almost faster than it can be picked and sent to market. The drought is affecting the size of the fruit, its flavor and appearance. A few weeks ago the estimate of the State's crop was 900,000 baskets. This has been dropped by 100,000.

SOUTH CALLS NEGRO, SAYS WASHINGTON

Room There for 900,000 Farmers of That Race, the Tuskegee Educator Asserts.

Negro Women, He Advises, Should Go to the Southern States and Open Millinery Stores.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—The place for the negroes of the United States settle and become prosperous is in the South, said Booker T. Washington, addressing here to-night the annual convention of the National Negro Business League, of which he is President. He told the several thousand delegates that there was room in the South for 900,000 industrious negro farmers, with many other openings. Young negro women, too, were advised to go South and open millinery stores.

Over 200,000,000 acres of unoccupied lands in the South await the negro farmer, said Dr. Washington. He also pointed out that that section of the country needed 1,000 more saw mills, 1,000 brick yards, 4,000 grocery stores, 2,000 dry goods stores, and 1,000 more hotels and restaurants, all of which would be owned and operated by negroes.

The sixty negro banks down South should be increased to over two hundred, he said, while in cities like Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Memphis, New Orleans, Atlanta, Charleston, Savannah and Mobile three or four banks in each city properly organized and conducted could be supported. New York, too, also should have several more negro banks.

"Our race, like others," Dr. Washington contended, "must be built upon an economic foundation as well as an intellectual, moral and religious one. Work more and more in these directions and neither we nor our children will be dependent upon the uncertainties of seeking and holding political office for our living. I repeat we must create positions for ourselves—positions which no man can give or take from us.

"The land, the forests, the minerals, the streams, sun and rain from which original wealth comes draw no color line."

M'QUILLAN KEEPS GIANTS OFF BASES

New Yorks, Unable to Hit Safe at Right Time, Defeated By Pirates, 4 to 1.

The deplorable decline of the Giants is becoming quite alarming. The Pirates rose in their might yesterday and took another game from the New Yorks, which gives them three games out of the series of five. This is the first home series the Giants have lost since they were trimmed by the Cardinals last May. The Buccaneers took yesterday's mingle by the general impression of 4 to 1. A little soft music, please.

The combined talent of Rube Marquard and Otey Crandall oozed off the Pittsburghers like water off a duck's back. On the other hand, as the man said when he tried to put his left glove on his right mitt, George McQuillan, who has just arrived at second childhood, twisted an assortment of benders before the Giants' eyes which, to say the least, were inaccessable. The pity of it.

An inference ought to be inserted here about young Hans Wagner. There is some doubt about Wagner's place of residence, according to some people. Some say he comes from Cripple Creek, while others assert that he comes from the Dead Sea. Judging from the way Honus has been cavorting on the Coogan Meadows, his place of residence is Pepperville, Pepper County, Pepper, which is the next village to Bangtown. This same Jonathan Wagner was the mainspring behind at least three of the Pirates four runs yesterday. No one can deny that last season Honus was getting aged and decrepid, but, honestly, this year he doesn't even limp any more.

The Giants seem to be in the throes of a period of slumping indifference. The wear and tear of setting the pace in the gallop for another bunting is showing its effect. They can afford to lose a number of games and finish the race heads up, but the combination of another prospective blue streamer, world's series kale, and a trip around the world has tended to take their minds off the task at hand.

Even in their bitter defeat there were flashes of brilliancy in the Giants' performance. Pink Jack Murray made a couple of dazzling catches. In the sixth he leaped and plucked Gibson's rocket from the blue skies, while in the eighth he slid and nipped Mike Mitchell's liner off the linoleum as it was about to nestle on Mother Earth. A few more catches like this and Jack can run on an independent ticket for Mayor.

A large gathering of 8,000 folks, including one unusually pretty girl, sat in and hoped that the Giants would do better than they did. But with Hans Wagner, completely surrounded by Pirates playing like a house afire, the Giants needed something stronger than hope to carry them through. An unusual feature about yesterday's diversion was the fact that there was no band within earshot. This is the first time in several days that the pastime hasn't been properly tangoed.

A lift-sized error broke out in the vicinity of L. Doyle and the boys in the 25-cent sun-blistered seats made fun of Lawrence in his misfortunes. The first inning was an even break. After Bobby Byrne had demised at first Carey was safe on Doyle's error. Carey was caught slumbering off first. Viox, who was very much in yesterday's picture, then singled to centre and went to third on Wagner's rap to right.

Viox and Wagner hypnotized the Giants with a double steal, Viox scoring. There is still some doubt about how to pronounce this young man's name. From latest advices the x is silent, like water in Niagara Falls.

Burns opened the Giant attack with a single to right and was sacrificed to the second ostermoor by Shafer. Fletcher rapped a single to left, scoring Burns. In the fifth inning, with two out, the Pirates again imposed themselves on the home boys.

After McQuillan sauntered and Byrne and Carey died by the air route, Viox doubled. Then Hans Wagner ripped a hit through second, which pushed McQuillan and Viox home. Jumping to the eighth, Viox tripled and scored on Owen Wilson's single, after two hands were subdued.

To-day we have with us the Everized Cubs. The score:

YINGLING BLANKS "CARDS."

Brooklyn Pounds Slim Sallee Out of Box and Wins, 8 to 0.

Earl Yingling, whose principal specialty since he became a major leaguer two years ago has consisted in overturning the St. Louis Cardinals, was up to his old tricks yesterday, and the Cards' last visit of the year at Ebbets Field resulted in a shutout victory for the Superbas. Last Saturday the Mound City troupe beat Yingling 1 to 0, this being his only reverse by the Cardinals in two seasons. He went back for revenge yesterday, and got it with plenty to spare, the final figures being 8 to 0 in favor of Brooklyn.

Slim Sallee, the only St. Louis pitcher who has had any success in taming the Superbas during the series, was sent back by Manager Huggins, but he could not repeat. A snappy double play pulled him out of trouble in the first inning, but he was not so fortunate in the next two chapters, and the Superbas piled up a winning lead. Slim was let out after five innings, and Rookie Trekell finished the game. The seventh was a busy inning for the youngster, three hits and a hit batsman pushing over three runs.

Aside of the batting of Bill Collins, the recent acquisition from Ebbets's Newark Club, the game was a tame affair. Collins was out to prove that he measures up to major league requirements as a hitter, and his first four trips to the plate furnished four singles, just as clean as hits can be made. On his last turn at bat he got plenty of encouragement from the crowd to make it five straight, but he popped an easy fly to Huggins.

The Superbas started the run-getting in the second inning. Fisher got a Texas Leaguer to right field with one out, and finished the jaunt when Miller tripled to the centre field gate. Yingling chased his battery mate home with a sacrifice fly to Oakes. With one out in the second inning Collins got his second hit, and Huggins missed a chance for a double play by fumbling Wheat's easy grounder. Daubert's double to centre sent both runners home. In the fifth inning Cutshaw opened with a drive to right centre, good ordinarily for a single, but Oakes overran the ball and it rolled to the gate for a home run. Trekell succeeded Sallee in the sixth inning and got through one inning safely, but the seventh inning was not so easy. Collins and Wheat singled, Daubert fanned, and Smith was hit, filling the bases. Fisher hit sharply past Mowrey, scoring Collins and Wheat. Smith scored while Miller was forcing Fisher at second. Yankees Buy New Outfielder.

The New York American League Club yesterday purchased William P. Holden, centre fielder of the New London Club of the Eastern Association. Holden is said to be one of the fastest men in the association, and his batting average for the season is .349. He is a left-handed batter. He will report to Manager Chance at the end of the Eastern Association season.

YANKEES LOSE TWO GAMES TO BROWNS

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 20.—Frank Chance's hopes of passing the Browns received a severe jolt this afternoon when the Yankees finished their season's series here with a double-header against the Stovall crowd. St. Louis took both ends of the double-header, the first by a struggle that ended only when the third Yankee had been retired in the ninth inning and the second game without much effort. The double-header increases the margin between the two teams to about four full games. The scores were 2 to 1 and 7 to 0.

Inability to hit Allison when runners were within scoring distance accounted for the Yankee reverse in the opener. Although the Brownie allowed only half as many hits as the Browns made off Ray Caldwell, there was no dearth of opportunities for the New Yorkers. Chances loomed up large in the third, eighth, and ninth innings, but the pinch hit was always lacking.

Caldwell pitched winning ball for the visitors, but the Browns accepted the chances which were offered to them, and two timely singles turned the game in their favor. In only one inning—the fifth—did the home team touch Caldwell for more than one hit. In this chapter Stovall led off with a single to centre, reached second on Johnston's sacrifice, and counted on Agnew's single to right centre. The winning run, which came in the sixth inning, was started on Caldwell's only pass. Austin drew the gift and romped along to second on Pratt's sacrifice. After Williams had fouled out, Balenti singled to right field, scoring Austin.

The Yanks got two hits and a pass in the third inning, but could not score. Sweeney, who opened with a single, was doubled on his attempted steal as Caldwell fanned. Maisel beat out a hit to Balenti and reached second when the Indian threw poorly to first. Cook walked and Cree ended the inning with a fly to Austin. The one Yankee run came in the eighth. With one out, Sweeney walked and reached second on Caldwell's infield out. Maisel beat out another hit and then worked a double steal with Sweeney, the latter scoring. Cook walked and Cree again failed to come through with the needed hit. He rolled to Austin, who tagged Maisel on the line. In the ninth Hartzell got two bases when Williams muffed his liner. Peckinpaugh popped to Austin, Knight grounded to Balenti, who threw Hartzell out at third, and Wolter, batting for Zeider, ended the game with a grounder to Austin.

Three innings proved enough to settle the second game in the Browns' favor. Wellman kept the six Yankee hits scattered over a space of five innings and, despite his wildness, always held the visitors safe. Fisher started the game for the Yanks, but he was taken out before the first out had been made in the opening inning. He opened with passes to Shotton and Austin, and both scored when Pratt doubled along the left field foul line. That was enough for Chance, and he called McConnell from the warming pan. Big Mac retired the side in short order, but a bombardment in the third inning settled all doubts about the game. In this frame a pass to Austin, Pratt's second double, Williams's safe bunt, a Cincinnati base hit by Stovall, a double steal, Peckinpaugh's error, and Johnston's single netted four runs. The scores:

MAY BUY POLO FIELD.

Plan for Polo Association to Purchase Point Judith Grounds.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 20.—A plan suggested to make available for the best interests of polo the surplus funds in the treasury of the Polo Association, which has made considerable headway, is for the Polo Association to purchase the grounds now used by the Point Judith Polo Club.

The grounds under the proposed plan will be improved and made the permanent field for the American championships, new stables built, and a race course laid out over which an annual race meeting will be held under the auspices of The Jockey Club and the National Hunt and Steeplechase Association.

The property is owned by the Randolph heirs of Philadelphia, of whom P. S. P. Randolph is the resident representative. Should the sale be effected the family will still be the largest land owners of the vicinity.

P. S. P. Randolph would not say anything on the matter to-day except that the plan had been discussed. He would not admit he had received an offer from the Polo Association. From other quarters it was learned that the Polo Association was willing and had made an offer at an acreage price that had been quoted on it. The refusal of one of the heirs is said to have for the time being blocked the negotiations. The property owners and residents of Narragansett Pier are in favor of the plan.

Meadow Larks Beat Golfers Again.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 20.—Golfers were defeated by the fast Meadow Larks, 10 to 2, in a special polo match of eight periods at the Point Judith Polo Club to-day. This is the second time this week the golfers have met defeat at the hands of the Meadow Lark four, brushing aside all doubt as to which team is the stronger. Lloyd Jones got in a scrimmage in the third period, and in getting clear with his entangled mount was struck on the mouth by W. Randolph's mallet, causing a cut which necessitated his retirement from the game for twenty minutes, when he returned and played a hard game. The summary:

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 20.—Over a very heavy, tiring track, the Grand Circuit horses filled their second day's engagement at Rockingham Park this afternoon before 25,000 spectators. Pacing Record for Directum I.

Special to The New York Times.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 20.—By pacing a mile in 2:02¾ in the final heat of the 2:09 pace here to-day, Directum I., the sensational pacer, owned by James Butler of New York, established a new world's record, reducing the mark set by himself at Monroe last week by one and a half seconds. The first quarter was paced in 0:30¾, the half in 1:01¼, the three-quarters in 1:31¼, last quarter in 0:31½, and the mile in 2:02¾. This mark equals the time made by Uhlan, the champion trotter, two years ago.

It was announced that owing to the accident that Uhlan met with on Tuesday afternoon, when he struck his quarter boot in rounding the turn, the champion would be unable to go against his record of 2:02¾ Thursday afternoon. The summaries:

BLACK BROOM WINS GRAND UNION STAKES

H. P. Whitney's Colt Captures Saratoga Feature Race at Odds of 30 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Black Broom, Harry Payne Whitney's home bred son of Broomstick and Black Venus, was the only Eastern representative to start in the Grand Union Hotel States this afternoon, and in a driving finish he lasted long enough to beat out E. R. Bradley's good youngster, Bradley's Choice. It was the feature race of a fairly good card that was offered by the Saratoga Association, and the victory came as a distinct surprise for behind him, besides Bradley's Choice, there finished such good horses as Little Nephew, Casuarina and Bringhurst, the latter Johnson N. Camden's pair. Black Broom had the best of the weights, for he was a maiden at the time of starting, and that obtained for him a twelve-pound allowance, making his weight 107 against 122 on both Bringhurst and Casuarina, while Little Nephew took up 114 and Mr. Bradley's starter 113 pounds.

As the race was run Bradley's Choice was probably best, for in the stretch he swerved out sharply and lost considerable ground, though at the end Mr. Whitney's starter only beat him a short head. It was Little Nephew who cut out the pace, but the way he collapsed when he was caught in the stretch would make it appear that his defeats of Old Rosebud before he was brought to Saratoga must certainly have been fluky.

In the last race there was an accident that will keep Jockey A. Ferguson out of the saddle for several days. This lad does the light weight riding for August Belmont, and he fell with Tea Enough, a maiden filly from the stable of the Chairman of the Jockey Club. The field was a large one, twelve starting, and when approaching the stretch corner Hill Stream crowded around on the outside, bumping Notoriety, who in turn collided with Harvest Queen, throwing her against the Belmont filly, so that she was hurled to the track. For a time it was feared that little Ferguson had been very seriously hurt, and the ambulance was rushed through the field. Later it was decided to attend his hurts in the jockey room rather than send him to the hospital, and after an examination Dr. Moriarta reported that no bones had been broken. The filly came out of her fall very lame, and it is doubtful if she will be seen at the post for a long time.

A race for hacks and hunters, with gentlemen riding, was one of the features, and Jesse Williamson 2d's, Absconder proved very much the best. It was a mile and a quarter affair, and Tommy Wright, the Baltimore amateur, that rode Absconder, rated him in behind the pace that was being cut out by Marshall Cassidy, riding Ariosto, until the last quarter was reached. There he stepped his mount to the front to win easing up. Joseph E. Davis's Fred Essen, ridden by Lieut. Fred Alpers, was third, and Charles Pfizer's Rock Abbey, on which Harry Tucker had the mount, was a distant last all the way.

Samuel C. Hildreth to-day took over the horses of August Belmont, and he will train them for the rest of the season.

Uncle and Zeus, two of the horses of the late Charles Kohler, now in France, will be shipped to America on the Minneapolis on Saturday, to be sold with the others from the French establishment on Sept. 4. Summary of the racing:

BANTAMWEIGHT TOURNEY.

Egers, Reddy, and Dunn Are Winners at St. Nicholas A. C.

Knockout Egers of the west side outpointed Barry Hill, Battling Reddy gained the honors over Dutch Brandt of Brooklyn, and Mickey Dunn outfought Kid Goodman in the bantamweight elimination tournament at the St. Nicholas A. C. last night. Goodman, who boxed a hard ten-round bout at the Atlantic Garden A. C. on Tuesday night, was substituted for Young Rosen of Jersey City, who was unable to appear. All three bouts went the scheduled ten rounds.

The Egers-Hill contest was billed as the star event of the show, but it fell far below the two other bouts on the programme. Egers was willing at all times, and he carried the work to his opponent from the opening to the closing round. Hill, on the other hand, resorted to so much clinching that he slowed up Egers and spoiled the bout. Only at intervals did the former amateur champion come through with anything to bring out cheers from his followers. Egers not only landed the better punches, but did all the aggressive work, and was entitled to the honors, with plenty to spare. Hill weighed 115 pounds and Egers 118½ pounds.

The Goodman-Dunn bout opened the show, and this contest bristled with action all the way. After two even rounds Dunn went to the front and gained the honors in five of the next six, Goodman leading in the fourth. In the last two rounds Goodman made a spurt, holding Dunn even in some whirlwind boxing in the ninth, and clearly outpointing him in the tenth. The rally came too late, however, to offset the work of Dunn in the earlier rounds. Dunn weighed 111¼ pounds, and Goodman was five pounds heavier.

Dutch Brandt of Brooklyn gave Battling Reddy the hardest kind of an argument in the final bout of the show, but the New Yorker had a shade on his opponent at the finish. In the seventh round Brandt had Reddy on the ropes and both hands were going like trip hammers when the bell rang. Brandt weighed 119 pounds and Reddy 117½ pounds.

OREGON KID A VICTOR.

Far West Motor Boat Wins a Championship at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The 32-foot motor boat championship of the country went to Oregon Kid at to-day's races in the excellent time of 18:34 2-5 for the twelve miles. Van Blerck, 23:05 2-5 was second, and Hydro-Bullet third. The winner hails from Rainier, Ore. Kitty Hawk, Jr., Barnacle, Sand Fly, and Kitty Hawk V. were eliminated in the trials. The last-named boat had the better of her race with Oregon Kid until the last lap, when she narrowly averted a spill and inadvertently cut inside the course, for which she was disqualified. To beat her the winner had to make 17:22.

In the finals Baby Reliance, after running a pretty second to the Oregon boat for six miles, broke down and was out of it. Van Blerck was lapped, but plugged steadily along in 23:05 2-5. Hydro-Bullet was unable to turn over her engine until the last lap was under way, but started in with money in sight through the breakdown of Baby Reliance, and did the course in a leisurely 27:31.

FAST RACE FOR SPERL.

Brooklyn Motor Cyclist Drives 38 2-3 Miles in Half Hour.

Covering a distance of 38 2-3 miles, George Sperl of Brooklyn last night won the one-half-hour race, which featured the mid-week attraction at the Brighton Beach Motordrome. Six men started in the race, and all excepting the winner lost ground by balky machines. Rey Veditz, coming up from far behind, finished second with 37 miles and 2 laps, and Martin Kessler of Newark was third with 37 miles and 1 lap.

The performance of Sperl bettered the best previous distance for 30 minutes of 37 miles and 1 lap, made by Mike Costello in the recent one-hour race.

George Mercier of New York annexed the three-mile professional race. He took first place in the first and third heats, and after a hard fight in the second heat finished a close second to Paul Ohne. The latter was placed second, with twelve points, and Bert Sayer of Newport was third. The summaries:

McDougall Makes Cycle Record.

Donald McDougall, the New York A. C. cyclist, the second time within a week lowered the world's record for one-third of a mile when he won his heat in the Winged Foot handicap from scratch in 37 seconds at the Newark Velodrome last night. Though only an amateur, the figures put on the record book by McDougall excel by three-fifths of a second the best professional mark for the distance, 0:37 3-5, made by Paddy Hehir of Australia on the old Vailsburg track on Oct. 2, 1910.

National Champion Frank L. Kramer in winning the final heat of the half-mile handicap from scratch was within four-fifths of a second of the world's best mark for the distance. The champion had to pedal in his best form to overcome the handicap men, and in the home stretch had a spirited tussle with Ernie Pye, the Australian, whom he defeated by an inch.

In a special match race between Bobbie Spears of Australia and Alfred Grenda of Tasmania, the former won in straight heats, the first at half-mile and the second at a mile.

French Golfer Sails for America.

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 20.—Louis Tellier, the French golf professional, sailed on board the White Star Line steamship Majestic to-day for New York to compete in the national open golf championship at Brookline.

Count Mankowski to Sail Saturday.

Count Casimir Mankowski, owner of the Harmsworth international motorboat cup challenger Ankle Deep, will sail with his boat on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnewaska, Saturday. The Ankle Deep recently won the gold cup at Alexandria Bay with an average of forty-five miles an hour, and will compete against Mackey Edgar's Maple Leaf, which won the trophy last year at Huntington Bay, L. I., and other European speed boats. It is possible that another challenger will be sent over on a later boat, as the International Committee of the Motor Boat Club of America is watching the results of the trials of other fast power boats. The first race will be held in the Solent, Isle of Wight, Sept. 11.

American Sonder Yachts Picked.

MARBLE HEAD, Mass., Aug. 20.—The American Sonder team, which will meet the three German challengers for the President Wilson and Governor Foss Cups next month, was finally picked to-day. It consists of the Sprig, owned by John L. Saltonstall; the Ellen, owned by Charles P. Curtis, and the Cima, owned by Guy Lowell. The Sprig, which was selected yesterday, was designed by E. A. Boardman, while the Ellen was built by W. Starling Burgess, and the Cima by Charles E. Mower.

SPIDER VICTOR IN ATLANTIC REGATTA

Yachtsmen in Gravesend Bay Have Another Splendid Day's Racing.

Yachtsmen who are taking part in the annual race week of the Atlantic Yacht Club had another glorious day yesterday. A snappy wholesail breeze swept over the Coney Island dunes from the east by south and gave the Corinthians one of the best contests of the year. The breeze held true and steady, enabling the regatta committee to pick courses that gave all of the craft plenty of windward work. Prior to the starting of the regatta it was announced that in addition to other prizes the Q class was racing for the Blackton Challenge Cup. Originally it was intended to hold a separate series for this prize. However, as the season is rapidly drawing to an end, the challenging and the defending organization decided to include the Blackton series in the Atlantic fixture.

Unusual interest, therefore, was given to the Q division, the first class to start. The boats were sent twice around a course made up of a run from the starting line off Sea Gate, to a mark off Fort Hamilton. Then came a reach on the port tack to Bell Buoy No. 13½, followed by a beat to Ambrose Channel Buoy No. 18 and another reach home.

At the end of the first round Alice was leading, being timed at 3:00:06; followed by Spider at 3:00:13, Virginia at 3:00:49, Arvia at 3:02:46, Soya at 3:02:55, and Suelew at 3:03:04. During the second round Spider slipped into first place and won by 27 seconds from Alice. The latter boat, however, scored on the Blackton Trophy, racing as a representative of the Larchmont Yacht Club.

Among the handicap boats from Long Island Sound, Rohilla won on both actual and corrected time. At the end of the first round Alert was leading, but the boat met with an accident while jibing at the Fort Hamilton mark and lost more than ten minutes. Yuron was the first of the Larchmont Interclub class to finish and Little Dipper won among the Stars.

Skylark took first place among the knockabouts from Gravesend Bay and Joy again led home the special mixed percentage class. Virginia won in Class R and M & F II scored in the S Class. The latter boat practically has won the Lipton Cup as well the Class S prize.

The finish among the Birds was unusually close and interesting, three of the tiny fellows finishing over a sixteen-mile course within three seconds of each other. Emperor was the first of the Butterflies across the line.

Last night there was a vaudeville entertainment at Sea Gate that was fully enjoyed by all the yachtsmen. To-day will see the final series race sailed.

The summary of the race yesterday is as follows:

OKLAHOMA IDEAS.

Senator OWEN of Oklahoma has not yet made it quite clear what attitude he will take toward the Federal Reserve bill. It was reported that in the statements he made to his colleagues of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee on Tuesday he had ranged himself with the opponents of the measure. He gave them to understand that he might consent to the abandonment of the regional reserve banks, at least to the extent of leaving it optional whether national banks should contribute the capital of these regional banks. But yesterday the Oklahoma Senator authorized Chairman GLASS to inform the Democratic caucus that he was not opposed to the general provisions of the bill; he had merely said that he might entertain the suggestion of an amendment to make it permissible to the national banks to become shareholders in the reserve banks or not, as they pleased.

Inasmuch as the regional reserve bank system is the very structural framework of the bill, which would collapse with that removed, it is difficult to see wherein Mr. OWEN's last statement differs materially from that reported as his first. The national banks have criticised and opposed the provision of the bill requiring them to contribute 20 per cent. of their capital to the reserve banks, but their criticisms were based not so much upon the requirement of that contribution as upon the fact that so large a proportion of their capital would be removed from their control, for virtually the control of the regional banks would be lodged with the Central Board at Washington. A change in the bill giving bankers some representation in the Central Board would go far to remove their opposition to the proposed regional reserve banks.

Mr. OWEN himself has introduced a bill which, in our judgment, has received too little attention. He says that his bill "would meet the situation absolutely." The Owen bill might be described by this title: A bill to provide for the speedy withdrawal and the exportation or hoarding of the billion dollars of gold held in the Treasury for the redemption of outstanding gold certificates to the same amount; to retire the 2 per cent. bonds held by the banks as security for their circulating notes; to issue 3 per cent. bonds to a like amount to be placed in the Redemption Division as a basis for the issue by the Treasury of circulating notes; for the transfer to the Redemption Division of the $150,000,000 of gold now held as the greenback reserve, and for other Oklahoma purposes. This is not the actual title of Mr. OWEN's bill, but it is the way in which it would work. His Treasury notes, instead of being based upon an enormous gold reserve and upon $730,000,000 of 3 per cents, would be based almost entirely upon bonds. Most of the gold would find other means of taking care of itself.

The bill, Mr. OWEN said, was not a substitute for, but a supplement to, the Federal Reserve bill, but, like the amendment to which he showed such a hospitable disposition in the Currency Committee, it would take the heart out of the Administration bill. If Mr. OWEN has any considerable following, if he should persist in the advocacy of banking and currency measures that embody the ideas of Oklahoma and not of the rest of the country, the Federal Reserve bill would appear to be in considerable danger. The disposition of the House, however, is more favorable, as is indicated by the amendments made in the Glass committee. There is so much in the bill that is sound and acceptable, and the changes have for the most part tended to make it so much more acceptable, that it is to be hoped that Mr. OWEN, Mr. HENRY, and the other radicals will yield to wiser men, or possibly to Administration pressure, and consent to the consideration of the bill, not with a desire to load it down with the wreckage of old and rejected financial nostrums, but with a sincere purpose to give the country a workable banking and currency measure.

GLUCOSE, OR CORN SYRUP?

The popular notion is that "glucose" is in some way a product of the glue factory, or that it is made from questionable sources and by a poisonous process. To call the sugary substance by its scientific name, therefore, is to mislead the popular mind as to its attributes, which are quite innocent and healthful. Yet a law of the State of Wisconsin condemns it as misbranded if called by the reasonably accurate name of "corn syrup." No one objects, it seems, to the terms "maple sugar" and "maple syrup," "cane sugar," "cane syrup," and so on. The Board of Food and Drug Inspection at Washington in Decision 87 declares it lawful to label the combination of dextrose, maltose, and dextrin, obtained by the incomplete hydrolysis of starch of corn, as "corn syrup."

The United States Supreme Court has lately sustained the contention of a retail grocer in Wisconsin who imported cans labeled "corn syrup," that he may ignore the State law prescribing that they be labeled as glucose. The highest authorities in physiological chemistry have certified to the nutritious qualities of corn syrup as quite equal to those of syrup made from sugarcane. It is even more digestible than sugar, though not so sweet, and lacking the tendency to granulate when used in confections. These qualities, added to its cheapness, make it specially available to confectioners instead of cane sugar. The Supreme Court ruling has rescued glucose, it seems, from the predicament in which that other innocent and wholesome product, oleomargarine, has been placed by a popular misconception.

PUBLIC HACK STANDS NOW.

Private hack stands and taxicab fares of over 30 cents for the first half mile, or over 50 cents for the first mile, are abolished unless the owners of taxicabs and the hotel proprietors concerned in the effort to restrain the Mayor, the Bureau of Licenses, and the Police Commissioner from enforcing the new taxicab ordinance can obtain a permanent injunction from the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Justice SEABURY of the Supreme Court has refused their plea. He says the Board of Aldermen can regulate vehicles offered for hire and fix the rates of fare, and that the affidavits submitted by the complainants in their suit for a permanent injunction "fall "far short of satisfying the court "that the rates of fare prescribed "are unjust and unreasonable." On the contrary, the court has evidence showing that such motor-driven vehicles can be operated profitably at the rates prescribed.

THE TIMES printed the other day the testimony of Secretary ARMAND of the Independent Taxicab Owners' Association that its 140 members can and do operate their machines profitably at the 30-cent rate. Mr. ARMAND gave fully the details of his business and reckoned a large profit yearly upon his own machine. The taxicab companies that are contesting the law, on the other hand, withhold facts and figures, but state that they have given the public their services at a loss. They were able, at any rate, to pay tribute to the hotels and other abutting owners for the sale of taxicab privileges at from $360,000 to $500,000 annually. The ordinance which they are contesting rids them of this necessity and places them on an equal footing with the taxicabs that have operated at lower rates. Justice SEABURY's ruling flatly contradicts the opinion of the contesting companies that what they charge for their service is none of the public's business.

RAILWAYS FOR ALASKA.

The Premier of British Columbia is not so "techy" as the Premier of the Dominion about being an adjunct of the United States. Mr. MCBRIDE is so far from opposing trade or truck with the Yankees that he proposed in yesterday's TIMES the co-operation of Canada and the United States in building a north and south railway from the State of Washington through the Yukon country into the heart of Alaska. This would give a connection with the railway from Vancouver across British Columbia on which 4,000 men are now working, and the funds for which are provided. Mr. MCBRIDE did not think it prudent to develop in this interview the entire scope of his dream of an Alaska-Panama railway. In the present state of the market for capital he thought it sufficient to propose an expenditure of about $40,000,000 each by Canada and the United States, in the form of guarantees of private railway construction.

That Alaska will have railways sooner or later, in larger or smaller degree, wisely or unwisely planned, is indisputable. Within the week Secretary LANE in a public address at Seattle has declared that it is a first duty of the Government to develop Alaska. That is the logical result of the theory, regarded as self-demonstrating, that it is the duty of the Government to prevent private capital from making a dollar in Alaska. The result of this policy of conservation is illustrated by this dispatch from Seward reading as follows:

> The rolling stock and trackage rights of the Alaska Northern Railway were turned over to a committee of business men to-day to be operated for the benefit of the community. This action was taken by Chief Engineer SWANITZ of the railroad because of a demand by the United States for payment of $67,000 mileage tax. The railroad company says Congress expressly relieved the company from paying this tax until 1916.
> Contributions were made by Seward business men to hire crews and operate cars which will carry supplies to miners and settlers in the interior. No fixed charge for this service is made, but the committee will accept gifts of money.

If the Canadian example of railway construction and the American example of conservation are each too thorough for instant and complete acceptance there may be found some middle way. The Premier points out the defect of the plan on the verge of which the United States appears to be hovering, that is, to build short lines of railways inland from the sea. That is the custom with Governments owning a seacoast and wishing railways. The result is seen in Australia, where there are many lines of railways, beginning at the sea and ending nowhere. The result is a developed seacoast territory, and an interior conserved in the Alaska manner. It is said that although there is more than one group of capitalists ready to develop Alaska without cost to the Government, if allowed a speculator's chance, the Administration favors Government construction. The pending bill appropriates $40,000,000 and the Panama Canal plant for the purpose. Necessarily the construction of a Government railway would leave the Alaskan coal deposits undeveloped and in Government ownership, but the Government would be out the cost of the road, whose prospects may be inferred from the above account of what happened in one case.

On the other hand, if the Government would allow private capital to take up the coal fields the railways might be had without cost to the taxpayers, as an incident to the coal traffic.

This Government has tried both the subsidy and the Government ownership plans with railways. The subsidy to private capital plan is represented in the transcontinental Pacific railways. They have been represented as Grabs and Steals, and certainly have been associated with regrettable incidents. On the other hand, the results have been magnificent. The American desert has been abolished, and for every dollar wasted or stolen, in either subsidy or steals, there have been many dollars of both public and private profit. If the result were an inseparable whole it were impossible to wish it undone. As the matter stands it is possible to wish the same thing done differently, but not in the example of the Government ownership method. The Panama Railway is capitalized at over eightfold the average for the United States. It always has been and is now part of the railway trust. Its passenger rate is 5 cents a mile, and its freight rate is sixfold the average for all railways. Of the two alternatives it is not necessary to choose either, but it is possible to improve upon both. The richness of Alaska will not be known until it is penetrated by railways. There are 65,000,000 tillable acres, and there is more mineral wealth than is known. There ought to be railways, but they ought not to be political railways. A surer help than the levying of taxes would be the taking off of the drags. The railways would build themselves if they were allowed.

REVISING THE RULES.

Mr. Punch had a cartoon, reproduced in THE TIMES the other day, representing Brother Jonathan with an armful of cups and asking John Bull to send over a copy of his cricket rules. Now comes a sequel to the lawn tennis Davis Cup championship, which the Americans have both lost and won, at present being ahead. The English losers propose revising the rules, and the International Federation wishes to offer another cup to take the place of the Davis Cup.

The standard rule proposed is that the service shall be made with both feet on the ground. Can it be possible that this is because the Americans have learned how to make a smashing service by raising one foot? Really, our foreign friends ought not to confess inferiority in this manner and by proposing a transatlantic federation. To form a federation without the champion nation is surely a silly season suggestion, and a worse taunt than even Mr. Punch's cartoon upon his countrymen.

A CAMPAIGN FOR CROPS.

We printed yesterday the outlines of a plan for starting a club for farmers in each of the 1,600 townships of Minnesota, under the leadership of Prof. A. D. WILSON of that State's university. The Faculty of its Agricultural School will help cultivate in each township plots for corn breeding, for the testing of alfalfa, for the work of improving live stock, and for the growing of vegetables, bringing to bear the local educational forces of the State to make the movement permanent.

This project is symptomatic of an intelligent stir and bustle in all the rural communities of the nation. It is part of a plan aided by the United States Bureau of Farm Management, the State agricultural colleges, and commercial associations and local clubs, and is receiving funds from railroads and large implement manufacturers wherever a county in any State will supply one-half of the needed cash.

Some of the railroads, indeed, are bearing the brunt of the expense. Mr. JAMES J. HILL's Great Northern Railway, for example, selects five-acre plots along its line, furnishes their owners with seed, and pays them $10 an acre to cultivate their own soil, provided they follow conscientiously the instructions of an assigned agricultural expert. Mr. PORTER A. L. FERGUSON of Minneapolis, who has achieved wealth by methods of practical modern agriculture, is co-operating with the University of Wisconsin in financing an undertaking to cultivate 125 square miles of arable land, divided into 1,000 farms, which will be self-sustained by the pupils who will work them according to the best business principles. The spirit of Dr. S. A. KNAPP is alive throughout the South, so that on many plantations which a few years ago yielded but half a bale of cotton an acre, two bales are now produced.

The reasons for this unprecedented activity are twofold—the United States is the most backward of all great nations in agriculture, and the values of its crops have increased by over 85 per cent. since 1899. Within a decade the value of farm property has doubled. The land is beginning to attract where once it repelled. The farmers' sons are not going to the cities in such numbers as of yore, and those that stay to till the soil are becoming prosperous.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

To Smoke or Not to Smoke. According to report, 100,000 smokers have signed a petition for special smoking cars on both elevated and surface lines in the city. The need is not obvious. During the Winter time there has been no great demand for smoking privileges on street cars, and the four-rear-seats rule for Summer surface cars seems to have filled the bill. The only necessity for having special smokers is to induce men to smoke more, and from the point of view of all except those who sell the weed, that is no necessity at all. Even the inveterate smoker, who has to spend anywhere from one to two hours in the Subway each day, manages to struggle along without feeling the deprivation too seriously. The smoking car on the elevated trains will always mean the possibility of a half empty car at one end, and crowded accommodations at the other, for much as those interested clamor for the privilege, it is a fact that the smoker would seldom be filled. The traveling public of the city is too quickly changing to be fitted thus into compartments comfortably, and the distances traveled are not great enough to justify smoking cars.

The relaxed regulations which allow smoking in almost all public places, such as hotel dining rooms and theatres, inconvenience sufficently those to whom smoking is generally offensive. Even those of us who resent the efforts of erratic publicists like Dr. PEASE will hesitate to demand much more, especially when actual discomfort accrues to others thereby.

First Acts and Fire Drills We do not agree with Fire Commissioner JOHNSON's statement that the task of making our theatres safe as to fire risks is finished, and that the chief concern is in the control of a panicky audience. Many of the smaller moving-picture theatres of this city are by no means safe as yet, and it will take an even closer supervision than exists at present to make them so.

But Commissioner JOHNSON's emphasis on the prime necessity of a systematic direction of the theatre crowd in case of fire is not misplaced, and his proposed reforms are a further step in the right direction. The fire drills by which ushers and other theatre employés will be trained to divert the crowd evenly to the exits and prevent the fatal rush are excellent, none the better because they should have been instituted long ago. But the chief innovation which Commissioner JOHNSON contemplates is one that might well make the theatrical manager gasp. As the asbestos goes up, a fireman is to come before the curtain bearing a large placard which will instruct the audience to look about and pick its fire-escape. Now, any one whose business depends on the temper of that most sensitive of crowds, the theatre audience, knows how much depends in removing every element that makes for uneasiness. Such a device as that suggested by the Commissioner would not only make every first act in New York twice as flat as the playright intended, but would key up an audience to such a nervous tension that the slightest incident would produce a panic.

The psychological principle on which the Commissioner proceeds is good. The involuntary act usually reverts to the last vivid association. But vivid does not necessarily mean glaring. Print the "In Case of Fire" at the head of the programme and expend extra ingenuity in training the theatre employés to handle the situation.

The Year Book a Good Beginning. The Municipal Year Book of The City of New York is the first attempt to put before the citizens a manual of information concerning the City Government. Every other city of any importance in the United States publishes such a year book. At a late day, but none the less gratefully, we can credit Mr. ROBERT ADAMSON, who has compiled the manual, with the rendering of long needed service. The scope of the information presented in The Year Book is comprehensive and well arranged, but the detail is slight and much of it we have had at our elbow elsewhere from year to year. What detail there is seems to be rather irrelevant, such as the wabbly statement that the Standard Testing Laboratory "has saved the city many thousand dollars," and that savings banks have been added to the school system to teach the pupils the value of money. But the start has been made, and the possibilities for further development of a city manual are many.

Mr. ADAMSON himself outlines in The Year Book another excellent plan for bringing information on municipal affairs to the attention of a greater number of citizens. Instead of the unorganized reports which make The City Record pretty dry stuff to the average reader, Mr. ADAMSON proposes a central control over all municipal reports and bulletins, making an effort not only to discard irrelevant detail, but also to present information by means of charts, graphs and maps. Teaching the New Yorker facts about the conditions in his own city will do more than anything else toward awakening civic spirit.

For the Sake of Posterity.

Would it not be a good investment to buy the automobile by which Thaw escaped, or the milk wagon which shielded him, and put it among the curios and art treasures of the Metropolitan Art Museum?

Think of the importance of the case!

GOOD FUSION JUDGES.

Candidates Are All Men of High Character and Ability.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Whatever criticism may be made of the action of the Committee of One Hundred and Seven, the judiciary ticket nominated by the Fusionists is of quite exceptional character, and it is evident that the committee has successfully resisted political pressure.

Judge Philbin's nomination was a foregone conclusion. The appointment of Judge Philbin by Gov. Sulzer to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Justice McCall was one of the best things that the Governor did.

Mr. Cardozo is much younger than Judge Philbin, but at the age of 43 he has attained an extraordinary reputation at the bar. The politicians complain that he represents nothing. He is an Independent Democrat, but has taken no part in politics.

The nominations for the Court of General Sessions are also out of the ordinary. Mr. Nott, although a Republican, has not been active in party politics, but has distinguished himself in the District Attorney's office under District Attorneys Jerome and Whitman. He is a son of Charles C. Nott, formerly Chief Justice of the Court of Claims, one of the last appointees of President Lincoln, who still lives, at the age of 85. Mr. Nott's experience as a trial lawyer and as an administrator, and his interest in the reform of the criminal law, make his appointment peculiarly fitting.

Judge Wadhams, who was for several years secretary to Judge John Proctor Clarke, and sat in the City Court for one year by appointment of Gov. Hughes, is a man of ability and high character, also very well fitted to sit in the Court of General Sessions.

WIDOWS' PENSIONS.

New Jersey Law Found to be Troublesome and Unpopular.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems as if the worm is beginning to turn in the matter of widows' pensions, if THE TIMES's report from Warren County, N. J., is correct. The officials whose duty it is to raise and disburse the cash are finding it a tremendous job, one likely to aid certain distressed persons by doubling the number of distressed persons. Very likely many widows themselves are acting like Dr. Johnson, who in his poverty-stricken youth threw a pair of boots at the head of the donor; it is like the shop girls, slandered all last Winter by vile imaginings of what their poor pay led to, who finally revolted against it all and had their revolt heard and heeded. Certainly, all widows are not asking pensions.

A woman in New Jersey, owning and existing on a small property, perhaps in the very county whose responsible money officers find it impossible to get the needed cash, has in her desperation over her impending transfer to the class of dependents by this and similar new ideas after she, widowed, spent years in working and saving, written to me to ask such aid as I or others so disposed can give by the means of letters in the press. She evidently foresees a time when eating, drinking, and being merry will be done not by careful or thrifty people, but by the shiftless and thriftless, and even unfortunate, who play all Summer like the butterflies, with no thought of the impending Winter. The poor woman views with alarm, as well she may, the new burden she may be called on to bear.

CARELESS SPELLING

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Leslie County, Kentucky, from which comes a tale of words, partly correct in spelling, reminding one of the "partly fresh" egg story of the English curate, has no monopoly on the new device of striving by all and every means to encourage learners by the sophistical scheme of seeming to credit them for what they know rather than for what they don't know. It is by no means uncommon in schools much nearer home than Leslie County, Kentucky, and which are doubtless the models on which the aforesaid county prides itself, for educators to declare that there are degrees of badness in spelling and arithmetic and the like—all by way of encouraging "the child" who is marked right while he is yet wrong.

For example, "bade" is the past tense of "bid," yet it is incorrect if spelled "bad," though so pronounced. I saw a teacher, named Sweetman, (of course this is not his name,) mark, and defend his action in so marking, "bad" as correct, instead of "bade." Indeed, by such careful guilelessness and protection of the "rights" of the child to considerate treatment he is himself rated as a successful educator. But what of the child?

WANTON KILLING OF BIRDS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many thanks for printing Mrs. James Speyer's able letter on the wanton destruction of birds for plumage. As a naturalist and lover of bird and foliage, let me add my plea in behalf of the rapidly denuded and dying forests. Kill the birds and you kill the trees. The Spaniards hated birds. They killed the birds and lost their forests.

When I first came to this small hamlet there was no imperfect fruit, no potato bug, and scarcely a deformed leaf. Now even ardent spraying will scarcely save our crops. Must flower, fruit, and forest go for a hat?

Babies' Hardships in Summer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Summer's tithe of sick and dying babies forms a heartbreaking procession along the streets of the east side. Their little eyes are tested by the glare of the sun; their bodies are protected from the fresh air by down pillows, flannel shirts, and coverlets; their stomachs are nourished by a mysterious pink fluid that flows out of filthy bottles through dust-choked nipples; their brains are kept balanced by the ceaseless shaking of their buggies; their nerves are pacified by steel riveters and occasional blasting.

They must indeed be fit if they survive—poor little Americans!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Isn't it about time smoking was stopped on ferryboats, trains, &c.? The writer has witnessed several instances where people "wink" at the "No Smoking" sign and smoke undisturbed. This frequently happens in the ferryboats to Staten Island, and sometimes on trains on the elevated. Of course, employes are instructed to enforce the rule, but they go about their duty in a very perfunctory manner. A fine of $1 to each one who fails to comply with the "No Smoking" rule would soon straighten matters.

Resistance to Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For Mayor Gaynor to criticise Magistrate Deuel for his statement in the Healy case is laughable. How short the Mayor's memory is!

Most of us recall Judge Gaynor's Saturday night statement some years ago that 5 cents was the legal fare to Coney Island, and advising passengers to refuse to pay 10 cents; and we also remember that riots took place in various places in Brooklyn the next day as the result of encouraging "resistance to law and order." The Court of Appeals later held 10 cents, not 5 cents, to be the legal fare.

BENEFICIAL FASTING.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been extremely interested in your editorial on "Fasting," which described the experiments of Dr. Morgulis, dealing with his researches upon salamanders. After reviewing the evidence and showing that the body rapidly increases its weight after starvation, you conclude:

> The results of these scientific experiments confirm the testimony of men who have either voluntarily or involuntarily undergone the starving process. It is a dangerous experiment to make upon human beings, and its ultimate effect is not scientifically known. If ever the expedient of starving should be used in medicine or dietetics, it should still be classed under the head of heroic remedies.

Now, I regret to say that I disagree fundamentally with these statements; and I believe that many men who have undergone the "fasting cure," or who know much about it, would also disagree with them.

In the first place—and this is most important—I would distinguish between "fasting" and "starving," a distinction which, unfortunately, even medical men do not make. On Page 564 of my "Vitality, Fasting, and Nutrition," I thus define the difference:

> Fasting is a scientific method of ridding the system of diseased tissue and morbid matter, and is invariably accompanied by beneficial results. Starving is the deprivation of the tissues from the nutriment which they require, and is as invariably followed by disastrous consequences. The whole secret is this: Fasting commences with the omission of the first meal and ends with the return of natural hunger, while starvation only begins with the return of natural hunger and terminates in death. Where the one ends the other begins.

In the case of the lower animals we must suppose that they only obtain, as a rule, enough nutriment to keep them alive. When this is withdrawn they begin to starve—not fast! If a man is in health and eating only as much food as is good for him he also begins to starve when food is withheld. On the other hand, if he is sick—from Bright's disease, pneumonia, smallpox, diphtheria, diabetes—whatever it may be—and food is withheld, he begins, not to starve, but to fast; and this (beneficial) fasting is continued until the man is cured of his disease, when Nature will give the sign by allowing a return of natural hunger. Then, if he were to continue without food, he would begin to starve. No one would recommend that.

Medical opinion is shifting more and more to the view that therapeutic fasting is beneficial—as witness the recent statements of Guelpa and others in Paris. Fasting is a perfectly harmless remedy, if properly conducted, and the patient will increase in strength under it. When he is well, it is starvation, not fasting. The same is true of the lower forms of life. Experiments upon them are, therefore, in the eyes of "fasting experts," quite valueless, and prove nothing. There is all the difference in the world between involuntary starvation and therapeutic, voluntary fasting. Those who have had much experience with both, know this.

POSTAL SLOT MACHINES

Would Make It Easier to Obtain Stamp Supplies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Isn't it strange that in this large city of ours it is oftentimes utterly impossible to get a stamp? I have quite often carried a letter in my pocket for many days just because I could not get a postage stamp when I wanted same. Quite frequently I walked thirty or forty city blocks, actually one and a half to two miles, in search of some stamps. I could not get them for love or money. They are very rare, indeed, if you do not happen to be in the neighborhood of a Post Office. There are plenty of Branch Post Offices, but they usually are "just out" of them when you need them most; some of the drug stores do carry stamps, but they do it to accommodate their own customers, and an outsider has no chance whatsoever unless he buys something for which he has no use.

In some of the European cities every cigar store carries stamps. True enough, they are compelled to do so by their respective Governments which have the Post Office under their ownership, and also the selling of cigars, &c. I think the postal authorities could make arrangements with the cigar stores to keep stamps for the accommodation of the public. They might allow them a little profit on the stamps. Or else some enterprising slot machine manufacturer might put up machines all over the city where stamps could be had a little over their actual cash value. There are quite a number of people who would be willing to drop a nickel, for instance, into these machines for two two-cent stamps, instead of walking miles to a Post Office, losing much time thereby, and being exposed to a good deal of vexation.

LOCOMOTIVE SEARCHLIGHTS.

Used Successfully as Signals on a Western Railroad.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note that one of your readers recently suggested the adoption of vertical beams of light to give warning of the approach of trains at night. Your correspondent of yesterday scoffs at the suggestion and considers it impracticable. While there is some truth in what he says, I beg to call his attention to the fact that this very system was tried out some six or seven years ago on a Western mountain road with a view of notifying the engineer of another train's approach. The report at the time stated that "every movement of the train could be followed from a distance of several miles, even across intervening mountain ranges."

The apparatus consisted simply of a small mirror fastened in front of the headlight in such a manner as to throw one quarter of its rays vertically into the air. The experiment was considered very successful. Such a device would not, however, stop such accidents as the recent one at Long Beach. That particular crossing is one of the safest I know of, as the track can plainly be seen for a distance of several miles. If Mr. Pell had stopped as the other cars did he would be alive to-day.

Fare New York to Toronto.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent asks why the fare to Toronto from New York is $11.80, while the fare from Toronto to New York is only $10.55.

In coming down from Toronto on the Beaver, which leaves there at 5:20 P. M., a passenger is riding on a through Canadian train, but if you come down on the 9 A. M. train you connect at Buffalo with the Empire State Express, and on this train you will be charged $11.80, which is the same fare as when you go to Toronto on any train from New York on the New York Central, which are all extra-fare trains to Buffalo. This will explain the difference.

If your correspondent will try the other lines he will find that he could get to Toronto for $10.55 from New York in just as good a manner as on the New York Central; in fact, if he takes the West Shore he can leave about one hour earlier and be connected at Albany with the train from New York, for which he pays the extra fare, although he would only pay $10.55 via the West Shore. This will explain the difference.

ITALIAN BLACK HAND.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article concerning the disappearance of 700 criminal records of deportable Italians from the files of the New York Police Department is timely, as well as the letter to THE TIMES from Mr. Campino. It is established by the evidence produced by Mr. Vachris and Mr. Crowley, and mentioned by Mr. White in his article in The Outlook, that a good plan was worked out by Gen. Bingham, with the co-operation of the State Department and the Italian Ministry for Foreign Affairs, for the deportation of such Italian criminals as were deportable under the existing law. This plan was not put into effect when all the necessary elements had been collected at a considerable expense to the city and with the loss of one valuable life.

The results are plainly seen to-day. A very large majority of honest and law-abiding Italians feel that they cannot hope to obtain the protection they are entitled to. The blame is placed by the general public on the Italian Government, which is accused of facilitating the exodus of troublesome criminals, and on the Italian population, which is accused of submitting to their dictation. As a matter of fact it has been demonstrated that the Italian Government has always done its utmost to prevent Italian criminals from coming here and was only too willing to help the American authorities to send them back. On the other hand the Spinella case and other similar cases show conclusively that the average peaceful citizen has no adequate protection if he proposes not to submit to the dictation of criminals more or less allied with low grade politicians.

In no other civilized country could such a scandal as the destruction of so many valuable records take place without having the responsible officials called strictly to account.

To the light already shed on the subject, I may add that Commissioner Baker told me that the Department was in possession of 742 penal certificates of deportable Italian criminals, gotten together by Petrosino, Vachris and Crowley with the co-operation of the American and Italian Governments. Commissioner Cropsey, who succeeded Baker, told me he knew nothing of such certificates. Commissioner Waldo, who succeeded Cropsey, has never seen them. Inspector Russell, in charge of the Detective Bureau when the certificates were procured, has told me that he left them in the office.

Now nobody knows anything about them; the Curran committee could not get them, and in fact it is known they have been destroyed at Police Headquarters, probably under the pressure of politicians allied with the deportable criminals.

There is enough evidence at hand to start a Grand Jury investigation of the whole matter and punish the persons responsible for such a deed. And this is the right course to follow, rather than abusing all the time a nationality which would be a great deal better off if its critics, instead of losing time in sensational tirades against it, should get busy in applying their own laws.

SMOKE DISCHARGE WASTEFUL.

Health Department Should Compel Manufacturers to Burn It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have followed with interest the news and editorial articles of THE TIMES on the subject of smoke abatement, and I heartily second the suggestion for more co-operation between the Health Department and the owners of offending smokestacks.

Fully 90 per cent. of the smoke now produced can be prevented at a very small cost for the installation of a smoke consumer, which will result in an actual saving of a large part of the $800,000,000 now annually lost, according to the Government's estimate.

I have interviewed a large number of owners and managers of power plants, and find the attitude of many to be shortsighted, in that they prefer to pay a fine of $10 every once in a while and regard it as a license to continue to offend until the Inspector happens to catch them again, rather than to burn the fuel which now goes up the stack.

If the public will insist that the Health Department keep our city clean, the owners of power plants can be induced to make the slight changes necessary to consume the smoke and find it profitable to do so. The Health Department should model a smoke ordinance after the one suggested by the Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, and should adopt the "Ringlemann smoke scale," instead of the halftone illustration, now used, to determine the density of the smoke coming from a stack.

"Egyptian" Cotton Culture.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES's article on "Egyptian Cotton in Arizona" it is made to appear that the production of long staple cottons in America is a new discovery, and that this experiment of 4,000 acres in the irrigated valleys of Arizona is the beginning of long staple culture in this country nearing the quality and value of the "Egyptian."

The Agricultural Department at Washington will tell you emphatically that the Yazoo Delta of Mississippi has produced from its natural alluvial soil an average of 400,000 bales of long staples yearly for many seasons, much of it being the equal of the "Egyptian," or our own "Sea Island," bringing in the open markets prices ranging from fifteen to twenty-five cents per pound, according to grade and length of fibre. I have been told by one of the officials of the largest corporations using extra length staples in America that his company gave Yazoo Delta long staples, grade and length being equal, the preference over Egyptian cotton.

THE POLICEWOMAN.

The wind was howling dismally,
Thro' bleak Chicago streets,
The night platoon had just gone out,
The girls were on their beats.
A sudden call for help that caused
Pedestrians to stop
Fell on the ears of Gwendolyn,
Brave Gwendolyn the cop.

Her jeweled nightstick by her side,
Her bracelet on her wrist,
Her beautiful pearl-handled gun
Grasped tightly in her fist.
On toward the pleading voice she ran—
Or rather seemed to hop,
For hobbled was fair Gwendolyn,
Proud Gwendolyn the cop.

The cries led to a women's club
Where wild disorder reigned,
The stairs, our hobbled heroine
With difficulty gained.
One glance at the intruder
That had caused the girls to flop
And in a swoon fell Gwendolyn,
Brave Gwendolyn the cop.

A man who heard the roomful
Of excited women shout
Soon calmed their fears and quickly
Put the fierce intruder out.
But friends now say, who've watched her
Into ice cream parlors drop,
That mouse to drink drove Gwendolyn,
Brave Gwendolyn the cop.

FINDS US IGNORANT OF THE REAL RUSSIA

De Bernoff, Here to Lecture, Says We Have Not Received Intelligent Classes.

THIS A CITY OF EXTREMES

Finds Us Progressive in Many Respects, but Conservative in the Matter of Transportation.

Michael de Bernoff, Russian lecturer and journalist, finished yesterday his first week in New York, in which he has oriented himself. Having got his bearings, so to speak, Mr. de Bernoff consented to give some of his impressions. One is, that American women very much resemble those of Russia. He would not say, he thought American men handsome, but he believed from their looks, he said, that they might be good and kind.

M. de Bernoff is tall, with closely cropped gray hair and a pointed dark beard. He is accompanied by his son, and besides several thousand lantern slides and quantities of photographs illustrating almost every feature of Russian landscape and civilization, they have a variety of mediaeval Russian costumes, which M. de Bernoff uses to assist in the matter of local color when he is lecturing. The traveler started out with the determination of lecturing his way around the world, and he intends to take plenty of time. He set out from home in April, and has made Berlin, Paris, London, and Liverpool acquainted with Russia. And he has become acquainted with Canada on the way here. He says he is trying to perfect himself in English before starting on an American lecture tour, and meanwhile he is writing letters to his paper, The Kiewlianine of Kiew or Kieff, or Kiev, whichever way you want to spell it, and getting material to tell his audiences at home what they don't know about the United States, which, M. de Bernoff intimates, is a lot.

Space requirements will not permit the publication of the story of M. de Bernoff's life, but he says he is of the aristocracy, and an aristocrat does not like the familiar way an American policeman or street car conductor has of taking one by the arm and calling him "old man," when imparting information. Still, M. de Bernoff is democratic enough to realize that this is only done out of kindness of heart. M. de Bernoff tried on some fifty kokoshniks yesterday to show a reporter how they were worn. To allay apprehension, it might be mentioned that a kokoshnik is a Russian headdress, and it varies in shape and size from a wide mouthed after-dinner coffee cup to an enlarged half moon of Camembert cheese. The newspaper M. de Bernoff writes for, he says, is subventioned by the Russian Government, and speaking politically, it does not touch the left, nor does it incline too much to the right. Many of its writers are professors in the University of Kieff.

"I am striving for no record in my tour of the world," M. de Bernoff said yesterday. "I can retire from it in six months or six years. Nobody sent me. My newspaper could not afford to pay my expenses. In getting about New York I have discovered this, that you have not received any of the intelligent classes of Russian people in this country. Most of those who have come over are workmen. You do not really know anything about Russia, and we do not know anything about you.

"I may tell you that Russia is prospering. Seldom do you see paper money in circulation over there. Everywhere it is easy to get gold. Some say our gold comes from France, but that is not true, for France does not produce gold. Russia has everything we need.

"Politics is very quiet in our country, though naturally you would not expect in a country where a participation in politics is a new thing, there could be such a thing as quiet. I regard it as a good thing for us to have a Parliament. Some men are bound to have views, and when they can get a chance to air those views for two or three hours, it makes them feel better in the end.

"In New York I find many things exceptional, and some that are beautiful. The two things that strike me most forcibly are the tall buildings and the electrical advertisements. Of course the Pennsylvania Station and the Grand Central Terminal are wonderful. But I have been much struck with the inferiority of your churches, compared with those of almost any European country. After becoming acquainted with the wonderful cathedrals of France and Italy, and of Belgium and England, I cannot find in me anything like admiration for St. Patrick's.

"Then there is the matter of monuments. To be impressive, a monument must stand out from among other buildings, by reason of size or some other distinguishing characteristic. Yet your monuments here dwindle to insignificance among your tall buildings. There is a lack of proportion. One cannot see the statutes of your celebrated men on your street corners.

"This is a city of extremes. You are progressive, and you are very conservative on the matter of transportation. Horse cars still cross Broadway and sometimes tie up the whole traffic in the big thoroughfare. Those parts of Broadway where this occurs look very much like Lodz. I shut my eyes and then open them, and I am on the principal street of Lodz.

"I find your streets very dirty. I believe the people of Southern Europe that you have with you are responsible. I find types here similar to those I have known over there, who know not what cleanliness of person or of surroundings means. The American women are beautiful. I cannot say the same about the men. Yet their eyes are kind and good. It is not true, as I had heard, that they are selfish, because I have found everybody courteous. Sometimes the policeman or the car conductor or the cab driver gets familiar enough to touch you on the arm or the shoulder when he gives you information. This, I believe, is not intended as an insult, but as a caress.

"Among American women there is a much larger variety of types than in most European countries. They are fleshier than the English, not too tall and thin. This I attribute to the climate, the food, and the prosperity of the country. The American woman is very much like the Russian, only your men are spoiling them by admiring them too much. In Russia it is the reverse. The woman over there has to work too much."

Mother Hurt by Accident.

The falling of a kitchen ceiling has brought unlooked-for and trying hardship to a widowed mother and her six children. She and one of her sons were injured by falling plaster. Until the accident happened she and her eldest daughter, with the little help from us, had been able to maintain the home. Her injuries will not permit her to work at present, and their only income is the $3.50 which the eldest boy, now fifteen, who has recently secured his working papers and is employed as a messenger, hands over to his mother.

The eldest girl, now sixteen, who had been working as a dressmaker's helper, has had to stop work to care for her mother and the home. The nine-year-old son, who was also hurt by the falling plaster, is a cripple and has been sent by the Ruptured and Crippled Hospital to a home on Long Island for the Summer.

The mother, when well, earns from $2 to $5 a week caring for crippled children who, like her own boy, need watchful supervision during their drives in the park. When the weather makes this impossible she does day's work.

Until the family can recover from this mishap and pull itself together again we should like to pay their rent of $10 a month. The Charity Organization Society asks for $60 to cover this expense for six months, when it is believed the family will again be self-supporting.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the Charity Organization Society, 105 East 22d Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges the following gifts sent to previous appeals in THE TIMES: "E. A. R.," $1; "Anonymous," $1; "E. N. E," $5; A Well Wisher, $2; Mrs. Martha B. Gifford, $5; C. W. S.," $1; Mrs. Fordyce Barker, $5; P. B. Heilner, $5; Miss Margaret M. Riker, $5.

OLYMPIC BRINGS MANY NOTABLES

Waldo and Mrs. Roosevelt Among Those Who Crowd White Star Liner's Cabins.

POLICE SYSTEMS STUDIED

Commissioner Approves London School for Recruits and May Duplicate It Here.

The White Star liner Olympic arrived from Liverpool yesterday with 1,628 passengers. Of this number 478 were in the first cabin and 478 in the second cabin. She carried 672 passengers in the steerage. It was said that on her next westward voyage every cabin has been booked. What is true of the Olympic is true of the other ships sailing to this country.

The list of saloon passengers included many well known persons. Among the arrivals were: Police Commissioner Waldo and Mrs. Waldo, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Darby, who was Miss Ethel Roosevelt; Col. Samuel H. Church of the London Fire Department and Mrs. Church, Morgan Kingston, the Welsh tenor, who was a miner before he began to sing professionally; Dr. Hermann M. Biggs of the New York Health Department and Mrs. Biggs, Dr. Charles K. Mills, the alienist, who was a Thaw witness at the last Thaw sanity hearing; Miss Doris Keane and Miss Willette Kershaw, actresses; Col. Sir Edmund Antrobus, Judge Willard Bartlett of the Court of Appeals, Dr. G. E. Brewer and Mrs. Brewer, Sir John O. Millar, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Untermyer, Peter Cooper Hewitt, the inventor, and ex-Assistant Secretary of State Huntington Wilson and Mrs. Wilson.

Police Commissioner Waldo, who was among the first of the Olympic's passengers to land, has been away six weeks. In his travels he studied the police systems of London and Paris. He said the London Department was as nearly like that of New York as any in Europe. The Commissioner asserted that he had been much impressed by the School of Recruits for the London Department.

In London, the Commissioner said, the recruits are kept on a probationary period for six months, and six weeks of this time is spent in elementary study. When the policeman finished this course he is capable of making out an intelligent report so far as writing and spelling are concerned. The Commissioner said that this system might be adopted here.

In London and Paris the detective bureaus are operated under the same system as in New York. There is no Central Office, and the detectives are distributed throughout the different precincts or districts.

Commissioner Waldo said that he inquired in all the departments which he visited about the "line-up" system which he abolished in this city. In none of the departments, the Commissioner said, was this system used, and the general impression of all the foreign heads of Police Departments was that the system was of very little value.

The Commissioner refused to discuss politics from any angle. He said that he would soon appoint two new Police Captains, sixteen Lieutenants, and 500 new policemen to be distributed in all of the boroughs except Manhattan. Mrs. Roosevelt said that she was going to Oyster Bay.

Dr. Biggs returned from attending the International Congress of Physicians in London. Dr. Mills, Dr. Brewer, and other physicians on the Olympic had attended the Congress, and they agreed with Dr. Biggs that it had been a great success from every point of view.

Miss Doris Keane was asked if a rumor that she was going to marry Howard Gould had any basis in fact. She said that there was no foundation whatever for the report and that she expected to continue her career on the stage. Miss Kershaw comes home to appear in a play called "Daughters of Joy," which will open at the Princess Theatre. Col. Church of the London Fire Department arrives to attend the International Convention of Fire Chiefs to be held in this city soon.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—Cooped up in a cobbler shop, Alfred Phillips and Albert Quenqui this afternoon fought out in a pistol duel the Phillips-Quenqui family feud, which began over assertions Quenqui is said to have made against the name of Miss Louise Phillips. Phillips was shot through the neck and died in a hospital. Quenqui is seriously wounded.

According to information given to the police, members of the Phillips family, who recently started a $10,000 suit against Quenqui, alleging that he had accused Miss Louise Phillips of being "no good" and "crooked," had not taken her brother Alfred into their confidence in the matter. He knew nothing about the suit, it is said, save what he saw in the newspapers, and sought Quenqui to find out about it.

After the encounter Quenqui dashed out of the shop hatless, and Phillips reeled in the doorway. Phillips fell in front of the place, and Quenqui fled down the street. He was stopped by a crowd and was taken to the hospital with Phillips.

Both families are well-to-do.

McLoughlin and Bundy Defeat Strachan and Griffin for Doubles Titles.

TAKE THREE STRAIGHT SETS

New York Players Eliminated from Singles Competition—Close Battles on Casino Courts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Only eighteen men are left to struggle for the national tennis championship out of the 148 who began the competition Monday morning. To-day closed with two of the fourth round matches uncompleted, the four men who are behind their fellows being William M. Johnston and John S. Strachan of California, R. N. Williams, 2d, of Philadelphia and C. M. Bull, Jr., of New York. There does not seem any way to bring them forward so as to be in line with the fourteen men who now occupy brackets in the fifth round, consequently the final round cannot be played until next Tuesday at the earliest.

The doubles championship was decided to-day, the holders, Maurice E. McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy, retaining the title which they won last year. In the presence of the biggest gallery seen at Newport, and on the new championship court, they inflicted a straight set defeat upon John S. Strachan and Clarence J. Grifffin, champions of the Pacific States and winners of the sectional doubles at Onwentsia. It was a disappointing match and a quick one. Only once did the challengers seem dangerous, and that was in the second set, when they pulled up from 1—5 to 5 all, and for the first time revealed their real game. It was a flash in the pan, however, for they slumped at this point and lost the set and the following one in short order.

True to expectations Strachan and Griffin made Bundy their target and McLoughlin was forced to be a spectator most of the time. Rarely, if ever, has a team directed its shots to one man of the opposing side with such remarkable consistency. McLoughlin was ignored and a perfect fusillade of drives, volleys and smashes was rained upon Bundy. He stood up splendidly under the bombardment, never seeking assistance from McLoughlin, who remained in his part of the court and let Bundy work out his own salvation. A big error score was run up by Bundy, but he also scored most of the points. Time and again he bore the brunt of fierce rallies at the net, both Strachan and Griffin drawing the ball right at him, and often catching him in the end. McLoughlin grew cold waiting for a chance to make a shot, sometimes when it came failing to score because his eye was out, or his stroke off. Bundy was unaccountably weak over head, smashing many balls into the net or out of court, instead of killing them outright, as he is wont to do. Yet, all things considered, Bundy played the best game of the four, and predictions that he would crumple up under the fierce attack were not realized.

McLoughlin served splendidly, scoring a number of aces. He also smashed well and his volleying was but little below his standard. Off the ground he was erratic, but this was because he so seldom got a chance to hit. His change of pace was admirable and won many points.

For the challengers Strachan quite overshadowed his partner. He hit tremendously hard, some of his smashes, drives and volleys being extraordinary. Even his back hand, supposed to be very weak, was fairly dependable, and he sometimes scored outright on it. In the last set he went off badly in his eagerness to pull the match out of the fire, making error after error. His service was uniformly good. Griffin's play was more even, but he was a class below the other three men. He had neither the speed nor the prescience which marked the other men's play, and he fell down often on difficult plays.

What was expected to be the feature singles match of the day—the one between Bundy and Strachan—proved almost farcical, and proved to be a Waterloo for the doubles champion. Strachan was right on his game, and revealed a resourcefulness and ability to get to difficult shots that few had expected. He had tremendous pace, splendid direction, and great speed in covering the court. Bundy was but the shadow of his former self. He lacked speed of foot and speed in his shots.

No upsets were recorded to-day, except that Alfred S. Dabney was beaten in straight sets by Rowland Evans, a hard-hitting young Philadelphian, who played good, sound tennis. Charles M. Bull, Jr., had a desperate struggle with Fred C. Inman, winning finally after five long sets. Another close match resulted when E. H. Whitney of Boston and Dean Mathey of New York played. The former won in three deuce sets, forty-two games being necessary. Leonard Beekman beat W. P. Burden in straight sets, again displaying cleverness and good strokes.

The leading players left are Gardner and Niles and William Johnston and R. N. Williams, 2d, who are scheduled for the championship court to-morrow, and Strachan and W. F. Johnson and McLoughlin and Clothier. The latter pair will not come together until Friday.

The Davis Cup was filled with champagne to-night, and from it toasts were drunk to the members of the team which won it—McLoughlin, Williams, Johnson, and Hackett. Vice President H. W. Slocum of the U. S. N. L. T. A. introduced these men in a short speech. The point score and summary:

IN THE WHITE MOUNTAINS.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, N. H., Aug. 20.—The largest crowd of White Mountain visitors ever assembled in Bethlehem was here to-day for the gala day benefit of the Bethlehem Country Club and the annual tag day, aeroplane ascension and other features. Several hundred motor cars from Intervale, Crawford, Jackson, Bretton Woods, Sugar Hill, Profile, Jefferson, Whitefield and other resorts, arrived early this morning in time for the street parade, with which the festivities opened.

Col. R. A. Swigert of Aiken, S. C., who is spending the Summer at Sinclair Lodge, was marshal of the parade, which started at the Arlington and proceeded to Maplewood, returning to the Sinclair House to disband. Every hotel in Bethlehem and Maplewood and many of the cottages were represented with beautifully decorated floats, and it was the most successful parade ever held here. There was much entertaining in Bethlehem, and in the afternoon following an aeroplane flight by Raymond L. Morris in a Curtis biplane, Bethlehem and Fabyans were seen in the most important baseball game of the season.

Mrs. D. W. Harrington entertained at luncheon at the Sinclair House in honor of Mrs. H. B. Barron, Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Noble and Guy C. Noble.

Among the parties motoring to Bethlehem for luncheon were Lewis N. Gibb, William Pullman, R. H. Pinkerton, and Jay Carlisle from the New Profile House, Arthur Mulford, Harold Butler, Kenneth McGrath, and B. H. Rowles from the Pleasant Hill House at Sugar Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Lancaster, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Marion and the Misses E. Prescott and Helen Scudder motored up from the Lake Tarleton Club for the day, and Charley Dudley and party motored up from Dartmouth College.

A large party of Fabyan guests went over with Irving W. Jackson to the baseball game, and the Fabyan team had many supporters.

The most successful children's vaudeville entertainment ever held at the Fabyan was given there last evening under the dirction of Miss Isabelle Florence and Miss Daisy Lane. Features were the dancing by Mlles. Helena and Rosabelle Laemmle of New York and the readings by Miss Currier of Boston. A collection was taken for the Fabyan library. Another vaudeville by the younger set is being arranged for an early date, and the annual tape races are also in preparation.

A thé dansant is being given in the billiard room of the Mount Washington Hotel this afternoon, arranged by Col. Downey and his sons of Washington and Bruce Dellett of New York, at which the younger set will be in evidence. Col. Downey and his sons will furnish music with their mandolins and drum and Mr. Dellett has arranged for a tea downstairs afterward.

MAY IMPEACH JUDGE SPEER.

Committee Considers Many Charges of Misconduct in Office.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The House Judiciary Committee held a long executive session to-day for the consideration of charges of misconduct submitted by Attorney General McReynolds against Judge Emery Speer of the United States Court for the Southern District of Georgia, with a view of ascertaining whether they were sufficient to warrant impeachment proceedings.

The committee decided not to make public at this time the probable outcome of its investigation. A resolution was adopted binding members of the committee to secrecy, and a recess was taken until Aug. 25.

The committee had before it the report of an investigation of Judge Speer's conduct by Special Examiner R. Colton Lewis, submitted to the Department of Justice, together with numerous affidavits and other exhibits.

At Friday's session of the House the matter may be formally brought up with a view to outlining a plan of action by the committee should it determine to report the charges to the House either favorably or unfavorably.

The most serious charges dealt with in the examiner's report are:

That Judge Speer unlawfully permitted the wasting or dissipation of bankruptcy estates that came within his jurisdiction as a Federal Judge.

That he presided in cases in which his son-in-law was an attorney on a contingent fee, with full knowledge that his decision would affect the fee of his son-in-law.

That he was guilty of imposing unlawful punishments for contempt in cases coming before his court.

That he ignored the mandates of the Circuit Courts of Appeal and of the Supreme Court of the United States in certain cases.

That he was absent from his district when he should have been attending to his duties in court.

That, contrary to law, he tried cases outside of his district.

There were other charges relating to what the Judge's accusers claimed to be arbitrary conduct and one relating to personal habits. The accusations in part are a reiteration of attacks made on Judge Speer from time to time since his appointment to the Federal bench by President Arthur.

A member of the Georgia delegation, it was said to-night, may be designated informally to start action in the House by introducing a resolution. Judge Speer will have an opportunity to appear before the Judiciary Committee just as Judge Archbald was accorded that right in the last impeachment case.

Judge Speer in a recent public speech denounced what he characterized as the espionage of Federal agents upon Judges, and Senator Borah recently charged in the Senate that Federal agents had harassed Judges by investigations to influence their action in cases in which the Government was interested.

OLLIVIER, FRANCE'S WAR PREMIER, DIES

WIELDED IMMENSE POWER

And Committed His Nation to the War with Germany—An Exile in Italy After His Fall.

ANNECY, France, Aug. 20.—Emile Ollivier, the famous French politician, who was Premier of France under Napoleon III., died here to-day.

Emile Ollivier, the Minister of Napoleon III., who "with a light heart" assumed all the responsibility for the disastrous war with Germany in 1870, was born at Marseilles on July 2, 1825, being the son of Demosthenes Ollivier, a simple tradesman. In his early youth M. Ollivier came to Paris, where he studied law, and was called to the bar. He rapidly rose to political power.

On Jan. 2, 1870, the Emperor appointed him Premier and Minister of Justice. One of the new Prime Minister's first administrative acts was to modify the constitutional law. His proposal evoked a great storm of opposition in the Chamber, but the French people by an overwhelming majority approved it. But despite this, three of the Cabinet resigned.

At the moment when Ollivier had reached the pinnacle of his glory ominous clouds gathered on the political horizon, arising out of the question of the succession to the Spanish throne. It is no secret that in his negotiations with Prussia M. Ollivier's diplomacy was of the wildest and most unreasoning kind, and he fell an easy prey to the wily plans of Bismarck. The withdrawal of the candidature of the Hohenzollern Prince only served to make the French Premier more exacting in his new demands. But the Prussian monarch refused to see the French Ambassador. The Iron Chancellor's reply to the foe who had sought to humiliate him in the eyes of Europe was the falsified Ems telegram. It was too late now to draw back, and M. Ollivier found himself committed to war.

Mounting the tribune on July 15, 1870, on the eve of the confict, he gave utterance to the famous expression, "C'est avec un coeur leger que j'assume toutes les responsabilites." His sobriquet ever afterward was: "l'homme au coeur leger."

Ollivier's Ministry fell the following August, and with it the first stone of the Imperial edifice the complete overthrow of which was to follow at Sedan a few weeks later.

The ex-Premier retired at first to Fontainebleau, but later went into exile in Italy. He settled down in Florence, where he remained several years. Returning to France, M. Ollivier made a determined effort to re-enter political life. He was a candidate at a by-election in 1876, but was hopelessly beaten, and retired to private life the next year after another defeat.

Within the last year M. Ollivier has published a work dealing with the Franco-Prussian war. He denies the common criticism that France was not prepared for war, and asserts that with Bismarck in command of Germany's policy, the war was inevitable. His "History of the Liberal Empire" is an exhaustive work in many volumes.

LENOX PRIZE VEGETABLES.

Those of Carlos de Heredia Win First Place—Awards for Fruit.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Aug. 20.—The annual midsummer show of garden flowers and vegetables by the Lenox and Stockbridge cottagers, under the auspices of the Lenox Horticultural Society, opened this afternoon in the Town Hall.

Among the exhibitors of flowers were Giraud Foster, Mrs. Robert Winthrop, Mrs. William E. S. Griswold, Mrs. John E. Alexandre, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos de Heredia, Mrs. John E. Parsons, Mrs. Morris K. Jesup, Dr. Charles McBurney, Mrs. George Westinghouse, Mrs. George Winthrop Folsom, Warren S. Salisbury, Joseph H. Choate, William D. Sloane, Mrs. William B. O. Field.

Drought had reduced the number of exhibits greatly, but the quality was high. Because of the great rivalry over the vegetable exhibits, they were judged first, this work taking up all of the afternoon. Larry Allen, of Frederick W. Vanderbilt's estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., and Walter Angus of Chapinville, Conn., made the awards.

In the flower divisions the displays of salpiglosses, scabiosa and delphinium were excellent. There were several varieties of sweet peas, including the beautiful red Orion, which was displayed from the gardens of Mrs. George Winthrop Folsom and Warren E. Salisbury.

Among those at the show were Mr. and Mrs. William B. O. Field, Mrs. Oscar Iasigi, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos de Heredia, John W. Kohlsaat, Miss Amy Kohlsaat, Mr. and Mrs. Rixhard C. Dixey, Miss Gertrude Watson, Mrs. George E. Turnure, Mr. and Mrs. Brown Caldwell, Miss Heloise Meyer, Miss Gertrude Parsons, Grenville L. Winthrop, Miss Georgiana Sargent, Mrs. W. E. Taylor, the Misses Bristed, and Miss Beatrice Clarke.

Mrs. John E. Parsons showed the best white grapes, muscat Alexandra, and Carlos de Heredit and Mrs. Robert Winthrop received second and third prizes.

For black Hamburg grapes, Mrs. Parsons's displays were the best. One bunch weighed eight pounds. Mrs. Robert Winthrop received second, and Carlos de Heredia the third award.

In the classes for peaches and nectarines, the exhibits of Mrs. Morris K. Jesup were to the fore. She won the first award in each class. Mrs. John E. Parsons and Charles Lanier divided second and third awards for peaches, and Mrs. Robert Winthrop had the second best exhibit of nectarines.

Charles Lanier showed the best figs, William D. Sloane and Mrs. Robert Winthrop winning the second and third awards.

In the melon department there were many exhibitors. Mrs. Robert Winthrop showed the best indoor and outdoor melons. Her variety was the Emerald Gem. Carlos de Heredia and William D. Sloane, Mrs. John E. Parsons, and Mrs. John E. Alexandre received awards in these classes.

In the class for the best collection of fruit, Mrs. Robert Winthrop, who showed excellent plums, peaches, apples, and berries, won. The prize for the best collection of outdoor fruit was won by Mrs. John E. Parsons.

In the vegetable domain, where the great interest among the growers rested, the chief prize went to Carlos de Heredia for his exhibition of twenty-four distinct varieties of vegetables. He showed nearly perfect mushrooms, tomatoes, green corn, cauliflower, endive, and lettuce. The exhibition was one of the highest ever scored in a Lenox show. Mrs. Robert Winthrop's wonderfully productive garden was second in this class, the judges debating long before making the award. In the class for twelve distinct varieties of vegetables, the garden at Spring Lawn, Mrs. John E. Alexandre's country place, defeated that of Dr. Charles McBurney in Stockbridge in another close decision.

Joseph H. Choate took the first award in the class for six distinct kinds of vegetables.

In another class Carlos de Heredia won awards for artichokes, long beets and celery; William B. O. Field for string beans and round beets; William D. Sloane for lima beans.

All the flower classes will be judged to-morrow and the rest of the vegetable awards will be made.

Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Mrs. Amos T. French, who have been at the Hotel Aspinwall, have gone to Newport.

At the auction bridge party given this morning at the Hotel Aspinwall by Mrs. Francis B. Eager of New York the prizes were taken by Mrs. William Brinkerhoff of Jersey City, Miss Isabel McKinley of New York, Mrs. S. Chester Lyon of Pittsfield, and Frederick E. Walbridge of New York.

Mrs. Byam K. Stevens will arrive at her cottage to-morrow from Europe.

Miss Ethel Brooks, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Sidney Towle, in Rye, N. Y., has returned to the Curtis Hotel.

Swatin, Mrs. Thomas H Rickert, and Miss K. Van Dusen of Pottsville, Penn., arrived to-day at the Curtis Hotel.

MRS. J. CLINCH SMITH DIES.

Widow of Titanic Victim Never Recovered from Shock of His Death.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Mrs. James Clinch Smith, a well known American resident of Paris, died to-day at Leysin, Switzerland. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Barnes of New York, were urgently cabled for last month and arrived before their daughter's death.

There was a tragedy in the life of Mrs. Smith, who practically died of a broken heart. She and her husband had been living apart for some time when, at the wife's request, Mr. Smith came to Europe. The domestic differences were amicably settled and the husband decided to return to New York to find a house before Mrs. Smith's homecoming. He booked passage on the Titanic and went down with that ship. His death grievously affected his widow, who never recovered from the shock.

Mrs. Smith was very popular in society here, and was a prominent figure at fashionable resorts, such as Nice, Monte Carlo, and Deauville.

Mrs. Smith before her marriage was Miss Bertha Barnes of Chicago. She had lived in Paris for a great many years. James Clinch Smith, who was a victim of the Titanic disaster, divided his time between New York and Paris and was well known as an amateur sportsman, and was also prominent in club circles. He was a brother of Mrs. Stanford White and a son of Judge J. Lawrence Smith of Smithtown, L. I.

Mrs. S. J. Wright Dead in St. Paul.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 20.—Mrs. S. J. Wright, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., died at St. Joseph Hospital yesterday, following an operation. She gave up this plan when she was married to Mr. Wright about two years ago in New York. They came to St. Paul soon after, and were among the most popular members of the younger set. Mrs. Wright had been in a serious condition for several days, but her physicians had held out hopes of her recovery.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Made Some Progress in Day of Dull Trading—Gold from Argentina.

Trading fell off considerably yesterday, but the tendency toward recovery which was shown after the break on Tuesday morning was manifested again. The net gains for the most part were not large, but they have to be considered in association with the volume of the dealings, and from that point of view the market presented a satisfactory record. There was not much in the news of a sufficiently decisive character to impress itself upon the market, which in consequence was left largely under the influence of internal factors. Presenting a somewhat conspicuous exception to the general movement, Southern Pacific yielded under no very large amount of selling to the lowest price recorded since the formation of the syndicate which has underwritten the certificates that the Union Pacific has offered to its shareholders. This seemed to reflect the natural pressure due to the forthcoming release of the large amount of stock which is to be sold by the Union Pacific. But even this decline left the price of the certificates 1½ points or more above the price at which the Union Pacific stockholders have the right to subscribe to them. One of the considerations bearing on the market of the next week or ten days is the extent to which support may be extended to these issues by way of offset to the obligations which have been assumed by the underwriting syndicate.

Although it would be difficult to appraise accurately its market influence, the news of the stand which Senator Owen has taken regarding the Currency bill aroused keen interest. As Wall Street interpreted the situation the action taken by the Charman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee considerably lessens the probability of the Currency bill being passed at this session. That prospect is variously regarded by New York bankers. Some would gladly see the entire matter go over, while others consider it most desirable that both the Tariff and Currency bill should be disposed of at this session. It had been understood in banking circles here that the Chairman of the Senate Committee was not entirely pleased with the form which had been given to the Administration's Currency bill, but at the same time yesterday's news caused considerable surprise. If, however, the stand taken by Mr. Owen placed a new obstacle in the way of currency legislation, the vote in the Senate on the sugar item seemed to bring measurably nearer the end of the contest over the Tariff bill. The longer the discussion is drawn out the more pronounced becomes the feeling with many that what is most needed in respect to the tariff is that the bill should be enacted without further delay so that the business men of the country can adjust themselves to the new conditions. Those who take this view of the matter welcome the news of the vote on the sugar item.

We are getting back from Argentina a little of the gold which we exported to that country during the first few months of the year. An engagement of $500,000 was announced yesterday. During the fiscal year ended June 30 we exported to South America $23,300,000 of gold, mostly to Argentina, and mostly during the first three months of this calendar year. During that same period we imported from South America $4,200,000 making a net loss to South America of a little over $19,000,000. The gold which we are now importing from Buenos Ayres is the first considerable consignment from that quarter since 1908. In each year since then with the exception of 1911 we have sent gold to Argentina in amounts varying from $10,000,000 to $28,000,000. It was in 1910 that the maximun figure was reached. Gold has for some weeks been flowing from South America to London, and this consignment from New York fits in naturally with the position of exchange which has led to these South American shipments to Europe. This movement is one of the things which are strengthening the reserve position of the European banks. The Bank of France will show this week a further gain in gold holdings of about $5,000,000. Loans running until the last day of the year were made here yesterday at 5 per cent.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2@2¼ per cent., with the last loan at 2 per cent. The renewal rate was 2¼ per cent.

Time money rates were 3¼@4 per cent. for sixty days, 4½@4¾ per cent. for ninety days, 4¾@5 per cent. for four months, 5½@5¾ per cent. for five months, and 5¼@5½ per cent. for six months.

Clearing House exchanges, $229,643,252; balances, $12,405,695; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $661,493.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 3⅝@3¾ per cent. for short bills, and 3 13-16 per cent. for three months' bills. Paris, 3¾ per cent., and Berlin, 5 per cent. Money was 4⅛ per cent. in Berlin, and 2¾ per cent. in London.

Bankers in Chicago.

The reported change of heart on the part of Senator Owen has not lessened to any extent the importance of the national conference of bankers to discuss currency legislation to-morrow, in the opinion of the New York delegates to the Chicago meeting. There is no pragramme for the session at the La Salle Hotel, and after the opening address by Chairman Hepburn the meeting will be thrown open to those who feel that they have a message to deliver. It was said by a leading New York banker that he had no doubt that the representatives from the different sections would find themselves in accord on the main features of the desired legislation, and that he was sure the provision for twelve regional reserve banks and compulsory subscriptions would be condemned. Many of the smaller banks would like to see a central reserve bank, with the large institutions as members, to which they could go to have their commercial paper discounted. Whatever the decision of the visiting bankers, there is little question that it will exercise an important influence in shaping currency legislation.

An Important Meeting.

To-morrow's meeting is expected to prove the most important gathering of American bankers ever held, with possibly one exception. That was the convention held in 1879 to facilitate the resumption of specie payments. The American Bankers' Association at that time was only four years old. The association was formed in 1875 at the suggestion of a St. Louis banker, who became its first Secretary. This man was passing the Auditorium in St. Louis when a convention in the interest of woman suffrage was dismissed. "If women can organize and come from all parts of the country to work for a common cause, I don't know why the bankers can't get together," he remarked, and promptly sent a call to a number of other bankers for a discussion of the proposed association. A number of pressing problems left from the panic of 1873 were still vexing the financiers, and they welcomed the invitation to form an association.

Saturday Bank Calls.

The complaint made by some of the larger New York banks of the mistake of the Acting Controller, if it was a mistake, in calling for a statement of the condition of national banks of Aug. 9, a Saturday, is borne out by the New York Clearing House statement for that day. The banks pointed out that a large amount of checks in transit would not arrive until too late for inclusion among Saturday's deposits, so that a comparison with any other day of the week would make it appear that the banks with many correspondents had lost a large amount of deposits. The reports of fifty-six banks which are members of the Clearing House showed under the heading, "Exchanges for the Clearing House," a total of $56,460,000 on Aug. 9, as against a total of $149,617,000 on June 4, the date of the previous call. The gross deposits, among which the exchanges would have been included, showed a decrease of $51,226,000, increases in other items having offset in part the loss through the failure to receive checks in time to be credited, while the total resources showed an apparent decrease of $38,510,000, whereas they would have shown a gain had the comparison been made with any preceding Saturday.

Estimate of Brady's Estate Rises.

Friends of the late Anthony N. Brady said when early estimates of his fortune were advanced a few days after his death from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 that even the latter figure probably would prove too conservative. After the financier's will was filed and the public learned something about his great holdings of securities in profitable companies the estimate was raised to $100,000,000, and still those most intimate with Mr. Brady's business affairs shook their heads. They believed that he appraisers' figures would add many thousands to this huge total, and they have not changed their opinion. It was said yesterday by men in a position to speak with some authority that $125,000,000 probably would prove to be more nearly the correct appraisal.

Spot Copper in Small Supply.

Sales agents of copper metal distributing companies are spending a good part of each day with telephone receivers at their ears listening to urgent requests of customers that deliveries be hurried up, and in assuring these customers that it cannot be done. The market is practically bare of "spot" copper, the agents assert, and the only thing the buyer can do is to wait. Sometimes a manufacturer with good contracts for finished material on hand calls up and asks if he cannot have an advance delivery of, say 200,000 pounds, which he previously ordered for September. Then the sales agent beats on his desk with his closed fist as he gives the speaker on the other end a rapid-fire summary of the market's position in words not heated, perhaps, but concise. Officers of the larger selling concerns are chary about making predictions for the future, but they do not hesitate to say that spot metal is a commodity they would like to see more of.

September Payments.

Dividend and interest disbursements in September will amount to $112,023,045, an increase over the same month of last year of $5,149,049, according to the records of The Journal of Commerce. Of the total, dividends alone amount to $58,323,045, a decline of $450,951. Against this recession will stand an increase of approximately $5,600,000 in interest payments of $53,700,000, the advance representing the return on bond and note issues made during the year. The American Tobacco Company will not distribute as much by $7,000,000 as in September, 1912, owing to the fact that stockholders are not to receive anything more than the usual quarterly payment of 5 per cent. The companies to make extra payments, or to make a return to shareholders where none was made last year, are the Standard Oil Companies of California, Ohio and Kansas; Ohio Oil, Eastman Kodak, Liggett & Myers, Continental Oil and American Steel Foundries Company. Smaller disbursements have been voted for Illinois Central, New Haven, International Nickel common, Crown Reserve Mining and American Tobacco.

CROP-FUND PAYMENTS SOON

South to Have $50,000,000 in Two Allotments This and Next Month.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—First deposits of the Government's $50,000,000 fund to aid crop movements will be made in the Southern States in August and September. All deposits in all States will be made in two equal allotments.

In a statement to-day Secretary McAdoo outlined the Treasury Department's requirements for security. While all deposits may be recalled without notice, the Treasury expects to recall 25 per cent. on Dec. 15, another 25 per cent. on Jan. 15, 1914; another on Feb. 15, and the final portion on March 1. The banks will pay 2 per cent. interest and all expenses.

Secretary McAdoo's statement also says the Government expects, by making the deposits in national banks in principal cities, that the funds will be used in good faith for relieving stringency, and not for speculative purposes, and will be distributed to smaller banks at moderate and reasonable interest. Deposits will be placed only with banks which have 40 per cent. of their circulation of national banknotes outstanding.

Ten per cent. of the security must be in Government bonds and the remaining 90 per cent. may be high class State, municipal, and other bonds at 75 per cent. of their market value and approved by the Secretary. Prime commercial or business paper will be accepted at 65 per cent. of its face value when indorsed by the bank, approved by the Secretary, and unanimously approved by a "Securities Committee" of six members in the Clearing House district from which it comes. The Secretary of the Treasury will name one member of each committee.

Commercial paper must represent legitimate commercial transactions, perfectly indorsed with two names and the borrowing bank, but single-name paper will be accepted in the judgment of the Treasury.

The banks may return the deposits at any time before March 1. The Secretary's statement outlined other details of interest chiefly to bankers.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London Market Quiet but Steadier—Prices Generally Higher in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 21.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"There was not very much inquiry for money yesterday, but the rate for daily advances hardened slightly.

"Discount rates were firm, and three months' bills were quoted a shade higher.

"On the Stock Exchange there was no increase in the volume of transactions. Many people, indeed, said there was less doing than ever, but the tone was more cheerful than on Tuesday and in most departments a number of small rises were established.

"Jobbers were nervous at the opening and put down prices, fearing that owing to the Balkan situation stocks would be offered, but there was little or no selling, and in a short time the tendency became steady. Later in the day quotations began to harden a little. Reports as to the relations between Gen. Huerta and Mr. Lind were more encouraging, and most Mexican railway issues left off higher, though below the best prices of the day. The American market also benefited a little from this cause.

"There appeared to be hardly any fresh buying, but in markets such as we have at the moment a movement in either direction is usually followed by a reaction. The sales on Tuesday were not really heavy and had a disproportionate effect on quotations. It would be a mistake to treat yesterday's recovery as anything more than a sequel to the previous day's fall."

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 88 francs 20 centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The Boerse was generally higher to-day on the improved Mexican and Turkish situations.

SOME CUTS IN STEEL PRICES

But Leading Producers Are Still Asking 1.45c., Pittsburgh.

Heavier specifications against existing contracts and continued irregularity of prices for semi-finished material are the feature of the week in the steel market, according to official trade publications. In the way of new business some large contracts have been reported as placed by automobile and implement makers, and some of the companies have announced that the flow of small tonnage contracts has increased over the closing week in July. The Iron Age says:

> The appearance in several instances of the quotation of 1.40c., Pittsburgh, on both plates and structural steel has been a matter of active comment in the past week. Apart from their recent quotations on Government work, it appears that the largest producers have adhered thus far to 1.45c. Several mills in the Central West have sold plates at 1.40c., Pittsburgh, and on some Eastern business shapes have been quoted at 1.40c. As is well known, the leading producers have a large tonnage on their books at 1.45c. and that price is still the rule, while the 1.40c. price is the exception.
> The steel rail manufacturers look for the early appearance of inquiries for 1914, including that of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Semi-finished steel has developed decidedly easier conditions in the past ten days.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Heavier specifications against contracts are reported by some of the leading steel manufacturers for the first three weeks in August as compared with the similar period in July. The tendency toward softening in finished steel prices is not so marked as it was a week or two ago, and the volume of new business is very fair. Some of the mills, however, particularly those in the East, and some of the smaller plants in the Middle West, are in more pressing need for new tonnage to sustain their operations, and this fact is contributing to the irregularity of prices. In the South the stronger condition of pig iron prices is more pronounced. Sales have been more freely made on the $11 Birmingham basis.

GOLD FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

A Shipment of $500,000 Due Here Next Week from the Argentine.

Indications that the United States may get back part of the gold which it has been exporting to South American countries in recent months were supplied yesterday by the announcement of an importation of $500,000 from the Argentine. The gold will be brought here next week by Heidelbach, Ickleheimer & Co.

Gold has been imported from the Argentine and other South American countries in each of the last seven years, but in much smaller quantities than it has been exported. Last year the United States received only $183,000 from this source and exported more than $10,000,000. In 1907 nearly $4,000,000 was brought here from Argentina.

A. A. C. CO. PROFITS DOWN.

Report Shows a Decrease of $84,095 in Last Fiscal Period.

The income account of the American Agricultural Chemical Company for the fiscal year ended on June 30, made public yesterday, showed aggregate profits, after the payment of fixed charges, amounting to $3,146,156, as compared with $3,230,251 in the preceding year, a decline of $84,095. The company set aside $553,431 as a reserve against losses and had left for dividends $2,592,725, an increase of $38,540 over 1912. Earnings applicable to the common stock after meeting the preferred dividend were equivalent to 5.2 per cent.

Chiefly because of the fact that common dividends of 4 per cent. were paid in the year, while only 2 per cent. was distributed in 1912, the surplus was $226,806, in contrast with $991,602 at the close of 1912. The company's total surplus was given in the statement as $7,823,908 at the end of the fiscal period. The balance sheet showed assets of $39,741,715.

Price Marks an Advance of $9,000 Over the Low for the Year.

A sale of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange was reported yesterday at $46,000, an advance of $5,000 over the last previous transfer and a gain of $9,000 over the lowest price recorded this year. The Stock Exchange authorities declined to either confirm or deny the report, but the sale and the price were a matter of general comment on the board room floor. The membership of Phillip Kearny was the last one announced as sold, the buyer being Frank Plummer.

Stock Exchange seats have been advancing steadily ever since the stock market began to improve in activity in July. Several memberships which were offered for sale in midsummer have been withdrawn from the market.

Earnings vs. Dividends

Watch the earnings if you would know the potential return of any corporation.

Our investment department will help you to correct conclusion—and you may start buying with an initial deposit of $20.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Cotton quotations again moved into new high ground yesterday under the most active trading for several weeks. Practically all the new crop positions crossed the 11½-cent mark, and final prices showed increases for the day extending from 11 to 30 points. Wheat and corn advanced from ¼ to ½ cent a bushel in response to a steady, though quiet demand, but oats sold off softly.

WHEAT.

A steady undertone prevailed in the wheat market, and, while there were evidences of selling on the bulges, the market was well maintained and closing prices were ⅜c down from the top, but ¼ to ⅜c net higher. The corn market undoubtedly exerted a bullish influence on sentiment, and operators are not disposed to favor the selling side of wheat as long as cash corn continues to sell about on an even basis in the interior. The foreign news was also of a slightly bullish character, especially reports from Russia, where offerings were said to be much smaller. Country offerings were small in the interior, but receipts were fairly liberal, and new Spring wheat is moving more freely at Northwestern points.

Private advices from Canada were favorable, and a report from Saskatchewan said that a synopsis of the Government report says that cutting is practically finished over districts comprising one-third of that province, with the yield only average, while over the other two-thirds cutting has commenced, but will not be general until the 25th, and the yield is expected to be good.

In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at 94c, cost, insurance, and freight, export basis, and 95½c, free on board. No. 1 Northern Spring, 1.00¼, free on board.

CORN.

The corn market was irregular, but the undertone was firm and final prices stood ¼ to ½c net higher. Recent private crop estimates by three leading authorities ranged from 2,250,000,000 to 2,370,000,000 bushels, and the trade is readjusting itself to new ideas regarding the prospective crop. Interior cash markets were very firm, although it was said earlier in the day that some points in Illinois and Iowa were selling more freely, and this seemed to discourage over-enthusiasm on the buying side. The local cash market was firm, with export corn quoted at 84¼c, nominal, free on board.

OATS.

The oats market appeared to feel the influence of increasing stocks of new oats and prices were easier in the face of the strength in corn, closing at a net decline of ¼ to ⅜c. The local cash market was steady; standard white quoted at 47½ to 48c; No. 2, 48½c; No. 3, 46½ to 47c; No. 4, 46 to 46½c; ordinary clipped white, 46½ to 48c; fancy clipped white, 48½ to 49½c, all elevator.

COTTON.

The cotton market was more active with trading more general yesterday than for weeks, if not months, while prices not only made new high ground for the movement, but sold nearly $3.50 per bale above the low records of last week on some of the active new crop months. Practically all these positions crossed the 11½-cent mark. The close was very steady and within a point or two of the best at a net advance of 11 to 30 points, new crop positions being generally 28 to 30 points net higher.

The buying movement seemed to reflect increasing uneasiness regarding the new crop outlook owing to continued reports of serious deterioration in the Southwest, and more numerous complaints from the Eastern belt, which has been sending in very favorable reports for some weeks past. New Orleans and Southwestern points were credited with buying here, while there was also a considerable demand from houses with foreign connections, but much of the support was again attributed to covering by Southern and Northern shorts.

The market opened firm at an advance of 3 to 11 points on higher cables and the less favorable average of the crop news. The opinion of local map readers that prospects were better for showers in the Southwest promoted realizing at the advance and caused some irregularity, but the official forecast was for continued clear weather, and prices soon firmed up again.

Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to ⅛c higher.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active, but prices were higher owing to an advance in the market and only moderate receipts of hogs at Western points. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 21,000, estimated for Thursday, 20,000; Kansas City received 8,000 and Omaha 7,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was again irregular under quiet business. Prices early in the day were steady, in sympathy with the advance in the cotton and lard markets, but there was renewed profit taking on the advance, and late in the day the near months developed an easier tone, while the distant positions held steady and final prices were 9 points lower to 1 point net higher. Crude oil was offered rather sparingly.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The Acting Secretary of the Board of Education has been informed by the Municipal Civil Service Commission that efficiency records must be entered upon application for promotion before they are forwarded to the commission, and that all applications for examinations for promotion in the Department of Education must be filed as soon as possible.

The Board of Education has received a dispatch, dated Aug. 19, from Portland, Me., signed by Commander E. H. Tillman, U. S. N., in command of the training ship Newport, saying that the Newport was about to depart from Portland for Halifax, and that all on board were well.

There is much speculation as to what action the so-called Progressives, who are in control of the Board of Education, will take in regard to Associate City Supt. John H. Walsh, whose present term of office will expire on Sept. 30 next. Supt. Walsh, who is the author of several arithmetics which are in use in the public schools, has been regarded as one of the members of the Board of Superintendents who have sided with City Supt. Maxwell in his controversies with the present majority of the Board of Education. A close friend of President Thomas W. Churchill said yesterday that the three Associate City Superintendents who are considered to be opposed to the plans and purposes of the Progressives are Thomas S. O'Brien, John H. Walsh, and Edward L. Stevens. The first to suffer was Dr. O'Brien, whose term expired on June 30 last, but who will be permitted to retire next month on a pension of $2,000 a year. The question is whether or not Mr. Walsh will be treated in the same way. The matter will be decided most probably at the next stated meeting of the Board of Education on Sept. 10. Dr. Stevens's term does not expire until Feb. 29, 1916.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Parisian Novelties in Footwear.

Local shoe wholesalers were skeptical yesterday concerning a report from Paris that furs, fancy skins, hand-painted and pyrographic effects would be prominent in next season's shoes for women. "Fur shoes would be altogether too bulky," said one of the best-posted of them. "American women want their feet to look trim. As for crocodile skins, they are too heavy to use, even in men's boots. It is probable that the Parisians are using sheepskin pressed to imitate various fancy skins. That has been done here, but there was no call for that kind of merchandise. The fact that American women won't wear even steel beads on their shoes lessens greatly the chances of their wearing the fish and lizard skin effects which the report says are produced by the use of iridescent steel and mother of pearl scales. Colors cannot be brought out plainly enough in hand-painted shoes to make them popular, and the only place pyrography can be used with any degree of success is in ornamenting felt or leather boudoir slippers. The open-work lace shoes mentioned would probably take all right here."

Plan to Save Postage.

A large manufacturing concern with branch offices in many cities has instituted a mailing method which is saving the firm about $40 a month in postage, and reducing the possibilities of non-delivery of mail. Communications from the different departments in the main offices are now sent to a central desk, whence they are forwarded in large envelopes, one to each agency. Before this system was introduced, six and eight letters a day were often sent to the same branch.

Ice Cream Cones to be Plentiful.

Of vital interest to the small boy is the news from Pittsburgh that a patent has been granted to William Banckmann for an automatic ice cream cone manufacturing machine said to have a capacity of from 50,000 to 100,000 cones a day. To those already in the cone-making business the news may not be so welcome, for the machine, according to the inventor, can do the work of twenty-five men.

⁂

Sending Embroidery Expert Here.

Up to within three years Canton embroidery dominated the markets in such classes of goods in all parts of the world, according to George E. Anderson, Consul General at Hongkong. For the fine trade at least, the best goods are now coming from the Philippines, and Hongkong and Canton embroidery concerns are copying Philippine work. During the past year there was such a demand for these goods in Hongkong that a shop was opened for Philippine goods, especially embroideries. The American demand has developed to such an extent that a Filipino expert is being sent to the United States to study style requirements. The establishment of branch houses of Manila concerns in various American cities is being contemplated.

Store Offers Wireless Prizes.

A large department store in the West has tried successfully a plan to start boys and young men during the vacation season. A wireless telegraph equipment was set up on the roof for the use and instruction of visitors. The company announced that messages inviting amateur operators to visit the store would be sent out and cash prizes given to those recording them correctly. Lectures on wireless were also arranged as well as two sight-seeing tours of the building each day.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Receipts, 5,000 tons, against 9,000 for the previous week, 2,000 last year, and none in 1911; exports, 28,000 tons, against 30,000, 22,000, and 22,000, respectively; stock, 258,000 tons, against 282,000, 185,000, and 28,000, respectively; receipts for the entire island, 14,000 tons, against 16,000, 9,000, and 2,000, respectively. There were six centrals grinding, against six last week, five last year, and five in 1911.

The Simon Hosiery and Underwear Company of this city has been organized to sell direct to the retail trade. The offices are at 19 East Twenty-first Street.

Salt production in the United States last year reached 33,335,000 barrels, 7 per cent. more than in 1911. The output has doubled in fifteen years.

Exports of domestics and cotton duck from this port for the week ended Aug. 16 totaled 9,672 packages, valued at $553,442.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

That fashion is paying considerable attention to hygienic requirements may be noted in the fact that the waistbands of skirts for the thirty-six inch size are now being made from twenty-six to twenty-seven inches, whereas two years ago the waist measurement was twenty-four inches. Even the sixteen-year-old sizes are made two inches larger in the waist. This change, the designers say, is due to the new style of corsets.

Yellowish tints are conspicuous in afternoon gowns for Fall wear. Plaid silks are used in combination with charmeuse, poplin, brocade and moire.

Sashes shown for the Autumn season are wide, and extend from the empire waist line well over the hips.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

$150,000 for 20-Foot Plot in Forty-third Street Near Broadway—Sets New Record for Inside Lots Around Times Square—Buyers in the Bronx and Brooklyn.

A sale in Forty-third Street, close to Broadway, which establishes a new high record for inside lots in the Times Square locality, has just been made by Daniel S. McElroy, one of the Commissioners in the Department of Taxes. It involves the small plot, 20 by 60 feet, at 204 West Forty-third Street, in the rear of Dowling's well-known café on the southwest corner of Broadway. The little plot of 1,200 square feet has been sold for $150,000, an average of $125 a square foot.

The buyer is Anthony Doll. The plot is occupied by a four-story building and on the west it adjoins the Times Square Hotel. The price obtained is an excellent criterion of the rising value of property in the Times Square vicinity, for about fifteen years ago Mr. McElroy bought the property, paying $30,000. There was an element of trade in the deal, as Mr. McElroy took in part payment the six-story apartment, with stores, at 2,480 and 2,482 Seventh Avenue, being the northwest corner of 144th Street, a plot 40 by 100, which figured at about $100,000 in the trade. C. F. Heitman acted as the broker in the transaction.

Less than two years ago Michael Dowling bought the property adjoining the plot sold by Mr. McElroy, being the café building known as the Lyric Hotel, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Forty-third Street, together with the adjoining plot at 202 West Forty-third Street, fronting 20.5 feet on Broadway, 80 feet on the street, including the plot at 202, which has a depth of 60 feet, giving him a total of 2,440 square feet. Mr. Dowling paid about $375,000 for this small plot, which was at the rate of $154 a square foot, a record for Times Square realty, which has not been exceeded.

Mr. Doll, the new owner of 204, has no immediate plans for improvement, buying it purely for investment.

Heights Dwelling in Trade.

James E. Barry & Co. have sold for James C. Brady 508 West 169th Street, a three-story private dwelling on a plot 98 by 85. The buyer, Robert Arnstein, gave lots at West End, N. J., in part payment. The new owner will occupy the premises.

Buyers for Tenements.

The Meister & Bache Realty Company have resold to A. Piccarelli 424 East 122d Street, a three and one-half-story tenement, on a lot 16.8 by 100.11. The same company has also sold to an investor 426 East 122d Street, a three and one-half-story tenement on a lot 16.8 by 100.11.

Reported Deal on East 18th Street.

The three-story and basement private dwelling 315 East Eighteenth Street, on a lot 20 by 92 feet, is reported to have been sold to an investor by Dr. H. A. James.

Bronx Sales.

An investor has purchased from the Daniel Augustus Realty Company 421 Wendover Avenue, a four-story flat house on a plot 37.6 by 84 feet. S. Alvin Piza negotiated the transaction.

C. A. Westervelt purchased from the Brown-Weiss Realties the five-story flat occupying a plot 51.5 by 128 feet on the northeast corner of Hughes Avenue and 181st Street.

W. E. & W. I. Brown have sold for Augusta Stecker the lot on the west side of Trinity Avenue, 500 feet south of East 161st Street, 25 by 148, to a builder for immediate improvement.

Brooklyn.

Henry P. Cain has sold 649 Monroe Street, a two-story two-family frame house, for Max Greenfeld to a client for investment, and 1,622 Benson Avenue, Bath Beach, a two-story one-family dwelling, on plot 28.4 by 100, for Mrs. James G. Cole to a client for occupancy.

Meyer Levenson has sold to a client the northeast corner of Georgia and Pitkin Avenue, a vacant plot, 50 by 100.

Wood, Harmon & Co. have sold at East Midwood two lots on Kenmore Place, near Avenue K, to Theodore L. Northrup, and at Flatbush Gardens, four lots on northwest corner of Avenue P and Kimball Street to P. E. Berlanger.

Optional Sale at Philipse Manor.

Bramwell Davis of the Philipse Manor Company leased, with an option to purchase, the house on the north side of Millard Avenue, near Philipse Avenue, in Philipse Manor, N. Y., to James Elliott of Philadelphia. It is a sixteen room house with four baths, and the plot is 150 feet deep with a frontage of 125 on Millard Avenue.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Slawson & Hobbs have leased the following dwellings: 155 West Seventy-fifth Street, for Ernest H. Bunzel to A. J. Marks; 135 West Ninety-seventh Street for Ida Fransner to G. E. Pembrook; 232 West Seventy-first Street for the Estate of E. H. Behrens to Joseph E. Moore.

Thomas & Son have rented for the estate of Edmund Corlies the private dwelling at 22 West 114th Street, to Elias Walitzky. It will be used for school purposes.

Leases.

Corn & Company have leased for Drury Lane Theatre Inc., the store and basement at 613 Eighth Avenue, to a haberdasher, for a term of years.

Edward Margolies has leased to the McAlpin Hotel Company, the two upper floors in the four-story building at 31 West Thirty-third Street, a short distance east of the McAlpine Hotel. The lease is for five years, at $3,600 a year, and has been taken to supply additional room for the clerical force.

Abandons Building Plan.

The Technology Club, composed of the Alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has abandoned the plan to erect a new clubhouse, and will probably build an addition to its present home at 17 Gramercy Park, South.

The property is owned by Mrs. Mary Gerard, and the club holds a lease that has fifteen years of life, with a privilege of a renewal for a similar term.

Realty Notes.

Ruland & Whiting Company negotiated the exchange of 2,204 Seventh Avenue, and a lot on the north side of 181st Street, 100 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue, between James S. Anderson and Louis Wendel, Jr.

Nine days of grace have been given to store tenants of the old Astor House, the southern half of which is to be razed so that the Broadway subway might be carried under the old hostelry.

Plans have been filed for a one-story brick fireproof gate house or entrance driveway on the north side of Sixtieth Street, 284 feet east of Columbus Avenue, in the rear of 16 to 24 West Sixty-first Street, for Amos Pinchot. It will be 18 by 40.4 feet, and will cost $2,000. Walter Haefeli is the architect.

Size and Layout of the Rooms and the Comfort of them—
The Paint,
The Woodwork,
The Decoration (materials or silks are allowed on four rooms),

It excels them all—

Besides the refrigeration and ice-making in all refrigerators, the use of the vacuum, whenever wanted; the fine light laundry, with electric irons and boiling facilities for the clothes—on the top floor. Last and not least, the Service and Attention given the tenants have enabled the "Langham" to keep thirty-two out of forty-four tenants for over six years, and they have all renewed their leases this year.

HOLDS TAXI STANDS NOW OPEN TO ALL

ODD VEHICLES IN LINE

Expected Disorder Fails to Follow the Invasion by the Outsiders—Some Apparent Inconsistencies.

Independent taxicabs took possession of the stands before the leading hotels of the city last night following a decision handed down by Supreme Court Justice Seabury yesterday afternoon, in which he held the new taxicab and public hack ordinance valid. The decision caught the hotels and the big taxicab companies off their guard, leaving them without the protection of an injunction and without the legal right to do business as public hackmen, since they had neglected to take out licenses either for their vehicles or their drivers. The new ordinance makes the legal rate of fare 30 cents for the first half mile or fraction for not more than two passengers, and for each succeeding quarter mile or fraction 10 cents.

Disorder on the principal stands was expected yesterday afternoon, but there was none. At the Waldorf-Astoria the Yellow Taxicab Company's taxicabs waited on private property in Astor Court, while horse cabs and independent taxicabs gathered on the curb before the hotel.

At the Hotel McAlpin no public cab stand sign was posted, and vehicles of the Mason-Seaman Transportation Company, which held the private stand permit from the hotel, despite the court decision, continued to take places on the public stand among independent vehicles. The Hotel Knickerbocker, which operates its own cabs, put its private vehicles just east of the hotel, before the store of the James B. Regan Importation Company, and allowed the independent vehicles to stand on the old private stand, although no public sign had been posted. According to the starter, the hotel cabs were sent out only for guests of the hotel who had charge accounts. At the Hotel Astor and Rector's the new public stands were occupied by all sorts of vehicles, some of them manned by drivers without the new licenses. They bore all the indications of being vehicles belonging to the taxicab companies.

This action was a surprise, since lawyers for the companies had said earlier in the day that they had advised their clients not to risk the heavy penalties of the new ordinance by operating on public stands without licenses.

The traffic police took no action in the cases of taxis belonging to the big companies which, reserting the old private stands made public by the ordinance, took position on the streets near several of the hotels. Repeated inquiries at various public stands last night failed to disclose any of the Inspectors of the Bureau of Licenses, whose duty it was to see that the ordinance was enforced.

Takes Companies by Surprise.

The effect of Justice Seabury's action was to put more than 1,500 taxicabs owned by companies which fought the ordinance out of business so far as public hacking was concerned. The companies had not taken out licenses for their cabs under the new ordinance and had not obtained licenses for their chauffeurs. William U. Goodbody of 55 Broadway, counsel for the Yellow Taxicab Company, held a conference with lawyers representing the other opponents of the ordinance at his office yesterday afternoon. They expressed surprise that the decision vacated their injunctions at once, without the customary two days' notice.

"This keeps us from turning a wheel as public hackmen," said Mr. Goodbody. He advised his clients not only not to take up positions on the stands on which the new signs of the Bureau of Licenses were displayed, but also to refrain from sending drivers with taxicabs to take their turns in such lines. The penalties for attempting to do business as public hackmen in violation of the ordinance, Mr. Goodbody said, were many and severe.

Mr. Goodbody said that the companies would undoubtedly take an appeal from the decision of Justice Seabury to the Appellate Division, but up to the time the conference adjourned no course of action had been decided upon. A mere appeal to the Appellate Division would not stay the operation of the ordinance pending the appeal, Mr. Goodbody said. Two possible courses of action are to ask the Appellate Division for a stay pending the appeal or to appeal to some Justice for such stay pending the action of the Appellate Division.

Should it be impossible to obtain such a stay, the operation of the taxicabs of the various companies might be held up indefinitely, it was pointed out yesterday, because of the stringent provisions in the ordinance governing the granting of licenses for both drivers and taxicabs. One provision of the ordinance says:

> It shall be the duty of the Chief of the Bureau of Licenses to examine any taximeter attached to any public hack and to see that the same is accurate before issuing a license to such public hack.

The taximeter manufacturers, in a proceeding brought on behalf of the independent taxicab owners not protected by the company injunctions, said last week that no taximeters which would register the new rates of fare were in existence, and that the taximeters could only be manufactured and inspected at the rate of seven a day. This provision of the ordinance alone would prevent company taxicabs from plying for hire as public hacks for a long period, even if the ordinance did not provide as follows:

> No vehicle shall be licensed until it has been thoroughly and carefully inspected and examined and found to be in thoroughly safe condition for the transportation of passengers, clean, fit, of good appearance, and well painted and varnished.

Even a perfunctory examination of several hundred taxicabs under this mandatory provision for a careful and thorough inspection as a condition precedent to the granting of the license would take weeks with the present staff of the license bureau. Doubt was expressed yesterday whether Commissioner Wallace would be able in view of this wording of the ordinance to issue licenses subject to a later inspection should the companies apply for them.

The clause of the ordinance governing the granting of licenses to drivers also is very stringent. This mandatory examination of more than 1,500 taxicab chauffeurs would take considerable time it was pointed out yesterday, and some delay might be occasioned by the further provision of the ordinance that photographs must be filed with each application.

Expect Much Confusion.

The only way by which the company taxicabs may operate so long as the ordinance is in force under Justice Seabury's order vacating the temporary injunctions at once, Mr. Goodbody said yesterday, was as private hackmen. As such private hackmen, he said, it would be possible for the taxicab companies to send their machines, as usual, from garages to private residences, clubs, and hotels, as heretofore. There would be serious delays in service, he said, because the starter would have no taxicab of the company on a line, as heretofore. Mr Goodbody said he did not believe that without a system the public hackmen now licensed could supply the demand for vehicles. This, he added, would lead to confusion.

During the afternoon various hotels called up the legal headquarters of the opponents of the taxicab ordinance to ask if there was any way by which the placing of public hack stand signs on their sidewalks could be prevented. They were advised that there was none.

The Independent Taxi Owners' Association, which led the fight for the new ordinance, made plans yesterday afternoon to attempt to supply the demand for vehicles on the new public stands. There are 135 taxicabs controlled by the association, whose headquarters is in Room 206 of the Gaiety Theatre Building, Broadway and Forty-sixth Street. Two telephone switchboards were put at work, under the direction of Manager and Secretary Edwin S. Goodnow, to receive information as to vacancies on public hack stands so that taxicabs might be sent promptly to fill them. In this way, Mr. Goodnow said, all demands would be satisfied and the assertion of the opposing companies that the abolition of private stands meant the crippling of service would be disproved in practice.

James G. Wallace, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Licenses, got news of Justice Seabury's action a few minutes after it was handed down. He at once closed his desk in his office at 206 Lafayette Street, and ordered his automobile. He had his secretary call for his inspection squad, and ordered the hundred or more public hack stand signs which had been prepared for Aug. 1 brought up from the basement of the building. Calling one of the city's motor trucks, he had the signs loaded on and started out at the head of his squad to place the signs at various public stands.

Justice Seabury's Decision.

In his decision upholding the new taxicab ordinance, Justice Seabury demolished each one of the pleas made by the taxicab companies and hotels. Justice Seabury summed up his judgment in these words:

"The ordinance was not hastily adopted. Careful and thorough examination and investigation of the whole subject matter involved preceded the framing and adoption of the ordinance. Upon the whole, the ordinance must be pronounced a serious and well-considered attempt to remedy abuses which have grown to such an extent as to make the application of a remedy imperative."

Referring to the contention that the ordinance was confiscatory in that it prescribed a lower rate of fare than one under which the companies contended they were, even now, unable to make a profit, Justice Seabury said there was in evidence a report of the Commissioner of Accounts (Raymond B. Fosdick) which said that one of the companies (the Mason-Seaman Transportation Company) had paid $360,000 a year to hotels for the privilege of occupying private stands. Similar conditions were assumed from the contracts of other companies with hotels. Under these circumstances, Justice Seabury held that the rates charged included payments for something besides service, and there was no evidence of confiscation. He also dismissed the contention that public hack stands were in themselves a nuisance to private property owners abutting thereon.

That portion of the ordinance which prohibited any one from occupying the seat next to the driver, Justice Seabury held, was a necessary exercise of the police power, since investigation had shown that crimes had been committed by chauffeurs acting in concert with an accomplice on the driver's seat.

Other objections to the ordinance, Justice Seabury said, were in the form of grievances which could be tested in a court of law, as conditions under them arose. They were consequently out of his jurisdiction in an equity branch of the court passing upon an injunction.

GOV. CRUCE SITS TIGHT.

Afraid to Leave Oklahoma in Lieutenant Governor's Hands.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 20.—Gov. Lee Cruce of Oklahoma, in a letter received to-day by the Chamber of Commerce, declined an invitation to attend the Conference of Governors next week. The letter continues:

"The Lieutenant Governor seems determined to overthrow all of my policies and to make wholesale delivery of criminals from the penitentiary.

"The Criminal Court of Appeals in this State has joined hands with the Lieutenant Governor in this raid on the penal institutions by holding that the moment I leave the State, even if my absence only extends five minutes, the Lieutenant Governor can do as he pleases. Under these conditions it would be a crime for me to leave Oklahoma."

ENJOINS POLICE GUARD.

Court Says Patrolmen May Not Be Stationed Within Suspected Resort.

Supreme Court Justice Crane of Brooklyn enjoined Acting Police Commissioner Newberger yesterday from keeping a policeman on guard day and night within the premises conducted by Morris Dick as a boarding house, dancing pavilion, and restaurant on Seaside Walk, in Coney Island.

The presence of a policeman in Dick's place for several days, even when it was closed, annoyed the proprietor, and he brought suit for an injunction. Justice Crane, in his decision, upheld the right of the police to inspect all places of public amusement. But he held that the activity of the police in Dick's place overstepped the law. He said:

"The police have not only the right but the duty to inspect all such places of public amusement, to prevent crime, and see that disturbances do not occur to break the peace, and with their action the courts will not interfere. This can be done by stationing men in front of the premises, upon the walk, or patrolling the streets, or by passing into and through the dance hall, but to station a policeman inside of private premises which have no liquor license, nor license of any kind, to remain day and night, even when the place is closed, savors of an abuse which should not be continued."

To Tell Grand Jury of Dwyer Raids.

Fifteen patrons of Healy's Restaurant will appear this morning before the Grand Jury to testify against Inspector John F. Dwyer and Patrolman John E. Sheridan, who were held in $1,000 bail on a charge of felonious assault, brought by Gorge F. Flannery, a newspaper man. Flannery, who was in Healy's on the night of Aug. 14, charges that he was attacked when the police were trying to eject the patrons to enforce the Mayor's 1 o'clock closing order.

FOUR BLOCKS GO IN JERSEY CITY FIRE

WORST IN CITY'S HISTORY

Fire Engine Is Consumed in the Street—S. P. C. A. Dogs Shot—Panic in the Tenements.

Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed four city blocks in the La Fayette district of Jersey City. During its progress it consumed six factories, thirty tenements and a lumber yard. It made 1,000 persons homeless and caused a loss estimated to be $1,000,000 before it was got under control after a hard six hours' fight waged by the entire Jersey City Fire Department. A dozen persons were injured.

The fire started at 12:20 P. M. in the storeroom above the office of the cooperage plant of Charles Heidt & Son, at 42 Fairmount Avenue. The employes of the concern at the time were all out at luncheon, with the exception of the head bookkeeper, George McLean, who barely had time to escape as the flames burst into the office through a window at the rear.

The Heidt cooperage factory occupied the entire block bounded by Fairmount Avenue, Factory Street, Florence Street, and Colden Street. In less than half an hour from the time the fire was discovered the plant was in flames, fed by thousands of finished barrels and quantities of dry hoops and staves. The huge pillar of flame, capped by a cloud of pitch-black smoke, could be seen plainly from the skyscrapers across the river.

The fire got a good start because the fire boxes at Fairmount Avenue and Virginia Avenue were pulled almost simultaneously, and most of the firemen headed for the latter box, which was some distance from the fire.

Fire Engine Is Consumed.

Engine Company 10 was the first to reach the scene. The steamer was stationed immediately in front of the Heidt factory, on Fairmount Avenue. Suddenly the wind veered from north to southwest, sweeping a sheet of flame from the cooperage plant across Fairmount Avenue. The firemen scampered down the street for their lives, abandoning the fire engine, which quickly was reduced to scrap iron, while hose several hundred feet in length was burned in the street where the firemen had dropped it.

The flames that routed Engine Company 10 set fire to the entire row of fifteen tenement houses on the opposite side of Fairmount Avenue, chiefly occupied by foreigners. There was an exodus of the occupants of the tenements. Men and women fled in wild alarm, carrying their babies and portable household possessions. So quickly did the flames eat into the two-story wooden tenements that many poor families lost all their possessions, and barely escaped with their lives.

The firemen thought that everybody was safely out of the row of tenements when they saw a woman wringing her hands in front of 88 Fairmount Avenue and crying: "My baby!"

Hearing her cries, a young Italian broke from the crowd of spectators and rushed into the burning building. He soon emerged with a child safely tucked in his arms. A minute later the roof of the building caved in, carrying down both floors with it. The rescuer's name, it was learned afterward, was Patrick Beluchi.

The advance guard of firemen, seeing that the whole downtown part of Jersey City was threatened, sent a general alarm, which brought every piece of fire apparatus in the city to the scene, except a chemical engine.

Shoot Rabid Dogs and Others, Too.

From the row of tenements the flames spread to the metal perforating plant of Charles Mundt & Sons, running through the block from Fairmount to Johnston Avenue. The plant was destroyed.

Immediately adjoining the Mundt plant, at 484 Johnston Avenue, was the headquarters and shelter of the Hudson County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. In the two-story frame building were at the time 50 dogs. Of these dogs, fifteen had been pronounced rabid. As the smoke filtered into the dog shelter, the 50 dogs began to whine and yelp, tugging frantically at their chains as the heat wave struck them. When the roof of the S. P. C. A. building caught fire, and a big gas tank in the rear of the place exploded with a roar like a 14-inch gun, mad dogs and sane alike, driven frantic by the choking fumes, barked as never dogs barked before.

Supt. George McCarthy of the S. P. C. A. stood outside of the building, listening to frantic barking until he could stand it no longer. He hurried into the building. He could not turn the dogs loose, because there was no time to sort out the fifteen mad ones, so he shot all of them, with the exception of five small dogs, which were carried to safety in soap boxes. Meanwhile firemen ran a line of hose to the roof, put out the blaze there, and saved the building.

Across Johnston Avenue were extensive stables. In one of these the Bishop Stables, were twenty-four mules. At the first sniff of smoke they tore themselves loose and ran in a bunch down the street and across country to a ball park, where they were finally rounded up.

Panic Spreads in Tenements.

The firemen tried to save the row of ten tenement houses on Factory Street, opposite the Heidt cooperage plant, but it was a losing battle, and finally the intense heat drove them back.

It was estimated that nearly a thousand persons were huddled in the streets about the fire zone, helplessly watching their homes and belongings consumed. Persons living on the outskirts of the burning blocks, whose homes seemed threatened, called on their neighbors for help and removed their household goods to places of safety. The panic spread rapidly and many families far from the danger zone began to move out.

Another sudden veer of the wind, this time to due south, saved the block beyond Johnston Avenue, but doomed the block to the south of the Heidt cooperage plant. The flames quickly leaped across Florence Street to the roofing material plant of H. Crane & Brother, and fed greedily on the quantities of tar, creosote, and other highly inflammable material stored there, sending up clouds of black smoke.

The Enos F. Sanderson Soap Company on Florence Street was the next to go. A terrific explosion of chemicals stored there, quickly followed by a second explosion, caused the building to collapse.

To the east of the burning area were long stretches of vacant lots used as public dumps. It was not till the wind had again shifted, blowing due east, where there was nothing to catch fire, that the firemen were able to get the flames under control.

Chief of Police Frank Monahan, in command of 100 reserves, said it was the worst fire Jersey City had had within his memory. "I've been seeing them for thirty-five years," he added.

The general alarm brought out automobile ambulances from St. Francis Hospital and the City Hospital, but the doctors had no serious cases to attend. Fireman Quackenbos was overcome by smoke and was dragged unconscious by his comrades from a burning building. He was taken to City Hospital. Fireman Clemons had both hands burned, but he continued his work. Mrs. Margaret Hunt of 464 Johnson Avenue dislocated her arm in trying to remove heavy furniture. She was taken to St. Francis Hospital. Harry Gravenfunkle, a fireman of Truck 7, stepped on a hot nail, which penetrated his shoe. He was removed to his home.

A Mrs. Delamoro, living on Grand street, near the fire zone, became hysterical when the boiler in the Mundt works exploded, and a large piece of iron was hurled through the air, landing on the roof of her house a block away. She was attended by ambulance surgeons.

The work of the firemen was hampered by falling telephone and electric light wires. Scores of linemen were at work late yesterday afternoon clearing them away.

Mayor Fagan was at his office in City Hall throughout the afternoon keeping in close touch with the fire by telephone. Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety James F. Norton and Commissioner of Streets and Improvements James J. Ferris went in person to watch the work of the firemen and police.

Some of the estimated losses follow: Charles Heidt & Sons, $250,000; Charles Mundt & Sons, metal stamping works, $100,000; Crane & Brother, $50,000; E. F. Jones Chemical Works, a soap factory, $50,000; American Copper Plate Works, $50,000; the Lefferts Machine Works, $15,000; Apex Color Works, $20,000; Henry Richard's lumber yard, $25,000; the Grady Company, cooperage factory, $30,000; the Rockwell Furnace Works, $20,000, and the Tabriz Renovating Company, $5,000.

ACTRESS'S GOWNS SEIZED.

Miss Putnam Failed to Declare Them—Man Held as Smuggler.

Miss Alice Putnam, a young actress, who appears in David Belasco's production of "Years of Discretion," was before Surveyor of the Port Nelson H. Henry yesterday explaining why she forgot to declare, on her arrival from Europe on Tuesday, a Parisian gown and other wearing apparel that the customs authorities say may be worth $250.

Miss Putnam, whose home is in Houlton, Mass., came over on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II., and, according to the customs officers, declared goods to the value only of about $50. While examining her trunks the customs Inspectors found the Paris gown, a muff, and a number of articles which, they say, are of foreign manufacture, and none of which was included in her declaration.

Miss Putnam told Gen. Henry yesterday afternoon she had not thought she would be required to pay duty on garments she had worn abroad. The articles said to be dutiable will be appraised to-day.

Isaac Sommer of 189 Lenox Avenue also came over on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., and he, too, was before Gen. Henry yesterday to explain why he had failed to declare jewelry and laces said to be worth $500. The jewelry was found on Mr. Sommer's person and the laces in one of his trunks. The goods were sent to the Appraiser's Stores for valuation.

With Mr. Sommer on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. was Leopold Langer of 261 West 129th Street, and he was another of Gen. Henry's visitors yesterday. He was asked to account for his failure to declare $400 worth of diamonds and pearls. Deputy Surveyor Raczkiewicz examined Langer on the pier, and, among other things, he said, found a pearl necklace nicely tucked away in the shoulder padding of Mr. Langer's coat. Mr. Langer's explanation not being satisfactory, Gen. Henry charged him with smuggling and referred the case to United States Commissioner Stanton of Hoboken for investigation.

SALESMAN HANGS HIMSELF.

He Leaves Note for Persons Who Cannot Be Found.

William H. Swan, 55 years of age, of 141 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, committed suicide last night by hanging himself. Swan had lived in the house about three months. He said he was a salesman.

James V. Childs found Swan hanging from a transom. On a piece of paper found on the floor was a note. It read: "Please notify E. T. Dillingham, care of Charles Silverman, Forty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue, New York. Also notify my brother, R. M. Swan."

There was nothing to indicate the address of the suicide's brother. Nobody at the house or in the neighborhood could give any idea as to what caused Swan to take his life. None of the persons named in the note could be found last night.

DEMANDS INCLOSED EXITS IN FACTORIES

Miss Perkins Asks Industrial Board to Compel Owners to Install Them.

INSISTS IT HAS THE POWER

Head of Real Estate Board Protests That Such Action Would Leave Many Tenantless.

Plans to accomplish the fireproofing of factory buildings less than four stories high in New York State by the decree of the Industrial Board of the State Department of Labor were discussed yesterday at the first of a series of public hearings on fire-prevention methods at the Department of Labor headquarters, 381 Fourth Avenue. The first matter brought up was that of promulgating an order by the Industrial Board calling for the construction of inclosed staircases in every factory building in the State, regardless of its height.

Miss Charlotte Perkins, Secretary of the Committee on Safety, made a plea for the assumption of greater powers by the Industrial Board, and said that it would be a great humiliation if her organization were compelled to return to the Legislature to obtain the very results which the Industrial Board was created to provide. She said that as one who had helped to draw up the legislation creating the board, she knew it had authority under the powers granted it to make regulations to safeguard the lives of workers and to compel the building of inclosed fireproof stairways.

E. A. Tredwell, President of the Real Estate Board, said he felt pretty badly about the way Miss Perkins and others of the Committee on Safety had in times past assailed him and the members of the Executive Committee which had worked with him.

"The amendment exempting buildings under four stories high from the inclosed stairway law was an amendment we procured," he said. "And because of that we are held responsible for the Binghamton fire. But we see a side of this problem perhaps others do not. We know that a great number of buildings—many blocks of buildings on Broadway, even, I might say—have what we call a 'carrying value' and not an 'investing value.' If we should be compelled to build fireproof staircases in these old buildings we would have to pay often more than the buildings are now worth. And that would end in only one way. Tenants, rather than pay the higher cost, would move away. You would merely paralyze trade in a great section of the city and doom many buildings to a tenantless estate."

George W. Alger, an attorney, said he was sure no court would dare to overrule the Industrial Board if it should exercise the power to regulate factory conditions by requiring safe fire exits.

Chief Guerin of Fire Commissioner Johnson's Bureau of Fire Prevention said that in a great many cases factory owners had bought old buildings adjoining factory sites and had taken out the staircases in these buildings on adding them to their factories. He said he was sure the Industrial Board ought to go as far as the courts would let it instead of merely doing as little as the law required of it. He advocated the enforced installation of sprinkling systems as well as the enforced building of inclosed staircases of fire-resisting material.

J. T. Stewart of the Board of Fire Underwriters said that his experience suggested that a building honeycombed with floor-openings for freight elevators, as was the case in many factories, became a fire risk too great even to make a stairway inclosed in fireproof material safe as an exit. He advocated the enforced inclosing of all elevator shafts to prevent them from becoming flues for the transmission of fire from floor to floor.

The Industrial Board will continue its sessions to-day and Friday, and probably will issue an order on Monday embracing the results of the public hearings.

TAKES DAUGHTER FROM HIM

Court Listens to Girl's Story of Hampered Affections.

Catherine Mongo, a 17-year-old girl og 605 Water Street, sought an interview with Magistrate Barlow in the Tombs Court on Monday afternoon, and said to him:

"My father wants me to marry a certain young Italian. I refused, because I want to marry another, a man of my own choice. Because I wouldn't do what my father told me he locked me in my room. I climbed through the window and got on the roof next door, and came here."

Magistrate Barlow called in Miss Rembaugh, an attorney, and placed the girl in her charge. He issued summonses for the girl's father, Daniel Mongo, and mother. They came to court yesterday and told the Magistrate that their daughter was headstrong and wanted her own way.

"After considering this case," Magistrate Barlow finally told the father, "I have come to the conclusion that you are not fit to be the father of such a girl. I am going to place her in the care of friends in Brooklyn, whose address I will not disclose to you. If you do find out her address, keep away from her."

TO REDUCE TRACTION DEBT.

Public Service Commission to Hear Bond Issue Request.

The Public Service Commission will hold a public hearing on Aug. 26 before Commissioner Williams on the application of the Dry Dock, East Broadway, and Battery Railroad for the consent of the commission to issue a refunding mortgage to cover the issue of $1,500,000 Series "A," $560,000 Series "B," and $2,240,000 Series "C" bonds, making a total of $4,300,000. The first bonds are to bear 5 per cent. interest and be a prior lien, the second interest at 4 per cent., and to be prior lien over the succeeding series, and the third to bear interest at 4 per cent. The railroad company states that the refunding will make a total reduction of $1,654,594.58 in its debts.

On Sept. 8 the commission will hold a hearing before Commissioner Eustis on the application of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company for permission to abandon that part of its route in the Bronx known as the Throgs Neck Branch, extending from Clason Point to Throgs Neck.

On Sept. 3 another hearing will be held before Commissioner Maltbie on the application of the Belt Line Railway Corporation and the Third Avenue Railway Company for permission to increase the capital stock of the Belt Line Company from $600,000 to $750,000, to insure capital stock of the Belt Line to pay the cost of acquiring storage battery cars and to authorize the acquisition by the Third Avenue Company of such capital stock.

The commission has disapproved the plan submitted by W. S. Menden, Chief Engineer of the New York Municipal Railway Corporation for proposed changes in the Eighty-sixth Street station of the Fourth Avenue Subway, Brooklyn.

Roseville Trust Co. Wiped Out and Smith Still Missing.

That the shortage in the accounts of the defunct Roseville Trust Company in Newark, which was closed last week by the State Department of Banking and Insurance, will reach $358,000 was the statement made yesterday by Deputy Commissioner L. R. Vredenburg. The loss wipes out the capital, surplus, and profits amounting to about $189,000. If the Directors do not make up the deficiency, which they have intimated they would, the depositors stand to lose $169,000.

Detectives who have been hunting for Raymond E. Smith, the missing secretary-treasurer, have so far failed to get any trace of him.

It was said that the National Surety Company, which was on Smith's bonds, may refuse payment on the grounds of misinformation or lack of information concerning Smith's character made at the time of application for the bond.

On the face of Vredenburg's statement, William Fairlie, Vice President of the trust company, declared that he had no statement to make, but saw no hope in the company's affairs.

After Deputy United States Marshal Louis G. Beekman had made affidavit yesterday that he was unable to find Smith, George Furst, attorney for the receiver, Wilfred C. Roszel, announced that he would apply for leave to serve notice by publication. Mr. Furst said he would apply to the United States District Court for permission to continue the business of the Oakland Motor Sales Company and of Louis J. Wuth, Inc., owned by Smith.

5 MOTOR CYCLISTS CLASH.

Edward Bowen, New York Racer, Badly Hurt in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20.—Five motorcycle racers crashed together here tonight during a five-mile race at the Motordrome, and as a result Edward Bowen of New York City is in the hospital with a broken shoulder and serious internal injuries and four other riders are in the hospital suffering from severe cuts, bruises, and minor internal injuries. These are James Cox of Dallas, Glen Stokes of Los Angeles, Bert Bruggerman of Denver, and Lawrence Fleckenstein of Denver.

The accident occurred on the second lap while the racers were closely bunched and going at terrific speed. Stokes was leading and forced the other four riders up to the top of the track. Bowen went over the rail and his machine slid down the track, upsetting the other four. Bowen, Stokes, and Cox were carried from the track, the former unconscious.

Five thousand people in the crowd jumped from their seats, and hundreds near where Bowen left the track rushed for the exits, expecting the rider to crash into them. A panic ensued for a time, but no one was injured.

Neurology Congress Opened.

RETURNED AFTER 9 YEARS.

Mrs. W. H. Fowler Gets Back Long-Missing Diamond Brooch.

Mrs. W. H. Fowler of 695 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, is rejoicing over the return of a diamond brooch which was stolen from her more than nine years ago. It was returned to her yesterday by mail.

Mrs. Fowler lived on Willoughby Avenue when the brooch was stolen. It was a birthday gift from her husband eleven years ago. When she went to wear it one day, it was gone. Mrs. Fowler never found any clue to its whereabouts and had no suspicion as to who took it.

Yesterday, when the postman rang the bell, Mrs. Fowler went tt the door, and he handed her a small cardboard box. She wondered what the contents of it were and opened it. She was astonished when the brooch fell out into her hand. There was no message from the mysterious sender, and nothing by which the route of the package could be traced.

DEATH HALTS A STEAMSHIP.

Bermudian Puts Young Woman Ashore on News of Father's Fate.

Just as the Quebec Steamship Company's liner Bermudian was backing out of her pier at 11 A. M. yesterday to start on her voyage to Bermuda a wireless message received on the pier told of the sudden death at his home in New Britain, Conn., of Councilman George A. Robinson, father of Miss Nellie Robinson, one of the Bermudian's passengers.

The Bermudian had drawn just clear of the pier when the pier Superintendent signaled to the officer of the bridge to stop the vessel. A little later a tug drew up alongside and Miss Robinson was brought ashore. She started at once for her home.
